Puts Appeal in Name of Humanity.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Old Point Comfort, Va., Oct. 18.—(Special.)—President Hoover chose this Sunday before his participation in the pageantry of the Yorktown celebration tomorrow to beseech the people of the nation to fulfill the Christ-taught beatitude of sympathy for one's fellow man.

Coming ashore from the bristling, gray warship Arkansas to sit before a microphone in the home of Fortress Monroe commandant, he appealed for generous funds to help those who are ailing and faced with privation through the cold crisis of the approaching winter.

America's test, the President told his countrymen, is not merely the strength of her banks and her business, of her farms and her factories, but is a trial of the essential spirit of humanity. And at the end as a timely conclusion, he reminded all Americans how the colonial forefathers passed through privations that reached their peak in the winter of Valley Forge and came at last to the triumph of Yorktown.

With the Arkansas idling at anchor off Cape Henry most of the day, President and Mrs. Hoover spent a Sunday of quiet and rest. They attended divine services and heard Chaplain [illegible] Pearce pray that the navy might be kept strong for the country's protection. Shortly before 6 o'clock the President went ashore to make his radio address. Tomorrow he will go ashore again at Yorktown to speak in the morning and in the afternoon to review the pageant.

More Than Financial Crisis.

"I would," said President Hoover, "that I possessed the art of words to fix the real issue with which the frontal world is faced into the mind and heart of every American man and woman.

"Our country and the world are today involved in more than a financial crisis. We are faced with the primary question of human relations, which reaches to the very depth of organized society and to the very depth of human conscience. This civilization and this great complex, which we call American life is builded not one alone survive upon the transaction, but individual action of that fundamental philosophy announced by the Savior nineteen centuries ago. Part of our national suffering today is from failure to observe these primary yet inexorable laws of human relationship. Modern society cannot escape with the defense of Cain, 'Am I my brother's keeper?'"

"Neither politics, nor science, nor any of the man created machinery of social relations can relieve humanity of its duty to help one another, said the President.

Trial Is Here Now.

"No governmental action, no economic doctrine, no economic plan or project can replace that God imposed responsibility of the individual man and woman to their neighbors," he declared. "That is a vital part of the very soul of the people. If we shall gain in this spirit from this painful trial we shall have created a greater and more glorious America. The trial of it is here now. It is a trial of the heart and conscience, of individual men and women."

The provision of security for those who face unemployment and privation this winter, said the President, "depends upon the sympathetic and generous action of every man and woman in our country."

"No one with a spark of human sympathy can contemplate unmoved," he declared, "the possibilities of suffering that can crush many of our unfortunate fellow Americans if we fail them."

He called upon the nation to meet the crisis with "that completeness of effort and that courage and spirit of which citizenship in this nation always has stood and always must stand."

Thousands to Be Assisted.

The President recalled his effort for relief of nation through the formation of the Gifford committee and said "a thousand towns and cities have organized relief agencies which must be assisted.

"This organized effort," he said, "is an opportunity to express our sympathy, to lighten the burden of the unfortunate, and to cast sunshine into the darkness of despair.

"The amounts being sought by the [illegible] in your town or city are

THOMAS EDISON WILL BE BURIED AT MILAN, OHIO

Funeral Rites to Be Held Wednesday.

BULLETIN.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 19.—(AP)—The body of Thomas A. Edison, escorted by motorcycle policemen and followed by two automobiles carrying members of his household, was moved from his home to the library of his plant laboratory, a half mile away, at 6:45 a. m. today.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Thomas A. Edison, denied the solace of his laboratory in his last days, will return to his workshop tomorrow.

The kindly, white haired, deaf old man who possessed the greatest inventive brain in the world, died at 3:24 o'clock this morning after a stubborn fight against a combination of diseases which became serious last August.

Tomorrow and Tuesday he will lie in the library of his workshop where he longed to be every waking hour of his life. His funeral will be on Wednesday. Burial will be in Milan, O., the little village in which he was born, almost 85 years ago.

Only the family and close friends will be present at the funeral. President Hoover hopes to be there, and Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, two old companions, have left their homes for West Orange.

Body Will Lie in State.

But first the body of the man whose creative brain added an estimated $30,000,000 a year to the nation's wealth over a period of half a century will lie in state in the library of his laboratory just over the hill from his home.

The world expressed its sorrow at the passing of Mr. Edison and messages from the high and the humble poured into Llewellyn Park throughout the day. The scene was peaceful, however, and all was quiet in the rambling old red brick mansion on the hillside.

Mr. Edison's coming death had been accepted weeks ago. The aged inventor told his physician, "My work is done and I do not care to be a burden to my family."

Death Mask Is Made.

Wednesday will mark the 52d anniversary of the perfection of the incandescent lamp, Edison's gift to mankind. Tonight a sculptor worked beneath the powerful rays of one of these electric lights as he made a death mask of the face that is known in every corner of the world. When it was finished Mr. Edison's body was placed in a simple bronze coffin to be taken early tomorrow to the laboratory.

Flowers filled the rooms of the dead inventor's Glenmont mansion, but the library of the workshop where he will lie in state and where the public will file past his bier from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m. for two days, is filled with books and test tubes.

A double balcony circles the big room and from floor to ceiling the shelves are lined with scientific volumes. Precious notebooks filled with formulae are in separate shelves. A vault holds more important papers that may prove a great legacy to the world. There is an old-fashioned roll-top desk in a corner—Mr. Edison's working place. There is a cot in an alcove—Mr. Edison's resting place.

Death Comes Gradually.

For eighteen days Mr. Edison has been sinking into his last sleep. His death this morning came so gradually and almost imperceptibly that his family gathered at the bedside could see no change between life and death. Dr. Hubert S. Howe, who has attended him in his illness, had been certain of the end since the afternoon before, and at 3:24 told them Mr. Edison had ceased breathing.

Until he became too ill to talk, Mr. Edison had maintained an attitude of agnosticism toward an after life, insisting that "no one knew." Tonight Dr. Howe revealed that several days before he died Mr. Edison had awakened as from a dream and, looking upward with a smile, remarked:

"It is very beautiful over there."

FRIGHT BRINGS WOMAN'S DEATH AFTER ROBBERY

Miss Kitty Enright, 52 years old, 627 South Ashland avenue, died at the county hospital yesterday less than twelve hours after she had been robbed of her purse on the street. Physicians held that she had literally been frightened to death.

Miss Enright was walking near her home Saturday evening when a robber ran up and seized her. Taking the purse, which contained only 42 cents, he gave his victim a push. Then he fled.

Going to her room, Miss Enright told friends that she had not been injured, but that she had been made ill by the shock. Several hours later she fell into a coma and was taken to the hospital. She never regained consciousness. A post-mortem examination showed that death had been caused directly by a cerebral hemorrhage.

AMMONIA FUMES DRIVE WALKERS FROM I. C. TUNNEL

Dozens of south siders walking through the tunnel to the Randolph street station of the Illinois Central road were driven to the street early this morning by escaping ammonia fumes.

The fumes came from a leak in a refrigeration plant just installed in a florist booth in the subway. Men and women crossing under Michigan avenue from the west side of the street were driven back and up the stairway to the open. No one was seriously affected. Firemen with gas masks repaired the leak.

MANY KILLED BY MINE EXPLOSION IN RUHR DISTRICT

HERNE, Westphalia, Germany, Oct. 19.—(AP)—An undetermined number of persons were killed and injured this morning in a disaster at the Mont Cenis colliery near here. All available physicians from the neighboring territory were called, and four Red Cross trucks were removing the dead and injured.

The cause of the disaster was not revealed, but it is believed to have been due to fire damp. Operators of the mine refused to state what happened or how great the damage was. All rescue squads in the Ruhr valley were called out to render first aid.

Aimee's Boston Revival Meet Ends; $5,000 Deficit

Boston, Mass., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton's nine day revival program at the Boston Garden wounds up with an estimated deficit of $5,000, but the Boston unemployed are assured of $808 when a personal plea from the Los Angeles evangelist brought in that amount in the form of a special collection from the throng of 12,100 persons who stormed the Garden tonight.

Gang Mystery Veils Killing of Matt Kolb

Motives were being sought yesterday for the murder of Matt Kolb, gambling and beer gang chief of the northwest side, when no hint of the identity of the killers was forthcoming. Kolb was shot seven times by one of two men who entered his roadhouse, the Club Morton, at Dempster road and Ferris avenue in Morton Grove, at 1:45 o'clock yesterday morning.

Three of the employés of the roadhouse said they saw the slayers, but did not recognize them and could not identify them from pictures because they saw the men in the dark. They said Kolb evidently knew the men because one of them said, "Hello, Matt," and Kolb was reaching to shake hands with him when the other man shot him six times.

The killing was obviously a gang execution, the police said, when they learned that after the assassins started to flee one said "I'd better make sure," and, returning, fired a seventh shot into Kolb's head.

Police Seek the Motive.

An exchange of information between the county highway police and the Chicago detective bureau resulted in these questions:

"Was Kolb killed for refusing to contribute to Al Capone's defense fund?"

"Was he doomed for refusing to appear as a witness for Capone and help the defense by testifying that Capone had lost large sums to him through gambling?"

"Had he been trying to regain the beer customers Capone took away from him two years ago, anticipating Capone's conviction and thinking the Capone syndicate would break up?"

"Did he refuse to deal with the Capone syndicate in the gambling operations he conducted in the Club Morton and elsewhere?"

No answer was found to any of these questions.

Lieut. Meyering's Story.

Lieut. James Meyering of the highway police said he was at the Morton Grove station when a call was received at 1:50 o'clock saying there was trouble at the Club Morton. A minute later, as he was leaving for the scene, another call said the place was being robbed. Kolb's place is but a three or four minute drive from the police station and Lieut. Meyering arrived at the scene a few minutes after Kolb was killed.

Robert Lutz, the bartender, described the shooting. Paul Bolenski, the yard man, told of two men alighting from an automobile, forcing their way past him into the building, and later running back to their car. William Mardorf, 635 South 16th avenue, Maywood, manager of the road house, told of two men brushing past him as they entered, pushing him aside.

"Could Not Identify Killers."

"All these witnesses said they would be unable to identify the killers," said Lieut. Meyering. "Mardorf first told us he had a look at the face of one of the assassins and didn't know him."

The highway police said they were not aware that Kolb was operating a roulette wheel or permitting other gambling.

"There was no gun in the place and we were told Kolb never carried a gun," Lieut. Meyering said. "About two weeks ago he called the station and said four men in a car were circling his place. I went there and watched, but the men were gone. I questioned Kolb. He was nervous, but claimed he didn't know why any one would try to harm him. He thought they were going to rob him, he told me."

Kolb Former Beer Chief.

Kolb was formerly the head of a beer syndicate that operated on the northwest side and in the northwest portion of Cook county. When Charles Graydon became sheriff in 1927 Kolb, who had formerly worked for Graydon in the ice business, went through the county claiming a relationship with the sheriff. Kolb became an important figure in the gambling and beer syndicate, dispensing privileges and collecting tribute, according to later revelations.

When Jack Zuta was killed a year ago last July his documents showed that a sizable share of the profits of his vice and gambling ventures went to "M. K." Investigators declared that "M. K." was Matt Kolb.

Tax Conviction Term May Be Set Tomorrow

Al Capone probably will be sentenced to the penitentiary on his conviction of attempted income tax evasion when he appears before Judge James H. Wilkerson tomorrow with the usual post-verdict motions. It is customary in the federal courts for a man under conviction to be sentenced immediately after his motions for a new trial and arrest of judgment are overruled, and Judge Wilkerson, has an equity case beginning on Wednesday.

JUDGE WILKERSON.

Capone faces a possible maximum sentence of fifteen years in the penitentiary, plus two years in jail, and fines totaling $50,000 on his conviction of three felonies and two misdemeanors by a jury late Saturday night.

Guzik's Sentence Longest.

The longest penitentiary term of record in an income tax case is five years and a day, imposed upon Jack Guzik, Capone's "financial secretary," by Judge Charles E. Woodward. However, Judge Wilkerson may set a new precedent, giving Capone a stiffer sentence, if he sees fit.

When Capone pleaded guilty to tax fraud and booze conspiracy, having an understanding with the government as to punishment, he let it be known that the sentence was to be two and one-half years. Judge Wilkerson told Capone "it is utterly impossible to bargain with a federal court." This has led to speculations that Capone, having been convicted by a jury, may receive a sentence unprecedented in tax fraud cases.

Capone Lawyers to Appeal.

Capone will not go to the penitentiary immediately, for his lawyers, Albert Fink and Michael Ahern, have made it known that they base strong hopes on a reversal by a higher court. Pending this appeal Capone's six months' sentence for contempt of court, imposed by Judge Wilkerson last February, probably will be served in the county jail.

The contempt case, in which Capone was found guilty of feigning illness to evade a federal grand jury summons, is up for a hearing in the Circuit Court of Appeals early in November, and a decision probably will be handed down by December. Federal prosecutors believe that the defense can find little ground on which to take the contempt case to the United States Supreme court, and even if they did it would be disposed of by spring.

The prosecutors are hopeful that not more than a year will be required to dispose finally of Capone's appeal from his income tax conviction.

Show Speed in O'Brien Case.

Other cases have taken longer, but the case of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien was cited as an example of what may be done to expedite the disposition of an appeal. O'Brien was convicted of tax fraud last December. His case has been affirmed by the appeals court and his petition for a writ of certiorari is now on file with the Supreme court. If this is denied he should be in the penitentiary within a year of his conviction.

The Capone prosecutors, headed by United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, have indicated that they will ask Judge Wilkerson to stipulate an early date for the filing by the defense of a bill of exceptions as a condition for the granting of a writ of supersedeas for Capone. This would mean that his case would be disposed of by the Appeals court during this

JAPAN REJECTS LEAGUE'S TERMS TO FIX PEACE

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Oct. 19 (Monday).—(AP)—Official Japanese circles today raid the league of nations council's terms for settlement of the Manchurian dispute with China were entirely unacceptable to the Tokio government. The council asks that Japan give assurances evacuation of the controverted areas will be completed within three weeks and that China and Japan begin direct negotiations before hand.

BY EGBERT SWENSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Oct. 18.—Japan's withdrawal from the league of nations loomed sharply tonight following an exchange of notes between Tokio and Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and chairman of the league council, which is struggling to end the Manchurian disturbance. At midnight the entire Japanese delegation was in secret conference.

FRANCIS B. GILBERT.
[Harris & Ewing.]

The possibility arises meanwhile that Washington may become the real mediator to settle the Chinese-Japanese difference. A Japanese spokesman said he felt that President Hoover, Secretary of State Stimson, and his assistant secretary, William R. Castle, who all have a special knowledge of conditions in the far east, would be far more competent to mediate the controversy than "the league pundits who have never been outside of Europe."

Bitter Protest Note.

Japan broke the Sabbath quiet of the league's headquarters this morning with a bitter and unexpected note, reiterating and emphasizing her protest against the presence of an American representative at the council table during consideration of the Manchurian question. This representative is Prentiss R. Gilbert, American consul at Geneva. The note declared that Japan did not see why the United States, any more than any other nonmember, should be asked to sit in.

Briand, in a note just as surprising for its curt tone, flatly refused to reconsider the legality of inviting the United States. A Japanese spokesman said the Nipponese were shocked at the tone of Briand's reply.

"We wonder if he and the rest of the council mean that they want Japan to quit the league," he exclaimed, adding that the Japanese were so nonplussed at the nature of the reply that they sent it to Tokio without comment.

The spokesman almost eagerly discussed the probability of Japan retiring from the league. He admitted that Japan is faced with a decision of either knuckling down and humiliating herself by submitting to Briand's rebuke, or of resigning from the league.

Call Off Plenary Session.

The public session of the council called for tomorrow morning was canceled after the Japanese declared that Kenkichi Yoshizawa, their chief delegate, would take part only to the extent of again vigorously protesting against American participation. Instead a secret meeting will be held to discuss Briand's secretly conceived scheme to solve this crisis.

Japan's protest this morning was couched in resentful language far different from that of usual diplomatic communications. It accused the league of bad faith in stating as a pretext to have America represented on the council board, that it was only a matter of procedure because it was more efficient than communicating by cable and hence did not require a unanimous vote. It asserted further that dragging the United States in because it signed Kellogg-Briand peace pact was merely a subterfuge.

"The Kellogg pact was signed by numerous states which are not members of the league, and inviting the United States alone creates a grave issue," the note also said. "Furthermore, that attitude of the council indicates the invitation to the United States was not simply a question of procedure."

The memorandum closed with a brusk demand to know just when the question of the legality of the invitation would be considered, and also, if the examination showed that the invitation was illegal, what would be done about the proceedings in which an American has already been sitting.

Briand in his reply agreed that the question of the legality might be reexamined at a later date, but he insisted that the American representative should remain at the meetings and the council should go on with its business.

Japan "Stands Pat."

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Oct. 18.—The Japanese government will not accept the proposal of the league of nations that evacuation of Manchuria comes before negotiations. Evacuation of a few places the Japanese hold outside the railway zone is not a matter of any military importance, but it has become a symbol of Chinese victory, according to a government spokesman.

Consequently in demanding an evacuation preceding the negotiations, the league is propounding a condition which in the present temper of Japanese opinion, including that of the army, leads only to a deadlock, he stated. The Chinese, who today have been letting off fireworks in celebration of America's participation at Geneva, believe the league, in insisting upon evacuation, is pronouncing in favor of China, while the Japanese take it as a censure.

National Opinion Behind Army.

Foreign Minister Shidehara, observers here state, must be conscious of the juridical weight of the league's arguments, but he cannot, even if he would, advance towards meeting them. National opinion, they say, exasperated by years of Chinese flouting, has now crystallized behind the army.

All parties agree that Japan does not want to hold permanently the points which she now occupies. The minority, including some very distinguished figures, would evacuate tomorrow if the Chinese could guarantee security. They are said to realize that after the demonstration the Japanese army has given of its superiority, it is unnecessary to hold two or three towns in Manchuria as pledges for settlement. But the whole army and a large majority of the public believe evacuation at present would be an admission that Japan was wrong.

Japan's Attitude Defined.

"It is true that the Kellogg pact renounces war as an instrument of national policy, but the action taken by Japan Sept. 18 was purely in self defense, and all minor military operations which followed are concomittant or corollary to that basic fact. There is no question of either national policy or any idea of war. The Kellogg pact forbids the use of any but peaceful means.

"Japan is seeking settlement of her dispute with China by peaceful means, when she insists on direct negotiations. Direct negotiations between parties to a dispute is the most natural step. Japan and China must first meet together to see if they can reach terms of settlement before resorting to any other means. Then an appeal to the league would be one of many peaceful means open."

U. S. Stresses Anti-War Pact.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The United States tonight was ready to help direct the full force of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact against the threatened outbreak in the orient.

Secretary of State Stimson, however, will withhold a formal American note to Japan and China calling their attention to obligations under the treaty until formally notified of the invocation of the pact by the league of nations council.

Wholehearted support of the league's action was clearly indicated.

CHINA IS JUBILANT LEAGUE INTENDS TO INVOKE KELLOGG PACT

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 19.—[Monday.]—The French minister, M. Wilden, officially notified the Chinese government last night that the league of nations is formally invoking the Kellogg-Briand pact to preserve peace between China and Japan. Nanking was jubilant at the news.

Japan's statement that she has not gone beyond measures of self-defense in Manchuria and that the league of nations' "interference" therefore is unnecessary and will be promptly replied to by Nanking which is preparing a detailed statement.

The three Manchurian provinces have all established their army headquarters formally at Peiping. Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, Manchurian war lord, and the chairman of the Heilungkiang provincial government have issued a joint order to troops stationed at Manchuli and Hailar to proceed to Tsitsihar to reinforce the troops which are trying to regain the city recently lost to the "independence" forces. The Kirin government likewise has dispatched two brigades. According to reports tonight, Marshal Chang's troops defeated Cheng Chia-peng, leader of the "independence" troops.

The Japanese have increased their forces along the Peiping-Mukden railway, while the five star flag of the former Peiping government is being used by the "dummy" government at Mukden.

The Fengtien dollar has fallen to 90 to a silver dollar.

President Chiang Kai-shek will come to Shanghai Tuesday to meet the Cantonese factions. The legislative yuan has passed a resolution for an immediate enforcement of universal military service.

SWANSON JOINS IN DEMAND TO END MOVIE ROW

"Settle It Today," He Tells Factions.

State's Attorney Swanson yesterday notified representatives of the Moving Picture Operators' union and the Allied Theater Owners to appear at his office this morning prepared to settle their controversy or "face the consequences." He joined with Mayor Cermak in the ultimatum that no more bombings or other terroristic acts would be tolerated and official action of some kind was promised if the dispute is not settled today.

JOHN A. SWANSON.

Mayor Cermak threatened "drastic action" if the unionists and theater owners have not reached a peaceful agreement by noon today. Prosecutor Swanson's edict was just as forceful. This is the last official effort to negotiate or arbitrate, he said, and if it fails other means will be adopted.

Actions Are Suggested.

What the mayor and the state's attorney have in mind to use as a club at the parley this morning neither would reveal. But questioning the lawyers on both sides revealed these possibilities:

1. All officials of the union and all operators who can be found will be arrested every time a bomb is thrown and union headquarters raided frequently.

2. Use of the police power by the mayor in ordering every moving picture theater in the city to close as a measure of public safety, just as could be done as a health measure if an epidemic of disease were involved.

After the 15th bomb had been thrown since the theater owners replaced union operators with nonunion men in nearly 100 show houses Mayor Cermak conferred with Corporation Counsel Sexton on the use of the power of his office, it was learned, and he and Swanson joined forces.

Maloy Case Up Today.

Indictments voted against Thomas Maloy, business agent of the operators' union and long called "czar of the moving picture industry," and several of Maloy's henchmen, charging them with conspiracy to ruin the business of the theater owners, are on the call of Judge John Prystalski in the criminal court this morning. A continuance is expected, it was said yesterday, as neither side is prepared to go to trial now while the "bombing epidemic" is on.

The controversy began with the demand of the owners that only one operator be employed in 104 theaters. Maloy insisted two operators be continued. Concessions so far offered include allowing 27 theaters to use but one man—the rest to use two—and wage reductions in other theaters. The owners say, however, they cannot afford two operators, even with wages reduced.

KICK BISHOP CANNON OUT OF OFFICE, PLEA OF ATLANTA MAYOR

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Mayor James L. Key of Atlanta, speaking today to a Bible class in a downtown theater, said Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, ought to be "kicked out" of office for his political activities.

"I do not know that he is guilty of violating the corrupt practices act, as charged in a federal indictment," said the mayor. "But this I do know: Here was the bishop of a great church engaged in handling corruption money of a political party in the nasty, dirty business of ward politics."

The mayor, who recently was ousted as teacher of a Bible class at Grace Methodist church here because he criticized prohibition, is now teacher of a nondenominational class.

The mayor also assailed Dr. Clarence True Wilson who, he said, "recently denounced as traitors to the country and the constitution, and as perjurers and imps of hell" the men of the American Legion who voted in favor of a prohibition referendum.

Four Earthquakes Cause Damage to California Mine

Fresno, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Three distinct earth tremors followed by a fourth severe quake today damaged quick silver mining property and a house near Antelope Valley, according to T. R. Nelson of Fresno, who with two companions left a mine in that district but a few seconds before the shaft caved in.

2 DIE, 2 HURT AS AUTO RUNS INTO STREET CAR

Couple Near Death in a Head-on Crash.

Two men were killed and a married couple, parents of a five months old child, were critically injured when the automobile in which they were riding crashed head on into a street car early yesterday in front of 8715 South Chicago avenue.

Those killed were Stephen W. Mies, 35 years old, 7712 Essex avenue, a bond salesman and driver of the car, and Robert K. Swank, 32 years old, of Dayton, O., district manager for the National Cash Register company.

Two in Critical Condition.

Earl G. Cropp, 30 years old, 369 East 69th street, and his wife, 26 years old, were taken to the South Chicago hospital with fractured skulls. They are in a critical condition, hospital authorities said last night. Cropp owns a drug store at 522 East 71st street.

Police said that the sides of the street at the point where the accident took place are torn up by pavers, forcing motorists to drive on the street car tracks. Mies apparently swerved into the path of the approaching street car while driving at high speed. His car was demolished.

Toll Raised to 992.

These two deaths and three others raised the 1931 county auto toll to 992. The other victims:

Henry Casavithia, 5 years old, 1502 West Ohio street. Died in the county hospital of injuries suffered Saturday when he ran into the path of an automobile at Armour and Ohio streets. Jack Kaplan, 22 years old, 1139 Christiana avenue, was the driver.

Gustaf Hausman, 20 years old, 1519 West Adams street. Died at the county hospital of injuries suffered on Saturday when he was struck at Jackson boulevard and Laflin street by an automobile driven by Joseph Gagmilo, 1144 South Lyman avenue, Oak Park.

A well dressed woman about 23 years old was struck and fatally injured by an automobile, the driver of which sped away, at 37th street and Ashland avenue last night. She died at St. Paul's hospital without regaining consciousness. She was about five feet six inches tall, weighing about 125 pounds.

Killed at Gary Crossing.

Fred Johnson, 61 years old, 3871 Harrison street, Gary, was killed yesterday when his automobile, stalled on the Harrison street crossing of the Nickel Plate railroad south of Gary, was struck by a west bound passenger train.

Rees Williams, 67 years old, and his wife, Mrs. Bessie Williams, 63 years old, 6629 South Wabash avenue, were injured when the automobile in which they rode was struck by a surface car at Wabash avenue and Congress street and crushed against the elevated lines' structure. After they had been taken from the wreck a bystander dropped a match into a pool of gasoline that had leaked from the tank and the car was burned. Firemen were called to extinguish the flames.

Hold Up 5 in Evanston Drug Store; Take $1,000

Three gunmen invaded the Liggett branch drug store at 601 Davis street, Evanston, two blocks from the police station, last night, menaced five employés, and escaped with $1,000. The robbers, after drinking sodas, walked over to Miss Jewel Schiess, the cashier, and forced her to surrender the receipts. They compelled Victor Day, the manager; Edward Sickman, assistant manager; Miss Schiess, and two clerks to retreat to the rear of the room. Then the robbers fled.

SELL LEXINGTON AND SARATOGA? 'IT'S PURE BUNK,' MOFFETT SAYS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—To newspaper reports that somebody might buy the aircraft carriers Lexington and Saratoga, the navy's chief of aeronautics today had a plain answer: "Pure bunk."

Besides that, Admiral William A. Moffett said, it would cost more to remodel the two ships for freight or passenger service across the Atlantic than it would to build new ones.

The navy won't let them go, Moffett insisted, because "they are the most valuable ships we have."

"Somebody must be crazy to think we're going to give them away," he added.

GROCER SLAIN AS HE RESISTS NEGRO BANDIT

Samuel Garfinkle, 41 years old, 5461 Ingleside avenue, a grocer, was shot in the abdomen and fatally wounded last night when he resisted a robber in his store at 3158 Giles avenue. The bandit, a Negro, entered the grocery with gun drawn and commanded Garfinkle to hand over his money. The grocer grappled with the gunman instead. Pressing his revolver into Garfinkle's body, the Negro fired. Police took Garfinkle to the Lakeside hospital, where he died early this morning. The robber escaped.

MAYOR, 9 OTHERS DIE IN VERA CRUZ CHURCH BATTLE

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Ten persons, including Mayor Manuel Lopez, were killed in a fight yesterday at Tlapocoyan, state of Vera Cruz, following the desecration of a church, according to a Puebla dispatch to the Excelsior tonight. Several were wounded in the fighting.

According to the report the populace was aroused over the burning of statues taken from the village church.

Municipal authorities were accused of allowing the church to be sacked. A battle followed in which the municipal palace was set afire and other buildings were damaged.

SOME OWNERS 'PLAY FAIR' IN TAX PROTESTS

Pay Portion of Levy Not Involved in Suits.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

In contrast with certain large property owners who have paid no 1929 taxes, there are others who have paid a substantial part and are contesting in the courts only the remainder which they consider unjust and illegal.

In the class of those endeavoring to play fair with the local governments is the Adams-Franklin building corporation, of which Harry Markheim is president. Its land and building were valued by the assessors at $1,409,038 and its 1929 taxes placed at $86,655. The company paid on May 15 last, when the taxes were due, $71,655.84, more than 83 per cent of its taxes. It is contesting the remainder as invalid.

Pay Part Not Protested.

A list has been compiled of 32 other large loop properties which paid a large percentage of their 1929 taxes before contesting the remainder as invalid. The 1929 taxes on these real estate holdings total $4,691,282.91, and the owners have paid $3,920,626.15—also more than 83 per cent.

These 32 properties are represented by the law firm of Scott, MacLeish & Fuller, and are part of the 57 properties on which the assessment was raised by the board of review in the 1928 levy. These 57 were assessed by the reviewers on a different basis from other like properties. The reviewers placed an increased assessment upon them on the basis of a square foot valuation, while other properties were assessed on a unit foot basis, as prescribed by rules 14 and 15 of the state tax commission for the reassessment of all real estate in Cook county.

Cases May Be Heard Today.

The board of review will be called upon today or tomorrow by County Judge Jarecki to justify its action on these buildings.

The taxes on 30 of the 32 properties for 1928 were $3,687,878.92, of which the owners have paid $3,187,138.88, or more than 86 per cent.

The amount of taxes paid and the amount contested, for 1928, on these properties, are as follows:

Owned By Pioneer Families.

Many of these properties are owned by some of the oldest families in Chicago, who apparently desire to play fair with the community. To this list should be added the L. Z. Leiter estate. The name of this estate appeared recently in a list of large property holders which had not paid their 1929 taxes. The tax records on these items are in error, according to E. A. Bronson of the Leiter estate, who said that "the estate has paid all of the 1929 taxes payable by it."

He explains that two parcels, on which the records show the taxes unpaid, are under 99 year lease and the taxes are payable by the lessee. The other two parcels, he explained, were sold by the estate several years ago. The tax records have not changed the name of the owner.

TEACHERS TURN TO HOOVER POOL FOR PAY RELIEF

Ask That Credit Group Buy Tax Warrants.

As a measure of relief for the unpaid employés of the board of education, the joint board of the teachers' unions yesterday adopted a resolution urging that steps be taken to secure from the $500,000,000 Hoover credit pool a sum sufficient to purchase or rediscount the 1930 tax anticipation warrants of the school board now held by the banks as frozen assets.

The resolution asked that the money thus released to the banks be used for the purchase of 1931 school warrants to make possible immediate payment of salaries of the teachers and board employés.

Urges Public to Buy Warrants.

Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the Elementary Teachers' union, chairman of the joint board, asked further that civic leaders and organizations purchase 1931 tax warrants to aid the teachers.

A resolution adopted on Friday night by the Chicago Men Teachers' union, urging Gov. Emmerson to convene the general assembly in special session before the end of the month, and calling on the county commissioners to employ outside judges to expedite hearings on contested tax cases, was also adopted by the joint board of the teachers' unions.

Leaders Attend Meeting.

Present at the meeting besides Miss Clohesy were Miss Helen R. Orrell, treasurer of the Elementary Teachers' union; Miss Dorothy Weil, president of the Federation of Women High School teachers; James Meade, president of the Men Teachers' union; Miss Kate Krauel, president of the Playground Teachers' union; Miss Ann Larm, secretary of the joint board; Freeland Stecker, treasurer of the Men Teachers' union and treasurer of the joint board; Cyril Johnson, treasurer of the Playground Teachers' union; Miss Mary Herrick, vice president of the Federation of Women High School teachers; and Charles Stillman, president of the joint conference of principals and teachers.

The meeting was held in the union headquarters at 508 South Wabash avenue.

BURNS FATAL TO WOMAN.

Mrs. Edna Sweetland, 73 years old, 2259 South Kildare avenue, died at the county hospital yesterday of burns suffered a week ago when her apron caught fire as she was cooking at home.

SECOND FLOOR FLAT ON SOUTH SIDE IS BOMBED

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bradford were showered with glass and plaster last night when a small bomb exploded at the front entrance of their home on the second floor of a three story frame house at 534 West 79th street. Neither was injured. The damage amounted to $200.

Two young men exploded the bomb. They stretched a long fuse from the bomb on the second floor to the hallway on the first floor, and then ignited it. A witness saw them run away. The Bradfords live alone in the dwelling, the first and third floors being unoccupied. Gresham police learned that the house had been purchased recently by a Negro, and it was believed the bombing was a protest against the possible moving of Negroes into the district.

Bradford and his wife have no enemies, they told the police. They manufacture aprons. Bradford is a former professional football and baseball player. He played on the Baltimore eleven in 1899. He was a member of the Decatur baseball team in 1901.

MAYOR TACKLES 1932 CITY BUDGET PROBLEM TODAY

The first step toward compiling a tentative city budget for 1932 will be taken today when Mayor Cermak begins to coördinate the survey report of J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer, and the estimates for appropriations prepared by the individual city departments.

J. L. JACOBS.

The result of the mayor's efforts will be submitted to the city council finance committee, which is required by law to begin its final revision of the annual appropriation bill by Dec. 1. The committee is expected to have before it the tentative budget, along with an estimate of revenues for next year, around Nov. 1.

Many of the city departments have sent in estimates for appropriations. Some are larger than this year's and others are slightly reduced. Jacobs is reported to have prepared departmental estimates, as the result of his survey, in which departmental expenditures are slashed at least 15 per cent.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Although Gloria Swanson obtained an interlocutory divorce from Marquis Falaise Nov. 6, 1930, the marquis still is sueable for her auto accidents, as he discovered here yesterday when Frank Graf filed a legal action. Miss Swanson was riding in the car when it hit Graf's motor last month, but the car was still registered in the name of Marquis Hank, so Graf is suing the latter, and not his ex-wife. The bill is only $6.75.

THOMAS EDISON WILL BE BURIED AT MILAN, OHIO

Funeral Services to Be Held Wednesday.

ligious beliefs before death. Members of the Edison family state that this is a difficult question to answer because of the widespread misunderstanding of what his beliefs actually were. Mr. Edison cannot be said to have changed views attributed to him which he never held.

"He never was an atheist, though he subscribed to no orthodox creed. No one who knew him could have doubted his belief and reverence for a supreme intelligence, and his whole life, in which the ideal of honest, loving service to his fellow man was predominant, indicated how faithfully he followed those two commandments wherein lie 'all the law and the prophets.'"

In his last days Edison indicated from time to time that he was giving thought to the hereafter. Not long before weakness sealed his lips he said: "If there is a life hereafter, or if there is none, it does not matter." On another occasion he was asked if he believed in immortality, and he replied: "No one knows."

Vitality Proved Amazing.

Death came to Mr. Edison after his vitality, which amazed his physicians, had withstood months of struggles with diabetes, stomach ulcers, and four contributing diseases.

Mrs. Edison, who had remained at her husband's side during the long weeks of his illness, had taxed her strength almost to the breaking point. She received medical attention during the day, but tonight it was said she was "bearing up with fortitude." A spokesman for the family said:

"Mrs. Edison has never left the side of her husband since their return from Florida last June. She contributed everything possible to his comfort and peace of mind as shown by his entire dependence on her during his waking moments. Mrs. Edison has shown extraordinary courage through it all."

Besides Mrs. Edison those at the bedside when the end came included Mr. and Mrs. John Eyre Sloan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edison, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Edison, Thomas A. Edison Jr., Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Edison, and Mrs. Marion Oser, all sons and daughters. Other close relatives waited in the hallway outside the bedroom until the end.

Newspaper reports have stated that Mr. Edison had lost most of his fortune in recent years, but friends have denied this and pointed to the $14,000,000 organization known as Thomas A. Edison Industries, Inc., the entire stock of which is controlled by the Edison family.

"Whereas, it is quite true that many persons have fantastic ideas regarding Mr. Edison's fortune," said Arthur Walsh, vice president of the organization, several days ago, "it is interesting to note that the Thomas A. Edison Industries, of which Mr. Edison and his family are the only stockholders, were paying their regular dividends at the time Mr. Edison had been reported suffering financial reverses."

Nevertheless, Mr. Edison has said in the past that he never realized much from his inventions and patents, but that the "money came from the manufacture of the goods."

EDISON AN INVENTOR 70 YEARS

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Herewith are listed in chronological order the outstanding inventions of Thomas A. Edison. He was 10 when he began experimenting in a home made laboratory, 13 when he published a weekly newspaper with 400 circulation, and 15 when he became a telegraph operator. He obtained more than 1,200 patents before his death, but his actual inventions far exceeded that total.

1862—Edison built his first invention to save himself work. It was a wheel device with notches to send hourly the signal when, as a telegraph operator, he had to transmit it to show that he was awake on the job. The invention was a forerunner of the modern messenger boy "call box."

First Electrical Machine Fails.

1868—Edison obtained his first patent on an electrical machine to automatically record the votes in congress. It proved a financial flop.

1869—Invented improved stock market ticker after accidentally being called in to repair one of old design. Got $5,000 for the patent, and proceeded to make three additional improvements netting him $35,000 more. With this capital, he set up a laboratory in Newark, N. J.

1871—The typewriter which later was manufactured under the name of Remington.

1872—Quadruple telegraph repeaters for simultaneous dispatch of four messages over a single wire, estimated to have saved $20,000,000 in line construction in the United States.

EDISON ACCEPTED DEATH AS ESCAPE FROM INFIRMITY

Physician Tells of His Last Illness.

BY DR. HUBERT S. HOWE.
(Thomas A. Edison's personal physician.)

[Copyright: 1931: By the Associated Press.]

New York City, Oct. 18.—(AP)—When Thomas A. Edison realized that his complete recovery was improbable he did not wish to live.

He told his family that his work was finished and assured those dear to him that he would rather leave the world than keep the burden and disabilities of age and illness on his devoted wife and children.

He knew that his body was at last showing infirmities of old age and that if one organ should recover another soon would show signs of weakness and inefficiency. If he could not work effectively life had no further object; so he grasped the situation clearly as he had always done and fearlessly prepared to die.

The immediate cause of death was uremic poisoning. This was the result of nephritis which first became actively manifest at the time of his illness with pneumonia two years ago. He also had a diabetic condition which had been present to a greater or less extent for thirty-five or forty years.

For twenty years he had attacks of acute pain in his stomach and other symptoms of gastric ulcer. His blood pressure had always remained normal. For a man of eighty-four years his blood vessels showed remarkably little change, and his heart was exceptionally strong. His pulse was slightly irregular, but this never caused him any inconvenience.

Fixed His Own Diet.

Several years ago he discovered that his gastric pain could be relieved by drinking milk, so he gradually increased the amount of milk and reduced the other foods until three years ago, when he gave up all other food entirely. His diet then consisted of a pint of milk every two hours.

When he became under medical supervision on his return to New York, his diet was modified to include solid food. He was given cooked cereal, stewed fruit and non-starchy vegetables.

On Mr. Edison's return from Florida the blood examinations showed the presence of a large amount of sugar, but this was soon controled by diet and insulin, so that after the first few weeks the diabetes was no longer a serious consideration, and even though the kidney impairment continued to become more acute, his ability to metabolize sugar gradually increased so that it was possible to include more carbohydrate in the diet and also reduce the amount of insulin.

Strength Brought Back.

On this regimen his strength gradually increased and he took great interest in discussing the different phases of his condition.

After a short time the improvement ceased and his condition became stationary. This stationary point continued for a time, and then the kidneys showed further evidence of impairment, and Mr. Edison became drowsy, sleeping in his chair by his desk a great deal of the time. Eventually he became more drowsy. This condition gradually deepened into the coma which so frequently precedes death in this condition.

EDISON'S LIFE A GIFT, ALSO TASK, EINSTEIN SAYS

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Albert Einstein, German scientist, regards the inventive genius of Thomas A. Edison as a legacy to the present generation to be used for the betterment of the world.

"In Edison one of the great technical inventors to whom we owe the possibility of alleviation and embellishment of our outward life has departed from us," Dr. Einstein said.

"An inventive spirit has filled his own life and all our existence with bright light. Thankfully we accept his legacy, not only as a gift of his genius, but also as a mission placed in our hands. For to the new generation falls the task of finding the way for the right use of the gift given to us."

MEADOWCROFT, EDISON'S AID FOR 51 YEARS, IS ILL

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 18.—(AP)—William H. Meadowcroft, Thomas Edison's personal secretary for 51 years, is seriously ill not far from the home of his late chief. He recently suffered an attack of pneumonia.

His son, Charles W. Meadowcroft, said today: "My father is very ill and is greatly grieved by Mr Edison's death."

HOOVER PRAISES THOMAS EDISON AS RARE GENIUS

Sends Sympathy Message from Warship.

BY JOHN HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Old Point Comfort, Va., Oct. 18.—President Hoover was awakened early this morning in his quarters aboard the U. S. S. Arkansas to receive a wireless message telling of Thomas A. Edison's death. He sent a message of sympathy to Mrs. Edison and his secretaries kept in radio touch with the arrangements for the funeral. It was announced that the President will attend the funeral unless matters that cannot be laid aside require his presence in Washington.

"It is given to few men of any age, nation or calling to become the benefactor of all humanity," Mr. Hoover said. "That distinction came abundantly to Thomas Alva Edison, whose death in his 85th year has ended a life of courage and outstanding achievement.

"His life search for truth fructifying in more than a thousand inventions made him the greatest inventor our nation has produced and revolutionized civilization itself.

Adds to World's Wealth.

"He multiplied light and dissolved darkness. He added to the whole wealth of nations. He was great, not only in his scientific creative instinct and insight, but did more than any other American to place invention on an organized basis of the utilization of raw materials of pure science and discovery. He was a rare genius.

"He has been a precious asset to the whole world. Every American owes a personal debt to him. It is not only a debt for great benefactions which he has brought to every American, but also a debt of honor he brought to our country by his own genius and effort.

"He rose from a newsboy and telegrapher to the position of leadership amongst men.

Staunch in Character.

"His life had been a constant stimulus in confidence that our institutions hold open the door of opportunity to those who would enter. He possessed a modest, a kindliness, a staunchness of character rare among men.

"His death leaves thousands bereft of a friend, the nation bereft of one of its most notable citizens, and the world bereft of one of its greatest benefactors.

Pay Tribute to Life and Works of Edison

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Persons of all stations of life joined in paying praise to the life and works of Thomas A. Edison. Some of the statements follow:

Thomas Lamont, secretary of commerce—Edison was not only a great inventor and scientist but a great citizen as well. His long and useful life, through which he continued to work and study to the end, is a splendid heritage to the nation.

William Doak, secretary of labor—Edison made life more pleasant for every human on earth, and his passing will be mourned by the world.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt—What always interested me most about him was the universality of his knowledge and his broad common sense. He was not merely a great inventor—he was a great citizen who thought in terms of the good of our country.

David Sarnoff, president of Radio Corporation of America—Thomas A. Edison left his record in the truth-seeking spirit of his time as much as in his great works. The inspiration that it gives to others is perhaps his greatest monument.

Andrew W. Robertson, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company—Thomas A. Edison was one man whose contemporaries called him great. We who simply carry on what others create are humbled before the creative genius of an Edison.

Gen. James G. Harbord, Radio Corporation of America—His contribution to the world was not only in his many inventions. His devotion to his work offers an inspiration as glowing as the electric light which he conceived.

Patrick B. Crowley, president, New York Central railroad—His name will go down in history as a great American.

Ernest J. Berggren, former office boy to Mr. Edison—His endurance and tenacity for work were marvelous. During the period of experimental work on his electric lamp at Menlo Park his ability to outlast his assistants was uncanny.

Charles Fabry, French Academy of Science—Edison was one of the greatest achievers of our epoch. No theoretical difficulty ever baffled him, for he examined all the possible solutions of the problems he set himself and knew how to select the best.

Paul Block, newspaper publisher—Such men as Thomas Alva Edison appear but rarely in history. . . . His life was a continuing romance, a story of success. . . . His was the triumph of peace and his name will live forever.

Adolph S. Ochs, publisher [In a telegram to Mrs. Edison]—I am sure you will find some comfort in the thought that he lived a full life of usefulness and won a foremost place among the immortals. What a rare and delightful genius he was!

Robert A. Millikan—Edison made man and himself immortal. What greater is possible in practical achievement?

Guglielmo Marconi—With the passing of Thomas A. Edison, one of the world's greatest benefactors leaves us. What he has done for business, pleasure, and philanthropy cannot be calculated.

Dr. P. Le Compte du Nouy, Pasteur Institute, Paris — Thomas A. Edison was the greatest inventor and the most romantic and picturesque figure of our times. There are few minutes in our days which, for pleasure or work, are not dependent upon his basic inventions.

Prof. August Carolus, Physics Institute of Leipsig university—In Edison the world loses one of the greatest technical genuises who ever lived.

Alessandro Tosi of Rome, inventor of the radio direction finder—Edison's inventions are all connected with the principle of movement, which is somewhat remarkable.

Emil Ludwig, author—In mourning for their great benefactor, the new and old worlds should, I propose, unite in extinguishing for some minutes every electric light, thereby reminding 500,000,000 men of the light he has given them and to which now he is lost.

W. W. Campbell, Lick observatory, California: The human race has lost a world wide benefactor of highest merit.

'BRIGHTEST BOY' WINNERS PRAISE LIFE OF EDISON

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Two youths who outclassed nation-wide competition to win the Thomas A. Edison contest for the country's brightest boy and the scholarships which went with the honor, today praised the memory of their benefactor.

They are Wilber B. Huston, winner of the first contest three years ago, and Arthur O. Williams, the second and last prize winner. Both are students at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where their expenses are being paid from a fund established by Mr. Edison.

Huston, the 19 year old son of the Rt. Rev. S. Arthur Huston, Episcopal bishop of Seattle, Wash., said:

"I think few men have made a greater appeal to the imagination of boys than Mr. Edison. His long life of achievement held all the elements that inspire young men to give purpose to their lives. I feel in his death the loss of a real friend to whose interest in youth I am deeply indebted."

Williams said Edison's death was a great shock to him. "He encouraged learning and was quick to reward the adept student. He was a democratic man. I found him friendly and fraternal when I expected him to be aloof and impersonal."

Edison's object in establishing the scholarship was to find a successor to himself, but those close to the inventor scouted this. After the second annual contest, which Williams won, Edison gave notice that he had abandoned the scholarship idea.

Huston now is a junior and Williams a sophomore at Technology.

CHICAGOANS PAY TRIBUTE TO WORK OF NOTED GENIUS

Insull, Former Secretary, Leaves for Funeral.

Leaders of industry, science and education in Chicago joined yesterday in tributes to the memory of Thomas A. Edison as an inventive genius, a benefactor of mankind, a patriot and a citizen.

Samuel Insull, who came from London to the United States forty years ago to become Mr. Edison's private secretary and later was organizer and general manager of the Edison electrical enterprises, left yesterday to attend the funeral Wednesday at West Orange, N. J.

Out of respect to the great inventor's memory, flags flew at half staff on the power houses of the Commonwealth Edison company and other public utilities of which Mr. Insull is head.

Tribute from Insull.

"My feelings would urge me to speak of the personal side of the life of Mr. Edison," said Mr. Insull before his departure, "but this does not seem a proper time for that. The world at large is too deeply grieved over the loss of a true genius and an outstanding benefactor to be concerned with our more intimate relations.

"But I cannot allow his death to pass without my modest tribute to one who has achieved so much for the advancement and welfare of humanity in his and our times—the nineteenth and the twentieth centuries.

"Mr. Edison's accomplishments in connection with the telegraph, the telephone, the phonograph and electric light and power, each by itself was enough to have established his reputation as an inventor of the first rank.

Many Great Achievements.

"The fact that he was the first man to record and reproduce the human voice would naturally have given him world-wide fame. Or his production of the high resistance incandescent lamp, with the addition of a distribution system upon which the practical distribution systems of today are based, was enough to establish his reputation as a truly great inventor.

"It is, however, his preeminence in all fields of nineteenth and twentieth century progress—from the electric telegraph to motion pictures—which has stamped him as the man who has most profoundly affected the development of the standard of living accomplished throughout the world during the times in which he lived.

Dr. Scott Praises Citizen.

Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president, Northwestern university: "Thomas A. Edison possessed those qualities which characterize Americans at their best. He was distinguished because of his personality quite as much as because of his ingenuity. No one ever questioned his patriotism, his integrity and his unselfish devotion to the promotion of human welfare.

"His mechanical inventions, because of their definiteness and their practical nature, have been regarded by all the civilized world as justifying his reputation, even aside from his personal qualities. In his direct contributions to this great machine age, he probably occupies first place. He was a great American, an even greater citizen of the world. All America is proud of him, but all the world shares in the products of his inventive genius."

Loss to World, Says Hale.

F. O. Hale, president, Illinois Bell Telephone company: "In Mr. Edison's death the electric industry has lost one of its outstanding figures. In these days of scientific miracles, when most things are taken for granted and little fuss is made over seemingly impossible achievements, the work and inventions of this lone genius stand apart. His more important accomplishments came before pure science had been given its rightful place in research work. His loss is one the whole world mourns."

Dean Henry Gordon Gale, division of physical sciences, University of Chicago: "The greatness of Thomas Edison had two aspects, one popular and the other scientific. By applying the laws of physics to practical use, he gave the world a long list of inventions, which provide the basis for his fame. His inventions helped to popularize and stimulate the progress of pure science. To my mind this was the most important of his achievements."

Geriach Wires Tribute.

Theodore R. Geriach, president, Illinois Manufacturers' association [in a telegram to Mrs. Edison]: "On behalf of the manufacturers of Illinois I extend my profound sympathy in the deep bereavement caused you by the death of your distinguished husband. The unprecedented accomplishments of Thomas A. Edison have not only been of incalculable benefit to the entire civilized world, but his life has portrayed in a conspicuous manner the opportunities which attend perseverance, patience, energy and character in our country."

Col. Robert I. Randolph, president, Chicago Association of Commerce: "Thomas Edison, the outstanding inventive genius of this era, has passed on to the great reward which his many contributions to the fine and useful arts have earned him. Grievous as his loss must be to his family and friends, the sorrow of the world at large may be tempered by the reflection that he lived a long and exceedingly useful life. The public may be thankful that death spared Mr. Edison until his 85th year."

DIES OF OLD INJURIES.

Arthur H. Voss, 34 years old, 17 South Plumgrove avenue, Palatine, died yesterday of injuries suffered five months ago when he was pinned against the wall of a garage by an automobile he cranked while it was in gear.

TO FORD, EDISON WAS BOYHOOD'S HERO AND FRIEND IN LATER DAY

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Deeply moved by the death of Thomas A. Edison, for nearly 40 years his close friend, Henry Ford today paid tribute to the inventor as one who "changed the face of the world in his lifetime," and whose work "will influence all the future."

"Great as an inventor, he was greater as a man," he said. "Mr. Edison believed that the essential individual life survived the change called death. We often spoke of it together.

Edison's fame, Ford said, "is independent of the fluctuating judgments of history; it is etched in light and sound on the daily and hourly life of the world.

"He was the chief hero of my boyhood and he became my friend in manhood. That experience must be rare—to have one's early hero for one's later friend."

INSULL UTILITIES GIVE $800,000 IN RELIEF DRIVE

Gifts from Companies and Employes.

Cook county's joint emergency relief fund starts off the week with $800,000, the largest pledge received to date, from the public utilities companies under the management of Samuel Insull. Announcement of the gift, which brings the total raised in the campaign to $2,413,505, was made yesterday by Robert M. Hutchins, chairman of the special gifts division.

GEORGE W. DIXON.

One-half of the amount was pledged by the companies as corporation gifts. An additional $100,000 was contributed jointly by the Samuel Insulls, junior and senior. The balance of the sum was made up by individual pledges of employés, who have agreed to donate one day's pay a month for six months through the trades, industries, and professions division. Charles S. Dewey is chairman of that group.

Mr. Insull Jr., continuing his efforts in the relief drive, appeared last night before the Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall and said that the joint emergency relief fund was a public utility. It is nondiscriminatory, unified, and shaped to aid 150,000 needy families this winter, he said. The rich will be asked to give first and all others later, Mr. Insull said. Mr. Insull's talk was given after the principal address of the evening by Dr. Justin W. Nixon of the Brick Presbyterian church, Rochester, N. Y.

Pastors Indorse Drive.

The task of raising the estimated necessary quota of $8,800,000 to handle the anticipated family relief work for the winter was further accelerated yesterday by indorsements given the drive from the pulpits of practically all churches of the major denominations. Clergymen of the Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish places of worship all joined in appeals for the funds.

George W. Dixon, chairman of the federated churches division of the campaign, and Rabbi Felix Mendelsohn, head of the Chicago Rabbinical association, issued copies of a statement from Edward L. Ryerson Jr. of the governor's relief commission to the 1,300 Protestant churches and several hundred synagogues of the city. Pastors both read the statement and added thereto their personal comment and commendation.

In a letter to all the churches of his diocese Cardinal Mundelein not only asked the financial support of the Catholic congregations, but recommended three days of prayer for the success of the fund, to be observed Friday and Saturday of this week, ending Sunday morning. This provision carries out the expressed wishes of Pope Pius XI., who has requested that similar services be held in all countries, in view of the worldwide depression.

The prelate's letter pointed out that the relief funds are to be distributed through five principal charitable agencies, of which the Catholic charities is one, and that the fairest and most undiscriminating distribution was assured through the personnel in charge of the drive.

Bishop Stewart Makes Plea.

Episcopal churches of the diocese of Chicago heard an open letter from the Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart urging them to demonstrate the greatest generosity of which they were capable in their gifts to the campaign.

"If ever the church was needed, it is now," he said. "If ever men needed the strength and comfort which flow from divine channels of grace, it is now."

Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, chairman of the women's division of the fund will speak today to the workers who are to do the soliciting at a noon luncheon. Final instructions will be given at that time.

Mrs. William Nathan MacChesney, president of the Chicago College club, and a member of the women's division, will gather her forces at 12:30 today to begin the work of organization to canvass the member for contributions.

INVITES ODD FELLOWS HERE.

Joseph Eichner, chief investigator in the city attorney's office, departed yesterday for Springfield bearing an invitation from Mayor Cermak to the state lodge of Odd Fellows to hold its 1932 convention in Chicago. Mr. Eichner is grand guardian of the state lodge.

KING OF SERBIA STILL KING OF ALL HE SURVEYS

Foes Call Constitutional Monarchy a "Swindle."

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AUSTRIAN-JUGO-SLAVIAN BORDER, Oct. 1.—[By Mail.]—The train has just crossed the frontier out of Jugo-Slavia—since Sept. 2 a constitutional, democratic monarchy by act of its monarch and the will of international bankers—and now it can be told.

The new palace made constitution is considered by foreign observers here and opposition leaders alike as "swindle." Loyal Serbs only describe it as a "constitutional dictatorship" when the police aren't around, and the government frankly admits it is calculated to stifle all independent expression among the heterogeneous racial groups which compose the most powerful Balkan state.

Three chief considerations, it is learned, led Alexander Karageorgevitch, king of Jugo-Slavia, to drop the personal dictatorship he had exercised since Jan. 6, 1929. The first is a "grand stand play" to build up sympathy in America for a big loan to Jugo-Slavia. This hooks up with the visit of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff of the American army.

After American Loan.

The statement that King Alexander wanted to give the impression abroad that Jugo-Slavia had become a constitutional monarchy on the theory that Americans do not like to invest money in dictatorships came from a highly reliable source. The same "source" stated that one of the main reasons for Gen. MacArthur's visit was to mollify the Serbs for the [illegible] moratorium cut in their budget.

A spokesman for the government, when asked about the connection between the desired loan and the new constitution, disclosed that Foreign Minister Marinkovitch before leaving Geneva had obtained assurance that the world bank would guarantee a [illegible] long term loan—the other [illegible] being compensation for the stoppage of payments of in kind by Germany.

The sum, however, represents only what is needed to balance the budget, preserve the dinar from depreciation, and restore enough confidence in the Jugo-Slavian financies to end the state of financial siege. A great deal more is needed to carry out the enormous program of public works and great things are expected from the "report" Gen. MacArthur will make to President Hoover, the speaker indicated.

King Duels with Premier.

Between the lines of the new constitution, according to opposition sources, is written in invisible ink the silent duel for power between King Alexander and his prime minister, Gen. Peter Zhivkovitch, who is said to cherish dictatorial ambitions himself.

Finally, the constitution is another move in the fight to weld into one unified nation eight different, and radically different, branches of the southern Slavic race under the hegemony of the strongest and most enterprising of them—the Serbs. It is directed chiefly against the Croats, the Catalans of the Balkans.

The government spokesman told how the new constitution made impossible any sectional parties in the parliament. Theoretically, he said, the government had no objection to an opposition party, providing it was a national opposition party based on national issues. But it will forever be impossible for the Croatian autonomists or the Slovenian Catholics, or even for the Serbian Peasant party, to get so much as one seat in either house of parliament.

The mechanism of this is ingenious. To present a party ticket in opposition to the government party it is necessary to secure 80,000 signatures. But these signatures cannot be obtained any old way. The head of the party ticket must obtain a minimum of 60 names in each of the 305 electoral districts of the kingdom. Then there must be a local candidate for a seat from every district and he must produce at least 100 names in the district where he is running.

The possibility of a Croatian party leader polling sixty or even six votes in Moslem Bosnia where a different language is spoken and a different religion practiced can be imagined.

That is another curb on political initiative. Public assembly without the consent of police is forbidden, and the police will not consent to political gatherings.

So there won't be any formal opposition to the government at the elections next month.

HOOVER-LAVAL CONFERENCE MAY SPELL HISTORY

No Limit to Subjects They Are Likely to Discuss.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Momentous developments affecting a wide scope of interests ranging all the way from the future course of the United States in world affairs and economic conditions in this country to the political fortunes of President Hoover hinge upon the visit of Premier Pierre Laval of France, who will reach Washington this week for a series of White House conversations.

"The sky," said Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, "is the limit of the questions that will be discussed by President Hoover and the French premier. The questions will include reduction of inter-allied war debts and German reparations, reduction of armaments, extension of the Hoover moratorium, implementation of the Kellogg-Briand anti-war pact, possibility of the United States joining in a consultative pact to punish an aggressor nation, and gold and silver monetary policies.

What the two statesmen are likely to accomplish is a matter of lively conjecture on both sides of the Atlantic. Neither one can bind his country to any agreement they may reach and each one faces an opposition by which he may be undone should he concede too much.

Drama for the Setting.

For one thing, the conference will lack the intimacy that characterized that other meeting of the heads of two great nations when Mr. Hoover and Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald two years ago perched on a log over the rushing Rapidan and in a common tongue discussed the state of the world and what to do about it. Mr. Hoover and Mr. Laval will meet in the White House divided by a lingual bar which they will endeavor to surmount by means of interpreters.

On the eve of the conversations it is the dramatic aspect of the coming of Laval that impresses all observers of world events. There is the aspect of America, world power, world banker, with a reputation for benevolence and self-sacrificial altruism, being courted by Europe. All roads now lead to Washington for the powers seeking the favor of rich Uncle Sam, seeking the support of the American government in the furtherance of the course each is pursuing in the tangled web of European politics.

First, there was MacDonald, who, by establishing an entente with Mr. Hoover without stopping at Paris, served tacit notice on France that Great Britain was looking more for support across the ocean than across the channel. The French didn't like it and their resentment was embalmed in their refusal to sign the navy reduction treaty at London.

All Roads to Washington.

Now, with Great Britain slipping as the world dominating power and France a rich and powerful challenger of British supremacy in Europe, there comes Laval to sit down with the American President and plan world destinies. Next will come Grandi, the foreign minister of Italy, and it is rumored that he will be followed by Chancellor Bruening of Germany. It takes only a hint from Europe of a receptive mood to procure an invitation to take the road to Washington.

"There is the dramatic aspect of a conference on the ills of the world by the heads of the two nations which hold between them three-fourths of the world's supply of gold. They will confer amid the clamors of the British and other peoples who have been forced off the gold standard for a redistribution of the gold supply, amid the agitation of the silverites for the adoption of bimetallism, amid a multitude of prescriptions of other panaceas for the cure of world-wide hard times.

Disarmament and Debts.

The subjects of greatest prominence in the White House conversations will be disarmament and reduction of the war debts. And it is interesting in this connection that the visit of Laval was brought about by James McDonald, president of the Foreign Policy association, which is promoting both disarmament and debt reduction. Mr. McDonald when in Paris last month asked Laval if he would like to go to Washington. Laval said he would. American Ambassador Walter Edge was told and the invitation from Mr. Hoover followed.

As Ramsay MacDonald came to Washington to obtain concessions from Mr. Hoover with respect to the London naval conference and got them, Laval now comes seeking concessions with respect to the Geneva disarmament conference next February.

Mr. Hoover aspires to leadership in the disarmament conference. Republican leaders are predicting that if he is successful in obtaining a substantial measure of armaments reduction the accomplishment will win him the support of the pacifists who together with the drys will insure his reelection even if hard times continue another year.

Using Debts as Bait.

Mr. Hoover is holding out a tempting bait to Europe for reduction of armaments. He has made it known that if the European powers curtail their armaments he will look favorably upon a re-opening of the war debt settlements for revision on the basis of incapacity to pay the present annuities. Opponents of revision are now charging that the President is seeking to purchase reduction of armaments by Europe at the expense of American taxpayers.

The French, however, are not greatly tempted by the Hoover bait. They are not worrying about what they have to pay Britain and America so long as they are getting the wherewithal from German reparations.

Mr. Laval will say that France cannot afford to reduce armament unless assured of security from aggression. The protection of the league of nations is not enough, America being on the outside.

BECOMING A CABOT, NEE KUBITSKY, GETS SO TRYING IN BOSTON

Boston, Mass., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Samuel Kubitsky, Dorchester sign painter who has caused a furore in certain Boston circles with the announcement that he is trying to change his name to Cabot, today declared that he really doesn't care a snap about whether he loses the "Cabot" way of spelling the name, but that he cares enough about the Kabot version to go into court about it Tuesday.

Samuel Cabot, head of a firm of manufacturing chemists by that name, had complained to the superior court that Kubitsky is in unfair competition with him and his firm because the latter's Cabotized version of his name appears in close proximity to his own in the telephone book.

Kubitsky declares he has retained legal counsel to answer Cabot's petition to the effect that the name should be spelled Kabot and that the error is the fault of the phone company.

BODY IS FOUND BESIDE STILL IN WEST SIDE FLAT

Nicholas Marchese, 28 years old, 721 South Western avenue, was found dead yesterday in a second floor flat at 327 North Central Park avenue. In the place the police discovered a 100 gallon moonshine still and forty barrels of mash.

The owner of the building is Andrew Lisnik, who lives in the first floor flat. He asserted that the second floor apartment was leased on Oct. 2 by a man who said his name was Joseph Otello. It was assumed that Otello, who has not been seen about the building since, was the employer or the partner of Marchese in the moonshining business.

Apparently the death of Marchese occurred through natural causes. There were no marks of violence on the body and no gas was escaping.

DIVORCES SHOW GAIN, MARRIAGES LOSS, IN FRANCE

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 18. — Marriages in France during the second quarter of this year showed a decrease of 457 as compared with the total for the same period last year, while there were 249 more divorces, according to official statistics made public last night.

The excess of births over deaths in the second quarter of this year was only 10,202, as compared with 25,334 in the corresponding quarter of last year.

As usual, more boys than girls were born, but the infantile mortality of boys was greater than that of girls.

Elinor Smith Strains Back in Fall in Quitting Plane

FIFTH OF PUPILS AT ONE SCHOOL MISS BREAKFAST

Parents Too Poor to Buy Them Food.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's Fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4159 West Madison street.

One child out of every five attending the Emerson school, 1700 Walnut street, came to his studies last Wednesday without having eaten breakfast, because his parents could not afford to feed him. The total was more than 100.

Yet a woman who identified herself as an official of a league devoted to the care of animals telephoned the board of education last week and said:

"Of course, we've been reading the stories in the paper about hungry children—but conditions really are not nearly so bad as they are painted; now, are they?"

Worse Than Pictured.

The young woman who received the call replied:

"If you don't believe these stories about hungry children, why don't you visit the schools and see for yourself? You'll find that the half has not been told."

Clyde M. Cummins, principal of the Emerson school, tells of the conditions there. "Last year," he wrote, "our teachers gave five dollars each toward feeding the hungry, but this year the teachers, many of them, have joined the hungry list and are needing help themselves, so consequently the pupils are going hungry.

"One hundred came without breakfast this morning [Oct. 14] and fifty went without lunch. Fully fifty per cent of our pupils should be receiving help from the county or United Charities. By actual count, 25.5 per cent of our pupils are obtaining help either from the county or other charities. What the cold weather will bring, the future only knows!"

Tribune Raising Funds.

Donations to help provide warm meals for these destitute children are being received by this newspaper, which is operating the Hungry School Children's Fund to supply the same service that was given last year by the teachers. Tokens purchased by means of these gifts are given to the penniless children by the teachers, and the tokens then exchanged in the school lunchrooms for the noontime meal. Under this plan only the children who get the help know that it is given, unless they disclose it themselves to their companions.

Contributions for the purpose may be mailed to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, at Tribune Tower, and will be acknowledged.

Hungry School Children Fund

There are 15,000 children who go to school hungry every morning. A dime a day will furnish a substantial daily meal for one child.

IRISH BISHOPS BLACKLIST TWO POLITICAL BANDS

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Members of the Catholic church in Ireland were warned against membership in two political organizations in a pastoral letter from the archbishop and bishops which was read in all the churches today.

After designating inferentially the Irish Republican army and naming the "Saor Eire," the letter said: "It is our duty to tell our people plainly that these two organizations are sinful and irreligious and that no Catholics lawfully can be members of them."

The letter said the Saor Eire society was "frankly communistic and aims to mobilize the workers and farmers behind a revolutionary movement to set up a communistic state. That would impose upon Catholics on the soil of Ireland the same materialistic régime which, with its fanatical hatred of God, now dominates Russia and threatens to dominate Spain."

FOREIGN WARS VETERANS ASSAIL NAVY BUDGET CUT

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A resolution, censoring the recent cut in the naval budget ordered by President Hoover and calling for an immediate cash payment of the remainder of federal adjusted compensation for world war veterans, was passed today by state officers of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, New York department, at their regular quarterly meeting here.

Twenty-six representatives from various parts of the state were present at the session.

All resolutions and the program for the coming year, outlined in September at the national meeting of the organization in Kansas City, received a vote of support by the state officers.

Makes Appeal in Name of Humanity.

in part to provide work, for it is through work that we wish to give help in keeping with the dignity of American manhood and womanhood. But much of their funds are necessary to provide relief to those families where circumstances and ill fortune can only be met by direct assistance. Included in many community appeals are the sums necessary to vital measures of health and character building, the maintenance of which were never more necessary than in these times."

Points to Federal Work.

"As to the part the federal government is playing, the President recounted the advancement and enlargement of the public works program, the halting of immigration and the program to restore normal credits. Employers, he said, have sought to spread out jobs as far as possible. States, counties, and municipalities, he said, have borne their share.

"Yet, beyond all this," the President went on, "there is a margin of relief which must be provided by voluntary action. Through these agencies Americans must meet the demands of national conscience that there be no hunger nor cold amongst our people."

In many localities, said the President, the need will be greater this winter than last.

Opens Nation-wide Appeal.

"The possible misery of helpless people gives me more concern than any other trouble this depression has brought us," said President Hoover. "It is with these convictions in mind that I have the responsibility of opening this nation-wide appeal to citizens of each community that they provide the funds with which, community by community, this task shall be met.

"The maintenance of a spirit of mutual self-help through voluntary giving, through the responsibility of local government, is of infinite importance to the future of America. Every one who from a sympathetic heart gives to these services is giving hope and courage to some deserving family. Every one who aids in this service will have lighted a beacon of help on the stormy coast of human adversity.

Nations Judged by Ideals.

"The success and the character of nations are to be judged by the ideals and the spirit of its people. Time and again the American people have demonstrated a spiritual quality, a capacity for unity of action, of generosity, a certainty of results in time of emergency that have made them great in the annals of the history of all nations. This is the time and this the occasion when we must arouse that idealism, that spirit, that determination, that unity of action, from which there can be no failure in this primary obligation of every man to his neighbor and of a nation to its citizens, that none who deserve shall suffer."

It was then that President Hoover called upon his fellow citizens to heed the scriptural behest to love and to obey the responsibilities of neighborliness.

Wants Real Thanksgiving.

"In a little over a month," the President concluded, "we shall celebrate our time-honored festival of Thanksgiving. I appeal to the American people to make Nov. 26, next, the outstanding Thanksgiving day in the history of the United States; that we may say on that day that America has again demonstrated her ideals; that we have each of us contributed our full part; that we in each of our communities have given full assurance against hunger and cold among our people; that upon this Thanksgiving day we have removed the fear of the forthcoming winter from the hearts of all who are suffering and in distress—that we are our brother's keeper.

"I am on my way to participate in the commemoration of the victory of Yorktown. It is a name which brings a glow of pride to every American. It recalls the final victory of our people after years of sacrifice and privation. This nation passed through Valley Forge and came to Yorktown."

AT YORKTOWN 1781—Oct. 19th—1931

Today, in pageants of the past,
Men march to drum and fife
O'er fields whereon the die was cast
That gave the world new life:
Where patriots with Washington,
In battle, humbled those Who drew the sword at Lexington
As freedom's direst foes.

'Twas here Cornwallis and the flower
Of Britain's strength and pride,
Laid down their arms unto that power
Which had their king defied;
A thrilling scene, and closing act
Of that far-reaching war
Which made our liberty a fact,
The right our Guiding Star.

God help this Nation ne'er forget
Our allies, brave and true,
De Grasse, Rochambeau, Lafayette;
The men in Buff and Blue.
Perchance their spirits hover near
And hear us as we pray
That God will bless and men revere
The heroes of that day.

YORKTOWN RITES FOR BATTLE DEAD OF 150 YEARS AGO

Yorktown, Va., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—In solemn spirit of commemoration Yorktown paused today in its triumphal celebration of departed glories to pay tribute with religious ritual and sympolic services to the men who died here in battle 150 years ago and to emphasize once again the spiritual unity of the world.

Brilliant, brisk fall weather, with a strong westerly breeze which whipped the wide waters of the York river into white-capped spray, brought thousands to the outdoor services and to view the colonial exposition, the pageant of the fleet at anchor in the river and the old homes and gardens of Yorktown.

The crowd increased toward nightfall and hotels and rooming houses within a radius of thirty miles of this ancient town were crowded to capacity with people who expect to hear tomorrow the culminating event of the sesquicentennial program—President Hoover's address.

The President is expected to arrive at the fleet anchorage in the York river late tonight or early tomorrow on the battleship Arkansas, flagship of the training squadron. He will remain aboard the Arkansas until midmorning, according to present plans, and will be saluted by the guns of the American and French men of war anchored there.

When the President leaves the 150th anniversary celebration of the victory of Yorktown will be over and this quiet town will return once more to its somnolence.

Tried for Selling Grape with Guarantee of Kick

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Carl A. Tutter, formerly in charge of Chicago headquarters of California Vineyards company, and four co-defendants, will go on trial again tomorrow after a three day continuance before Federal Circuit Judge Harry Hollzer. They are charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws in Illinois, California, Utah and other states, in selling grape juice which carried with it guarantees to ferment.

Thomas Healy's Condition Reported as Dangerous

Thomas J. Healy, Republican leader, who has been confined in the Sacred Heart sanitarium in Milwaukee for the last seven weeks, is dangerously ill, his wife revealed last night. Mrs. Healy, who spent yesterday at his bedside in the sanitarium, returned to Chicago and after taking some effects returned immediately to Milwaukee.

JURY ACQUITS EDITOR'S SLAYER AFTER 23 HOURS

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP)—David H. Clark, former deputy district attorney of Los Angeles, was acquitted at 11 a. m. today at his second trial for the slaying of Herbert Spencer, magazine editor. The jury was out 23 hours, 40 minutes.

Clark, who testified at both trials that on last May 30, while he was a candidate for the municipal bench, he shot Spencer and Charles Crawford, wealthy politician, in self defense at the height of a political quarrel, received the verdict without a change of expression.

The jurors said they voted eleven to one for acquittal in three ballots yesterday, one of the men jurors holding out for second degree murder. Resuming deliberations at 9:30 today they took one deciding ballot, and asked the bailiff to summon Judge H. W. Falk.

U. S. FALLS FAR BEHIND POWERS IN SUBMARINES

Those It Has Are Mostly Antiques.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Failure of the United States to keep pace with the other Washington naval treaty powers in the construction of new underseas naval craft has paved the way for a rapid decline of this country as a major submarine power.

A survey of the building activities of the five treaty powers during the eight years since the pact was ratified discloses that the United States has lagged far behind all the other nations in the laying down of new modern submarines. The result is that this country, which by treaty is accorded tonnage equality in all classes of naval strength with the strongest naval powers, now finds itself rapidly headed for the bottom of the heap.

Today the United Sates is tied with Great Britain in built and building submarine strength and outranked by both Japan and France. Within another year the American position will be fourth. In event of declaration of a naval building holiday halting the laying down of new warships the United States will rank a poor fifth among world powers in 1936 when the Washington treaty expires.

France Most Powerful.

France stands today at the top of the heap as a submarine power. Japan ranks second, with the United States and Great Britain tied for third place, each having approximately the tonnage strength permitted by the London naval treaty. As British submarines are much newer than those of the United States fleet their equality in tonnage is more apparent than real. Due to ships becoming obsolete because of age, this country will fall below Great Britain next year. From then on the United States will no longer be considered among the world's leading submarine powers. Even Italy appears slated to outrank this country in underseas craft before the expiration of the London treaty.

Counting only underage built and building submarines, France today has eighty-eight vessels of 81,819 tons; Japan has sixty-seven vessels of 79,-50 tons; Great Britain fifty of 52,319 tons, and the United States sixty-eight of 52,020 tons.

During the last five years, the United States has built or laid down six submarines of a total tonnage of 11,970 tons; Great Britain has laid down twenty ships of 18,539 tons; the Japanese twenty-six ships of 35,963 tons, and France seventy-four ships of 72,013 tons.

Will Be Last in 1935.

Analysis of the comparative submarine tonnage totals as well as the dates when new ships have been built or laid down by the powers reveals that without additional new building the United States will enter the next five power naval conference in 1935 or 1936 trailing all the other powers.

The tables showing the number of ships and tonnages of submarines which the major powers will have in 1936 if all vessels now building are completed, all vessels which become over age, eliminated, and no new vessels laid down indicate clearly how a naval building holiday would work to the advantage of other nations and to the disadvantage of this country. The table showing tonnages in 1936 follows:

Country.	Vessels.	Tonnage.
United States	20	26,070
Great Britain	26	34,934
Japan	39	53,672
France	80	77,546

In event vessels now appropriated for are built, Japan's total would be raised to 63,972 in built and building ships and Great Britain's to 41,209.

Summarized the submarine situation can be described about as follows: The United States sub fleet is made up of a few modern vessels with the bulk of ships so old that they are nearing obsoletion. The fleets of the other powers, thanks to accelerated building programs in recent years, are made up largely of new ships which will last for several years with a scattering of older vessels. While the American submarine fleet will be largely over age in the next few years, the fleets of Japan, France, and Great Britain to a lesser extent are made up of new ships which will last for several years.

All the powers have a few large submarines mounting guns larger than 5 inches and having tonnages in excess of 2,000 tons. Most modern submarines are now being built in the 1,100 to 1,500 ton tonnage level, the latter figure being the limit set by treaty. Japanese and British as well as French submarines have greater speeds than do any but perhaps half a dozen American submarines.

BUSINESS IS ON UPGRADE, LABOR FEDERATION SAYS

Hoover 500 Million Credit Plan Is Approved.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Confidence that the "underlying factors in the business situation are gradually improving" was expressed by the American Federation of Labor today in its monthly summary of business conditions.

"Debts are being paid off," the federation declared, "replacement demand is accumulating, consumer industries continue to increase production and business firms have been improving efficiency. These are the influences which create business recovery."

Increase in Unemployment.

Four "fundamental maladjustments," according to the federation, have caused an "atmosphere of acute fear" in business circles in the last month. The federation outlined these problems as the international financial situation, banking difficulties, the decline in railroad earnings, and the steady increase in unemployment. In each case, however, the federation pointed out that steps looking to their remedy already had been taken or were about to be taken.

The forthcoming discussions between Premier Laval of France and President Hoover are, in the opinion of the federation, "of the greatest significance" in solving the international finance problem. France and the United States, the summary points out, with 62 per cent of the world's gold supply, hold the "key to the situation."

The federation heartily endorses President Hoover's plan for a 500 million dollar credit corporation to "unfreeze" bank credits in this country, declaring that already "there are signs of increasing confidence in banking and business circles."

Await Rate Decision.

"Railroad earnings," the summary continued, "are of great importance because banks, saving organizations, and insurance companies have large investments in railroad securities. The railroad world is awaiting with hope the decision of the interstate commerce commission on rate increases. According to reports the President is seeking means of assisting the railroads by loans. Improvement in the railroad situation will help to restore confidence."

Regarding the recent wage cuts made by the United States Steel corporation and the Bethlehem Steel company, the federation declared that in both cases the cuts were made to "reduce a deficit created by paying dividends which the company had not earned."

"Wage cuts by the United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel," the federation asserted, "were sharply in contrast to the constructive policy of wage maintenance laid down by the President's conference of 1929. Representatives of both companies were parties to the wage truce. Their wage cuts now add to depression forces at a time when the nation can little afford to drive business further downward."

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

EDISON.

There will be learned appraisals of the accomplishments of Thomas Alva Edison and of his high place among inventors of all time. On these expert matters we are not equipped to speak. We know that his genius was in practical invention rather than in theoretical science, and that some of our greatest industries were largely founded upon his accomplishments. Edison's inventions are everywhere in our American life. We read by them, cook by them, are warmed by them, are transported by them and lit by them as we go. We hear over distances by them. They are aids to our comfort and our entertainment. If we thought of Edison every time one of his inventions performed a service for us he would be in our minds most of our waking hours.

But Edison was more than a great inventor. He was a personality, interesting in itself and apart from his achievements, a neighbor to us all, known and held in affection for his kindly qualities and esteemed for his homely virtues as well as admired for his genius. The great American family felt that he was one of them and not remote and above them, and they turned to him in his latter days for counsel in homely things. We have, it is true, an ingenuous notion that worldly success implies wisdom in all things, but there was more than that in our turning to Edison. His fame had introduced him to the common acquaintance, but it was because he was found of the human stuff we can all understand that he became for the public an adviser and friend.

For Edison had a sententious modesty which refused to make a mystery of genius, which he declared is "about 1 per cent inspiration and 99 per cent perspiration." His own character stoutly supported this, for certainly one of the most remarkable of his qualities was his industry, his concentration and persistence. He has said that up to 1903 he worked on an average of 19½ hours a day, and only later reduced it to eighteen. He has worked virtually without sleep for 60 hours. But when he played he gave himself as completely to it.

But while Edison's popularity as a man was partly the result of the unconscious flattery implied in his theory that his achievements were the fruits of a virtue we may all practice and in his willingness to be taken as one of us, we have liked him the better for our not really accepting his modest theory. The mystery of genius remains under the homespun of Edison's saying. Industry of the sort he exhibited had in it something exceptional. We realize, of course, that his labor was productive because it was directed by an exceptional aptitude for invention which no amount of industry, measured merely by time, could supply. But there was also an intensity which is a special mark of all genius, though not of all possessors of genius. Mrs. Edison has revealed a fact which illustrates strikingly this quality in Edison. She says that when he first began to suffer impairment of hearing he refused to take treatment from specialists, although the cure or at least the arrest of his deafness was a probability. Edison said he wanted more freedom to think and felt that to be shut off from the disturbing noises of the outer world—perhaps he had in mind the clatter of unprofitable talk—would be an advantage. There are few of us who would be willing to pay such a price for concentration.

But even this heroism is something we can understand as we cannot the processes of intellect which produce the high discoveries of pure science or the master works of the arts. We feel closer to Edison than to Einstein.

But Edison's emphasis upon work is in a special sense a mark of his Americanism. Work took on a new dignity in the new world our forefathers made. We are a society of workers in a sense never realized in the aristocratic societies of the world. Sprung from the working people of Europe, farmers, laborers, shopkeepers, and arrived in a wilderness where work was a necessity for all, we have taken the curse of Adam as a decree possessing the benignity of the high power that issued it, justified to us in its own nature and inner fulfillment.

This has been a reproach to us in the eyes of Europe, where to be free from work was and still is the essential mark of gentility. No doubt we have overdone our devotion, slighting the values of leisure. No doubt too many of us have lost sight of its meaning and thought only of its material rewards. We know at this moment in sorrow and disillusionment how delusive and how destructive the pursuit of wealth and the deadless preoccupation with material accomplishment can be. But these were chiefly excesses of the undisciplined individual which we shall learn how to restrain and which by a deepening and broadening conception of the meaning and opportunities of civilized life we shall discredit. They do not represent the real spirit of America, for never in our history has there been lacking idealism and the striving for the immaterial things of life. The school and the church sprang up with the stockade and the farmhouse, and nowhere else in the world has there been so enforced and lavish giving to the establishment of institutions of beneficence and advancement of thought. But work has been a tie that has bound us in democratic community, and our attitude toward it, our faith in it, have been essential in our conception of democratic society.

Leisure we have been learning to respect and understand, but not as an escape, for we would not escape what we embraced as the law of life, nor yet as a mere reward, for the reward was in work itself, in its expression of self, in its vitalizing exercise of our powers, in its revealments as well as its objective accomplishments.

This is a creative conception of life. The artist possesses it in its most obvious forms, but it is not only for the creator of works of imagination but for all men. Its roots are deep in the nature of mankind and therefore it has significance for the plodder as for the genius. American society has produced nothing more significant than its pervading sense of the dignity and beneficence of work, a conception more mature in its understanding of life than that which has evolved in the old world.

Edison was in nothing more profoundly American than in the honor he paid in word and deed to the gospel of work.

THE GOLD GOES EAST.

Premier Laval of France, on his journey to this country, may catch a glimpse of a number of liners eastbound, and if he does he no doubt will reflect on the fact that these liners are carrying vast sums in gold bullion and coin from the United States to Europe. Last week France alone took $114,000,000 in gold from this country and our gold stock was reduced by a total of $213,000,000.

Europe obtained a moratorium by alleging virtual bankruptcy. It is a strange bankruptcy, indeed, which is followed, as this one is, by enormous gold transfers to the bankrupt. The European countries have insisted for years that the debts can be paid only by the transfer of gold or the purchase of European goods in this country; and they have clinched their case by saying they had no gold to send us. France today has far more gold than she needs as a basis for currency and credit. There is no good reason then why France, at least, cannot pay her debts to us in gold. France, and no doubt some other countries as well, can repay what they owe the American taxpayers without causing themselves any distress, and they can do this whether Germany pays reparations to them or not.

RELIEF FUND FOOTBALL.

The suggestion that college football teams be matched for post-season games for the benefit of relief funds has been acted upon by nearly all of the playing schools. The season closes in November, but there will be a number of games played in early December for charity. Every season leaves many interesting questions unanswered because the teams which could determine them by playing each other are not matched. Ordinarily the matter rests there. Colleges which have feared the sport might get still deeper into the show business have not been eager to increase the dramatic interest or to prolong the football period.

Harvard, under the influence of President Lowell, has declined to join in the post-season games. Yale will play. The conference colleges hereabouts have amended their rules to permit it. Harvard stands out against the general acceptance of the charity program and thereby does itself an injury. This university is not, in reality, making its point. It defeats it because it puts a precious value upon a sport which will be the better for less pomposity. Why shouldn't two college teams play a game of football without the circumstances of a coronation? It wouldn't do the sport any harm if Harvard decided overnight it would play a post-season game with any college in the country for any reason. The game would then be on the footing of a sport and not of the worship of a sacred cow.

Editorial of the Day

THE GLORY OF AUTUMN.

[Beloit Daily News.]

It is a little bit odd that spring is generally supposed to be more of a hopeful, restless and unsettling sort of season than autumn.

Nobody expects much of fall. It is a collection of melancholy days, it abounds with chilly rains and raw winds, and it has a funereal overtone that sets poets and other sensitive people beating their breasts. Spring, on the other hand—then the young men see visions and the old men dream dreams, and each man wants to leave the place where he is and go places where he has not been.

That, at any rate, is the tradition. But it doesn't jibe with the facts. Autumn has been frightfully maligned. It is time justice was done. In most parts of the country autumn provides the nicest weather of the whole year. Furthermore—since our moods depend so greatly on what the sun and wind and sky do to us—it is a time for visions and dreams, for the birth of new hopes and the revival of old ones; a season, in fact, which does most of the things spring is supposed to do much better than spring actually does them.

To be sure, autumn brings death and decay. But it works with greater artistry than spring, for it clothes all in the beauty of flaming woodland and misty field that is breath-taking; it reconciles us to them, it bemuses us and persuades us—as supremely great artists do—that death and decay are only preliminary to a rebirth.

Its hazy air, too, carries a breath of vagabondage. A morning in May can incite one to truancy; but an October afternoon, when the corn shocks stand in uneven rows like the tepees of an Indian encampment on a rolling field, is the time when the Red Gods are really astir. For then one perceives that the road to the end of the earth starts wherever one's feet happen to be, and there is apt to be just enough of a nip in the wind to delude a man into thinking he can walk as far as the spirit moves him.

And suppose that we are too mundane to be stirred by such fanciful things? Well, in the mere matter of material comfort fall offers more than spring. Spring gets you ready for warm weather and then sprinkles snow on you. The "spring cold" is proverbial, and the bright days have an icy sting underneath the sunshine. Autumn is more honest. You expect the worst—and, very often, you get the best.

The old tradition needs revising. Autumn, once you get to understand it, is the best time of all the year.

CHILDREN'S BAD HABITS.

IN MANY places it is possible for parents to take their children to a habit clinic. In some places such clinics are a part of the school system; in others they are operated by other agencies, and in some there are several such clinics maintained by diverse agencies. This kind of clinic is not for subnormal, delinquent, and problem children. It has to do with the training of nervous children, nail-biters, dirt eaters, stammerers, poor sleepers, children with enuresis, children with poor appetites, boisterous children, rowdies, fighters, timid and shy children, those who are afraid of the dark, of ghosts, and who have other fears and phobias.

Many of the difficulties that children suffer call for training rather than medicine, and not many physicians' offices are equipped to take care of child training. Of course, the best place for such is in the home, but so many homes are not equipped for it.

In an investigation of the reasons for problems of this nature, as the cause is found in the home, Southard and Jarrett found that in one-third of the cases ignorance was the stumbling block. They reported not only a lack of knowledge necessary for the management of the home and family situations, but also erroneous, preconceived ideas regarding the means and methods of running the household.

Poverty and vice in the home were the other two reasons found for failure of the home as a place for habit training, in so large a measure. Since neither the home nor the physician's office furnishes all the help needed in the training of so many children, the department of education has had to step into the breach. Since so many of the children who need this service are of pre-school age, various other agencies have had to organize habit clinics.

A report on the subject of habit clinics made by Dr. D. A. Thom is being circulated by the children's bureau, United States department of labor. The report supplements statements of what has been done and what needs to be done by detailing cases handled in habit clinics. An interesting section is devoted to temper tantrums. Cases cited show why different children were given to outbreaks of temper and how to go about training them. Another section relates to poor appetite children; another to poor sleepers; and still another to bed wetters.

BALANCED FOODS.

A. T. writes: You said a diet consisting of milk and cereal for breakfast and soup and vegetables for dinner was badly balanced. How so? I thought milk and vegetables made a balanced diet.

REPLY.

I also said that since no information was given as to quantities, or as to what was eaten at the third meal, I could only hazard a guess. Since I am still without facts to answer your question, I must continue guessing.

My guess is that such a diet would be too bulky and would contain too much roughage. On the other hand, it would be low in calories, fats, proteins, and starches. The chances are that it would contain enough minerals and probably enough vitamins A and C. There is more than an even chance that there would be too little vitamins B and D.

OPERATION FOR SCAR.

M. H. writes: When I was 2 years old I fell on a spike, which struck a half inch below my right eye. The wound is healed, but a dent is left there. I have tried massaging it with cocoanut oil, but it has not helped any. Is there any way of removing the dent or hole? Will a plastic surgery operation be needed?

REPLY.

HAZARD NOT MUCH LARGER.

J. O. M. writes: If a woman is ruptured, is it harmful for her to become pregnant?

REPLY.

PARKWAY CLEARED.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly refer this complaint to the proper department? On 62d street, near Stony Island, is an empty lot overgrown with noxious weeds. It belongs to a demented person and nobody feels responsibility for cutting this vegetation. Several people in the neighborhood suffer from hay fever on account of it. D. D. W.

Report is made that the 6th ward forces have cut the weeds in the parkway space and along the edge of sidewalk on 62d street in the vicinity of Stony Island avenue. Health inspector in this district will serve notice on owner of vacant lot or his representative to have the weeds cut thereon.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

PROBABLY IN DEFAULT.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—An old lady, who is alone in the world, has some property which she leases for light housekeeping. A certain bank held her mortgage of $6,500 which was not due until April 8, 1932. 1. They called her to the bank and told her she would have to split her mortgage and make a new first of $4,500 and a second of $2,000, with payments of $40 a month. She told them she could not do this but they made her sign the papers anyway. 2. She was behind with her interest on account of insufficient revenue. She is afraid they will foreclose on her. Can they do this? W. W.

1. It seems probable that she was in default or that there were other additional facts explaining the refinancing.
2. We advise her to go to an attorney now.

BARBED WIRE FENCES.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you please tell me if it is within the law to have barbed wire inside a two foot hedge surrounding my property? The hedge is two feet wide and I have a bird bath where numerous birds bathe and it is a temptation to the stray dogs to spring on the birds, and I would also like to protect my hedges. M. C.

A city ordinance prohibits barbed wire along the line of a thoroughfare. In our view, this means close enough to tear the clothing of persons who are properly using the thoroughfare and would not apply to your case but, during a previous city administration, the corporation counsel rendered an opinion that the wording would apply to barbed wire further within the boundaries.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Ed. L.

IT IS INDEED MOST GRATIFYING to every true American that our Mr. Prentiss Gilbert, who will sit in with the League of Nations council's discussion on the Japanese questions, has very large, heavy, and apparently quite black eyebrows. You see, America sits in the council, but you must understand that we are not yet a real member of the League of Nations. Not yet. Therefore it is important about Mr. Gilbert's eyebrows. As more or less of an outsider our Mr. Gilbert can hardly be expected to talk cold turkey to the Japs and tell 'em where they get off at. But—and this is again most important—he can look at the Jap delegates and raise his eyebrows at them. Nothing is so disconcerting as having some one raise his eyebrows at you. Mr. Gilbert won't even need to say "tut, tut," or "naughty, naughty," to the Japs. He can just glare at the Japs and raise his eyebrows. And won't those Japs feel cheap! My dear, they will go right through the floor.

THROUGH A LOOKING GLASS.

An old man stands and talks before a looking glass. (Some day, to you or me, this thing may come to pass):

"Well, well! Who are you,
Obstructing my view
As I draw nearer
My bathroom mirror?
Your face is puffy,
Your figure stuffy,
You are old looking—
Cold looking. . . .
And I don't care for your hair.
Don't stand there and stare!
I will not shave you,
I will not love you,
I say—
Get out of my way!

This is my private mirror,
You impudent peerer!
I'm looking for a—well, a
Keen young fellow . . .
Or, middle aged, maybe—a strong man,
Upstanding. You're the wrong man;
Your eyes are watery,
Your legs are tottery,
You impostor . . . Why, you're
Just a caricature
Of the lad I've been shaving
For years. (How I'm raving!)
Get out of my way,
I say."

And so he argued and protested, but, alas,
The strange intruder would not leave the looking glass.

EOLUS.

WE WOULD GATHER from the results Saturday that education is much more advanced in the east than here in the great middle west as shown in the total: Chicago, 0; Yale, 27. On the other hand, Northwestern defeated the collegians from California 19 to 0, thereby proving that education in the middle west has it all over the educational system of the far west. However, we must not jump at hasty conclusions, but wait until the football season is farther advanced.

MOTORISTS are warned against fake anti-freeze solutions. A lot of unsuspecting people will never know until they take a good stiff drink of it. And probably they won't even know then. Too late!

AND THE FACT that the teachers of the Chicago school will not be given any more scrip works a further calamity now that winter is approaching. Many of the teachers, having received no pay for six months, walk back and forth to their schools, the street cars insisting on seven cents the ride. Many teachers found that the scrip given to them in place of real money, if folded neatly several times and placed in the bottoms of their shoes, almost took the place of the soles which are quite worn out. Some philanthropist should really rise up and tell the teachers what to put in their shoes to keep their feet nearly warm now that they have no scrip.

It Sounds Too Navyish! It'll Have to Go, Too.

Thou, too, sail on, O Ship of State!
To the nearest dry dock, and shut the gate.

A MAN UP at St. Paul, Minn., trained the fish in the lake near his house to come up when he rang a dinner bell and eat food out of his hand. Yesterday he went to Mayor Anderson of St. Paul and complained that now whenever his neighbors want a good fish dinner they go down to the lake, ring a dinner bell, and then when the poor fish come nosing around their hands they grab 'em and throw 'em into the frying pan. This sounds like a breaking out of the old rivalry between St. Paul and Minneapolis. St. Paul wins the first round, but wait until we hear from Minneapolis. They'll probably produce some fish that not only come up when they hear the dinner bell but come ashore and tuck napkins under their chins before they sit down at the table, and after dinner they wash and wipe the dishes, and weigh themselves on their own scales. Or maybe something better than that; Minneapolis gets pretty mad when St. Paul starts anything.

DREAMS.

I have washed and ironed my dreams,
Darned them where they're tattered,
Rubbed the blistered spots away
Where a moonbeam spattered.

But the glamour wouldn't stay
Which the moonbeams gave them,
Now that they are tidy things
Who the deuce would save them?

HELEN WELSHIMER.

ANYHOW, THE TRIAL will be a warning to Mr. Capone never again to wear silk undies. There are two things that as a people we Americans never forgive—side whiskers and silk undies.

THE END OF THE SHAM BATTLE AND THE BEGINNING OF THE REAL ONE

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 19, 1915.

LONDON.—The long expected break in the coalition cabinet formed by Premier Asquith has come. Sir Edward Carson, the attorney general, resigned. He has so far made no explanation of his reasons, but it is understood he disapproves of the policy which is being followed in the Balkans and the Dardanelles and the method of confiding the whole national policy to a "small group in a cabinet." Sir Edward's course may be followed by other members of the cabinet, as several of them regard the Dardanelles expedition as a failure and openly favor its abandonment. That these rumors have basis in fact is indicated by news that Maj. Gen. Charles Carmichael Monro has been appointed to command the Dardanelles expedition in succession to Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, who has failed to smash through the Turk defenses. Hamilton is returning to England to make a report.

LONDON.—Dispatches from Rome say that the French contingent of the allied Balkan expedition which joined the Serbians repulsed the Bulgarian attacks at Lake Doran and at Vallandova, where they undertook counter-attacks. They inflicted heavy losses on the Bulgarians. The allies have occupied the important strategic town of Strumnitza in the extreme southwestern part of Bulgaria.

OCTOBER 19, 1901.

WASHINGTON. — Throughout the southern states the press and people discussed the President's action in having Booker T. Washington as a guest at a private dinner in the White House. While among the rabid anti-Negro element and in the ranks of the irreconcilables there was denunciation, at times bitter, still the more advanced southern sentiment was inclined to regard the incident merely as a suitable courtesy to a worthy man. In Boston the matter was discussed and universal opinion there commended the dinner-host and guest. One significant feature of the sensation thus wrought up was that scarcely anybody would allow his name with uncomplimentary opinion to be quoted in the newspapers. The denunciations were in most cases strictly anonymous.

CHICAGO.—Sir Thomas Lipton had his first experience of fresh water yachting here when the naval reserve yacht Dorothea, on which he was guest, ended its cruise by running aground, blowing out a cylinder head, and breaking the bowsprit off the Ruth, which was acting as a tender.

MANILA.—Five hundred insurgent bolomen rushed forty-six men of Company E, Ninth infantry, at Bangajon, on the Gandara river, Island of Samar, and killed ten and wounded six. Reinforcements arrived for the Americans and the other men of the Ninth were rescued. Nearly 100 bolomen were killed.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 19, 1881.

YORKTOWN, Va.—President Arthur, members of the cabinet, many United States senators and members of the house of representatives and several other distinguished men arrived here for the celebration of the centennial of the American victory over the British army under Cornwallis. The corner stone of the Yorktown monument was laid by the Masons with impressive ceremonies.

CHICAGO.—Mrs. E. Dillon, one of the oldest residents of Chicago, died at the home of her son-in-law, Patrick Cavanaugh. She was born in County Galway, Ireland, in 1803. Two of her sons—the Rev. James Dillon and the Rev. Patrick Dillon—were among the most distinguished ecclesiastics of the Catholic church in America. Both were president of Notre Dame university.

CHICAGO.—Directors of the Chicago Atheneum took summary action which will prove of interest to scholars and patrons of the institution generally. They deposed Francis Le Baron from the position of superintendent. B. P. Moulton, president of the board, explained that Mr. Le Baron had made himself obnoxious to the management by assuming too much authority.

THE POLICEMAN'S POWERS.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—"A Slap on the Wrist" was timely and needed. What was said therein should be iterated and reiterated. Particularly is this true of the last line, "Policemen . . . think that a citizen has no rights that must be respected." This situation arises largely from ignorance by the public of why a policeman exists.

Every member of the community is bound to himself obey the law and to require obedience by every other member. But what is everybody's business is nobody's business. The community is therefore forced to dress some of its members in blue clothes with brass buttons, put stars on their chests, clubs in their fists and guns in their pockets and tell them to go out and, for pay, do what these men were already bound to do without pay. But these men have no power and authority as policemen they did not already have, and that are not possessed by all other members of the community. They have no greater right of arrest, of search or seizure, of confining on suspicion or for questioning, of entry into premises or breaking doors than they had before becoming policemen, or than possessed by all other members of the community. A citizen has the same right and duty to arrest a policeman as a policeman has to arrest a citizen. The only difference between the two is that a policeman is paid to do his duty; a citizen is not.

Some academic difference exists in the degree of proof required to relieve policemen of liability for false arrest as contrasted with a private citizen under like circumstances; they carry guns without special permission and may execute writs from the Municipal court. But the general truth remains that a policeman has no power or authority not possessed by every other member of the community.

The remedy is to make the city respond in damages for police abuse of citizens or their property. At the late session of the legislature such a law was passed making cities liable for injuries caused by the fire departments. A few verdicts against the city for police abuses would prompt the municipal authorities to remove the offending policemen. A few removals would radically alter the attitude of the police toward citizens.

For not admiring the cops enough, Hoover hawls out the American people. They know cops better than he. They have lived here longer. He misstates the attitude of the American people toward gangsters as flagrantly as he abuses his position in dangerously meddling abroad while destroying the first defense of America, the navy.

LAWYER.

ANOTHER BANK POOL.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—I would like to suggest a plan for relief of the people who hold real estate mortgages which, though valuable, cannot be used as security under present conditions. Let the large banks form a pool with sufficient funds. Then holders of real estate bonds or mortgages, whether in default or not, may present their securities. The banks composing the pool should appoint a committee of real estate experts to appraise the property at its present value; then a loan of a fair amount, say 60 per cent of this appraised value, could be made at a fair rate of interest and payable not later than the maturity of the original security. If there be default in either interest or principal, the holder of the security will acquire property worth much more than the investment.

THE ROCK RIVER RESOLUTIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—I have read in your issue of the 13th the editorial "The Methodist Church in Politics," in which you list the following resolutions adopted by the Methodist ministers composing the Rock River conference:

1. Approving the Anti-Saloon league.
2. Supporting national prohibition.
3. Approving rights of aliens to citizenship without a pledge to the country in war.
4. Urging the President to do what he can to have the allies relieve Germany of their indictment of Germany as a war criminal.
5. Urging the United States to enter the world court.
6. Urging the abolition of national armies and navies by the creation of a world police force.
7. Condemning the individualistic and competitive organization of society as more worthy of the jungle than of Christianity.

With the exception of item 3, which I do not indorse, I wish to state that, in my opinion, these resolutions comprise the most constructive utterances made by any body of clergymen in the past fifty years.

The only free speech in this country today is in the pulpit; the press is no longer respects free speech. The bold and patriotic resolutions of these clergymen of the Rock River conference indicate that we are now to have some real leaders and that now, at last, an attempt is to be made to take the "opiate" out of religion. Item 7 above sounds like Patrick Henry. More power to these clergymen. The world is getting no better fast and these men should be given our support. WALTER J. STEER.

IN THE KINDERGARTEN.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—At a recent mass meeting of the west side teachers, Mr. Joseph Savage invited the teachers to tell of any instance of graft, for which the school board was responsible. Today we received toys for our kindergarten. We received some leather animals for which we were charged 50 cents apiece, and which could be purchased in any department store for 35 cents. Little two inch lambs, which are sold in the 10 cent stores, also cost us 50 cents each. Ten cent store rubber balls were sent to us marked 50 cents apiece. We were charged $3 for the ugliest, undefined stockinette doll that I ever saw. These are only a few of the articles for which we were charged all the way from two to five times their value.

TRAVEL IS BROADENING.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—I was riding along the outer drive with my six year old son when he called my attention to a strange and weird looking structure.

"What's that?" he asked.

With suitable dignity I replied, "That is the new Travel and Transport building."

There was a moment's pause, during which he scrutinized it intensively. Then, turning to me, he remarked, "Daddy, when are they going to build it?"

IN TRIBUTE TO LIPTON.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Now that Sir Thomas Lipton, that gallant old sportsman who tried unsuccessfully so many times to win the America's cup, is dead, it would, I think, be very fitting if the custodians of "that elusive old mug," as he called it, renamed it the Lipton cup. R. W.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

Throng Flings Bottles at Sir Oswald.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 18.—Sir Oswald Mosley, a British "young man in a hurry," and leader of the New party, was forced to leave the Birmingham rag market tonight in a very great hurry amidst a hurricane of bottles and chairs. He departed by a side entrance.

SIR OSWALD MOSLEY.
[U. & U. Photo.]

Speaking before a crowd of 12,000, Sir Oswald became the central figure of one of the bloodiest political riots in the history of Birmingham. The meeting began in an orderly fashion, although there was a great deal of good humored banter. Cries of "Where is your bodyguard?" were flung at Mosley, who, because of the stormy nature of his meetings, has been forced to take a gang of hefty bouncers with him, including "Kid" Lewis, the boxer, wherever he speaks.

Bodyguard Is Called.

Rowdyism began when the loud speakers broke down. Sir Oswald's voice couldn't reach the multitude. When the heckling became too much for Mosley his bouncers entered the hall at a given signal and descended on the hecklers. Then the riot started. Mosley jumped from the platform and started an argument in one section of the crowd. The audience rushed the platform and Mosley was forced back on to the platform again.

Chairs and bottles were flung at Mosley, who received both cuts and bruises in the melee. When the uproar increased Mosley and his bodyguard emerged from the wreckage of chairs and bottles and beat a hasty retreat.

Lloyd George Denies Pact.

David Lloyd George tonight issued a denial of an article in the London Express that he has made a secret pact with the Labor party to become its leader.

"I know of no pact," the Liberal leader said.

A political correspondent on the London Express states that the war time coalition leader had made his intention clear to Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary in the late Labor cabinet, now leader of the opposition party to the nationalist government, in their recent secret talk at Lloyd George's country home at Churt, where he is convalescing from a recent operation.

The newspaper credited the agreement to the discomfiture of the Labor party, because of Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden's recent disclosures that most of the old Labor ministry favored tariffs rather than cuts in the dole.

MUSSOLINI FROWNS ON POMP IN FASCIST SHOW; 'TIMES ARE TOO HARD'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 18.—Premier Benito Mussolini will attend no high hatted functions, sumptuous receptions, lobster banquets, or pompous gala events, he told the city of Naples yesterday. Naples is expecting him next Saturday when all of the 800 odd principal chieftains of Fascism will gather there to celebrate the ninth anniversary of their march on Rome.

"I have read in the papers that preparation is being made for a sumptuous reception and a gala evening. I warn you that I will not come to these functions. This is not the time for them," Mussolini wired to the high commissioner of Naples.

On Oct. 28 the celebration of the march on Rome will be observed throughout Italy with all Fascists in uniform.

Premier Mussolini will make a speech at Naples which is intended to have a tonic effect on Fascism in the southern part of the peninsula.

USE OF ECONOMIC PRESSURE AS WAR CURE STUDIED

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Formation of a committee to study the possible use of economic pressure by the United States against a nation going to war in violation of treaty provisions was announced today by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university.

Members of the committee include Edward N. Hurley of Chicago, chairman of U. S. shipping board; Frank O. Lowden of Chicago, former governor of Illinois, and Silas H. Strawn of Chicago, president American Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Butler was invited to head the committee by the trustees of the Twentieth Century fund of New York. He said a report is expected before the end of the year.

WORK TO START TODAY ON FIFTH FAIR STRUCTURE

Following a brief ceremony the first steel column of the electrical group, fifth structure of the 1933 World's Fair, will be raised this afternoon. The site of the electrical group, which was designed by Raymond Hood, New York member of the exposition's architectural commission, is on Northerly island, south of the Adler planetarium and separated from the Hall of Science by the lagoon.

The group is to consist of three two story units totaling 1,200 feet in length and 300 feet in width. One unit will be devoted to radio, another to communications, and the third to power generation, distribution, and utilization.

Steel framework and a steel and wall board exterior are to be used in the construction. White, yellow, red, black, and blue predominate in the color scheme. Hanging gardens will embellish the structures.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

CAPONE PRISON TERM MAY BE SET TOMORROW

Gangster Faces Possible 17 Year Sentence.

U. S. Pleased with Verdict.

Mr. Johnson and his staff appeared pleased with the Capone verdict, although it was obviously a compromise, in contrast with the "guilty on all counts" verdicts returned in previous income tax trials. The prosecutors pointed out that Capone stands convicted on three felony counts for three separate years, charging attempts to evade taxes for 1925, 1926, and 1927, and two misdemeanor counts, willful failure to file returns for 1928 and 1929. This conviction carries as much weight as either that of Jack Guzik or Capone's brother, Ralph, they said.

Capone was acquitted on a felony count for the year 1924 and seventeen felony counts for the years 1925 to 1929, inclusive. However, the indictments contained four felony counts for each year, with the exception of 1924, and there were based on the same set of facts, though in different legal form.

Had the jury found Capone guilty on all four felony counts for any one year, the sentences for that year would necessarily have run concurrently, the prosecutors said. This was the basis of Assistant United States Attorney Jacob I. Grossman's first belief that the verdict was inconsistent. He doubted whether the jury could find the defendant guilty on one count and not guilty on another when the same income and set of facts were involved.

However, after studying the law, he was satisfied, and the prosecutors said they are not worried over what capital the defense may make of the supposed inconsistent verdict when they take the case to the higher courts.

One Juror Holds Out.

It was reported yesterday that one juror was responsible for the delay in arriving at a verdict—eight hours and ten minutes—although he did not hold out for an acquittal. This man felt that the possible maximum of 32 years' imprisonment on all counts was too drastic for the nature of the offense, and wished to eliminate certain counts, it was said.

The felony counts for 1928 and 1929 were excluded, it was reported, because the jury considered that Capone had tried to settle his tax liability for those years through his tax expert, Lawrence P. Mattingly, after spending most of 1929 in a Philadelphia prison.

Capone was merely found guilty of failure to make income returns for 1928 and 1929.

Acquitted of 1924 Charge.

The felony count for 1924 was believed to have been eliminated because there was evidence to show that Capone worked for Johnny Torrio that year, getting $75 a week. The government contended that he received $123,000 from the Hawthorne Smoke shop, a Cicero gambling house, but did not succeed in definitely linking him with that establishment prior to May, 1925.

Elmer L. Irey, national chief of the intelligence unit, which developed the income tax case against Capone, disclosed that the government had evidence which it did not use. This included Western Union money transfers of $100,000 for 1929 to Capone in Florida.

The federal agents were unable to find Charles Fischetti and others who had signed for the transfers. The agents, working under A. P. Madden, their Chicago chief, also uncovered income from the vice traffic in Stickney, which was not used.

CAPONE GANGSTER, FREED ON PLEDGE, LATE FOR SHOWUP

Michael "Bon Bon" Allegretti, a Capone gangster, formerly the manager of Capone's Cicero Cotton club and a cousin of Al Capone, kept a promise yesterday he had made on Saturday in order to get out of jail. He appeared at the detective bureau for the showup in which prisoners are paraded before victims of crimes.

MICHAEL ALLEGRETTI.

Allegretti was fifty minutes late. He was nattily dressed and carried his light overcoat on his arm as he stepped up to Chief of Detectives Schoemaker and said, "Here I am."

"What about it?" asked Schoemaker. "Where are the horn rimmed glasses you usually wear?"

"I haven't got them with me," said Allegretti, and Schoemaker ordered him into a line of prisoners under a spotlight and on a platform facing an audience of two hundred persons. Lieut. Richard Barry was questioning the suspects.

"Ever been arrested?" he asked Allegretti who said "No."

"Not more than 100 times," said Lieut. Barry who was looking at Allegretti's record which contained no mention of a double killing in Kansas. No one identified Allgretti and he was allowed to go.

BANDITS INVADE DOCTOR'S HOME; LOOT IS $1,480

Two armed bandits routed Dr. Maurice N. Knopp and his wife out of bed after terrorising a maid and escaped with $1,480 in jewelry and cash early yesterday. The bandits came to the office of the doctor adjoining his living quarters at 4207 West Madison street and told the maid, Edna Coon, to summon the physician.

When she demanded they give their names, one of the bandits drew a revolver and forced her into a room in which Mrs. Knopp was sleeping. One bandit stood guard while the other roused Dr. Knopp, who was also brought into the room.

The second bandit also returned with the information that Billy Sheldon Knopp, 4 year old son of the doctor, was in the kitchen eating a bowl of bread and milk. The first bandit cautioned his companion not to disturb the boy's meal.

The second bandit ransacked the home, taking rings, a bracelet, and a watch valued at $1,440, and $40 in cash. Mrs. Knopp saved two rings valued at $700 by turning them about so that the gems in them did not show.

BURGLARS OPEN SYNAGOGUE SAFE.

Burglars broke into the synagogue of the Congregation Schare Pilo Buey Ruben, 1326 South Kedvale avenue, and opened a small safe, it was discovered yesterday when Samuel H. Palmer, president of the congregation, opened the synagogue. There was no money in the safe.

AUDITOR NELSON TO PLEAD TODAY IN BANK CASE

State Auditor Oscar Nelson, indicted by the Lake county grand jury on charges of misfeasance in office and conspiracy in connection with the closing of the Waukegan State bank last June 17, is to enter his plea today before Circuit Judge Ralph Dady at Waukegan. The auditor has repeatedly announced he will plead not guilty.

Attorney Albert Fink, counsel for Mr. Nelson, is expected to ask a delay. If this is not granted he will present preliminary motions asking that the indictment be quashed and if this is not sustained, for a change of venue. It is expected a long continuance will be won before actual trial starts.

Prison Warden, Prospective Capone Host, Visits City

Warden T. B. White of the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas., who may be host to Al Capone, passed through Chicago yesterday en route to the prison congress which opens at Baltimore today. Warden White was accompanied by Mrs. White. The warden was told the gang chief faces a possible term of 15 years in the penitentiary for income tax evasion and is to know his sentence next Tuesday. "So I understand," Warden White said. "He'll be my guest if they ever send him down."

CONTRASTS U. S. COURT SPEED TO STATE'S DELAYS

Northup Cites Capone Case as Example.

Methods of procedure in criminal cases in the federal courts, as exemplified by the trial of Al Capone, were contrasted to methods in similar cases in the state courts yesterday by First Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northup. For more than one year Northup has been trying to push Timothy J. Crowe, president of the sanitary district board during the so-called whoopee era, and eight other former officials of the district to trial in the state courts.

JOHN E. NORTHUP.

"If the sanitary district case were in the federal courts it would have been disposed of long ago," commented the prosecutor who for many years was first assistant United States district attorney here. "The methods used in the government courts are not even comparable to the antiquated procedure in the state courts."

The sharp contrast between the federal and state procedure, as illustrated in the Capone trial, starts with the voting of the indictments. Under the federal system the grand jury votes an indictment and may suppress the document for reasons "for service" as it is called. In the meantime the government brings together the elements of its case and has the defendant in jail or under bond before he or the public is aware an indictment has been started.

Becomes Public Property.

Using the Capone case as an example, it was pointed out, that the indictment was returned in April and did not become public until June. In the state courts an indictment is public property the minute it is returned in court whether the defendant be arrested, is under bond or a fugitive from justice. On the back of the indictment the state must place names of its important witnesses, so this information also becomes public property. Under the federal practice the district attorney assigns the cases to the judges for trial. In view of the fact that federal judges are appointed for life and need not depend on political prestige or favor for reelection not much of a problem confronts the district attorney in his assignments.

Procedure in the state courts does not give the state's attorney any voice in the matter of assignment of cases. Up until this year the cases were assigned by rotation by an employé of the criminal court clerk's office unless he were otherwise ordered by the chief justice or influenced by political or other considerations. The new practice instituted by Chief Justice Fisher is to assign the cases himself.

Speed in Federal Court.

The next step of a criminal court trial after assignment in a state case is to bring the defendant into court for arraignment, argument of preliminary motions, and the setting of the trial date. In the Capone case in the federal court this was all done at one court session.

Using the untried sanitary district case as a contrast the prosecutor pointed out that original motions to quash the indictment took over three weeks in the criminal courts. In the state courts the defense will be privileged to spend many more days arguing for a list of state witnesses, a bill of particulars and on other technicalities. In the federal courts the government does not have to name any witnesses prior to their taking the witness stand.

Under the federal system men eligible for jury service come recommended from their employers or postmaster as honest, reliable and incorruptible. The state court system for this most important feature of a criminal trial is for a jury commission to shake out from a wheel at random the names of possible jurymen from a list of the eligible voters. The jury commissioners and their employés are political appointees.

"I never try an important criminal case unless I have some trusted representative watch the selection of the jury list," said a veteran prosecutor, a colleague of Northup.

Selection of the jury in the Capone case took exactly one day. For a trial of similar public interest the same task might have taken a month in the state courts, the prosecutor said.

In the federal courts the judge questions the veniremen. The lawyers do it in the state courts and their questions range from the political belief of a juryman to the place of his birth and that of his father and grandfather.

Another outstanding contrast, it was pointed out, is that the federal judges exercise a true judicial function in advising the jurors as to the value and weight of the evidence presented. They instruct the jurors orally and in understandable language and may even comment on the value of evidence. In the state courts the judge reads a series of typewritten papers handed to him by the state and defense lawyers.

Federal Judge Rebukes Counsel.

It was noted that many times during the Capone trial that Judge Wilkerson halted the proceedings to rebuke the defense attorneys with the phrase "Address all your remarks to the court and not to opposing counsel." At another time he said, in substance, during Attorney Fink's exposition of law to the jurors:

"When the proper time comes I will tell the jurors what the law is, and I will instruct them to disregard what the attorneys try to present to them as the law."

The Capone case was tried in two weeks. A similar trial would take eight or nine weeks in the state courts, exclusive of the time necessary for the selection of the jury, Northup said.

DELAYS IN FACTOR CASE VEX CONSUL OF BRITISH CROWN

Franklin R. Overmyer, counsel for the British crown, declared yesterday that unless the extradition case against John [Jake the Barber] Factor is brought speedily to a conclusion he will ask the United States District court to order the former Halsted street barber to jail.

F. R. OVERMYER.

Factor has had only the company of a deputy marshal to interfere with his liberty since his arrest here last July on complaint of the British government that he had swindled English investors out of $7,000,000 through fraudulent manipulation of stocks issued on allegedly worthless mining properties in Africa. He is wanted in England for trial on the charge.

Mr. Overmyer said that he was "out of patience with the maneuvering of defense counsel," which has caused the extradition hearing before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker to drag over a long period. "Had Factor been sent to jail to await the outcome of the hearing like other prisoners I believe there would have been less delay in reaching a decision in the matter," Mr. Overmyer said.

The hearing at one point was recessed for three weeks by Commissioner Walker to allow defense counsel time to bring witnesses from England to testify in behalf of Factor. Mr. Overmyer opposed the delay on the grounds that the testimony had no place in the proceedings until Factor was placed on trial.

STEER ATTACKS RODEO PRODUCER; RIDERS INJURED

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Four persons were slightly injured at the rodeo in Madison Square Garden tonight, Okey Asness, a cowboy of Billings, Mont., and a brother of Merritt Asness, who was injured at the opening of the rodeo Saturday night, was thrown and trampled during the steer riding contest.

The steer was driven off by other cowboys and headed for an enclosure where Col. Thomas Johnson, producer of the rodeo, was conferring with assistants. All of them scattered and ran. The steer then picked out Col. Johnson and pinned him against the wall. He was badly shaken up, but escaped with a wrenched ankle.

Find Bullet Riddled Auto; Gang Slaying Seen

The finding of an automobile, bullet riddled, in front of 1714 Julian street yesterday caused the police to suspect that a gang murder had occurred. The license plates on the car had been reported stolen by Russell Berini, 1209 North La Salle street and the car had been stolen from Albert Kimmler, 51 Bellevue place, more than a week ago. A search of hospitals and a check of physicians' offices was ordered in the hope that some information about the shooting could be gained.

Now Whiten Your Teeth 3 Shades in 3 Days

Remove nasty Yellow this way

NOBODY likes to look at teeth that are dull, dingy, yellow, discolored or eaten away by decay. And there's now no reason why you should have such teeth. They're unnatural. And the new scientific Kolynos Dry-Brush Technique proves they're unnatural—by removing stain and yellow, and making teeth gleaming white.

Try this technique for a few days . . . A half-inch of Kolynos on a dry brush, morning and night. You'll note an improvement after the first brushing. Your mouth will feel cleaner than ever. And in just 3 days teeth will look whiter—fully 3 shades whiter. Gums will feel firmer and look healthier. All because Kolynos does what no ordinary toothpaste can do—it kills the millions of germs that cause most tooth and gum troubles. And cleans teeth as they should be cleaned—RIGHT DOWN TO THE BEAUTIFUL NAKED WHITE ENAMEL WITHOUT INJURY.

Kolynos is unique—unlike anything you've ever used. The very moment it enters the mouth it FOAMS, thus permitting the use of a dry brush which makes Kolynos 10 times more effective.

This penetrating FOAM gets into and cleans out every tiny pit, fissure and crevice. It erases tartar and yellow—washes away the unsightly mucoid coating. It kills the millions of germs that swarm into the mouth with every breath and attack teeth and gums—kills 190 million in the first 15 seconds.

Easily and quickly this remarkable Kolynos FOAM cleans teeth gleaming white and keeps them sound. It stimulates gums and keeps the breath sweet and fresh.

If you really want sound, dazzling white teeth and firm, coral-pink gums, try this way. You'll be glad that you did. Buy a tube of Kolynos from any druggist.

NEW U. S. COMBAT PLANES TO RIVAL BRITAIN'S BEST

Latest Ideas to Be Carried Out in Crafts.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Radically new combat planes ordered by the war department may overrule British claims to the highest performing military ship in the world.

Within eight months a formidable array of military craft representing great departures from standard types will be aloft on service tests.

Pursuit planes, which are expected to equal or rival Britain's best, and attack, observation, and bombing ships of new design are now under construction.

The British military speedster is the Hawker "Fury" for which the air ministry gives an official speed of 215 miles an hour at 15,000 feet altitude.

Details of Designs Secret.

Of more recent experimental development is a Fairey "Firefly" pursuit ship contracted for by Belgium from England which has a rated speed of 223 miles an hour at 13,000 feet.

Details on air corps designs are being withheld but they are expected to match more favorably with foreign models than equipment now in service. Pursuit planes in use now have estimated maximum speeds of 164 to nearly 190 miles an hour.

Air corps officers explain that the British and American planes are not directly comparable since the former are defensive weapons.

New Ideas to Be Carried Out.

The major air corps trends to be reflected in the new equipment will include more concentration on monoplane and, particularly, low wing designs; greater use of retractable landing gears, and more stream lining where wheels cannot be drawn into the fuselage, and use of liquid cooled engines because of less frontal area than air cooled types.

Glider Builder Killed in One of His Aircraft

Redondo Beach, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Victor Evans, 40, president of a Los Angeles glider manufacturing company, was fatally injured today when his glider crashed at a meet at Hollywood Riviera, near here. The accident occurred shortly before a dinner he expected to give here for 75 pilots of southern California attending the meet. Donald Stevens, 13, son of Leonard Stevens, song writer, was injured internally at the meet yesterday when he guided his glider into a cliff to avoid striking a group of spectators.

Proves It Is Ready for Active Service.

Akron, O., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Successfully completing the last and most rigorous of its flight trials, the U. S. S. Akron rode at anchor within its dock today awaiting the government's call to join the navy's air fleet. Riding out of the southwest shortly after midnight on a spanking breeze, the Akron moored at 7:08 [eastern standard time] this morning after a cruise of 41 hours and 18 minutes over the midwest.

Await Call from Navy.

The flight was the ninth and last of a series designed to test every detail of construction before acceptance by the United States.

While official word of the outcome of its tests must come from Washington, there was every indication tonight that the airship, largest lighter than air craft in the world, had successfully met every test imposed on it.

Rear Admiral G. C. Day, chief of the navy board of inspection and survey, came down the gangway this morning with the word that he regarded the cruise as "highly successful." Dr. Carl Arnstein, designer and chief of construction for the Goodyear-Zeppelin corporation, said he was "highly impressed."

Upon government acceptance of the Akron, the navy plans immediately to lay the ring of a second great airship, a sister ship to the Akron. Budget appropriations have already been approved.

Dr. Eckener May Fly in It.

The last cruise was primarily a test of the power plants, eight huge Maybach engines. They proved "entirely satisfactory," said Dr. Arnstein. "The propellers and other engine accessories worked perfectly under all conditions, including full power."

Friday, Dr. Hugo Eckener, skipper of the Graf Zeppelin, which the Akron deposed as queen of the skies, plans to come to Akron to confer with Goodyear officials on a proposed transatlantic Zeppelin service.

It was reported, unofficially, that transfer of the Akron to its home base at Lakehurst, N. J., may be delayed long enough to permit Dr. Eckener to make the flight as a passenger.

GROCER SHOT BY ROBBER.

Samuel Hoffenkamp, 40 years old, owner of a grocery at 3158 Giles avenue, was shot in the right side when he resisted an attempt of a Negro to rob him in the store last night. He was taken to the Lakeside hospital, where his condition was described as critical. The robber fled.

1 SLAIN, 60 HURT AS 60,000 GERMAN FASCISTS PARADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUNSWICK, Germany, Oct. 18.—To demonstrate that their defeat in the reichstag last Friday has not diminished their fighting strength, 60,000 Fascists took over this quaint old German town today and proceeded to "mop it up" in the best Fascist manner.

Fighting between local workers with Socialist or communist leanings and the visiting Fascists continued during the day, while 600 policemen struggled vainly to keep hostilities from spreading. Tonight 60 persons were admitted to hospitals for treatment. One worker, stabbed with a knife, died.

Local workers started many of the brawls, pelting patrols of Fascist "storm troops" with sticks and stones. Today's festivities centered about the presentation of banners to 24 new Fascist chapters. One new chapter was the Free State of Danzig. The new units filed through the town in a parade in khaki uniforms with full campaign packs. They were reviewed by Adolf Hitler, their leader.

ESTONIA ADMITS RUNNING ALKY TO DRY NEIGHBORS

Why Not? Ours Is Best, Nation Exclaims.

BY DONALD DAY.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

REVAL, Estonia, Oct. 18.—With its Finnish, Swedish, and Latvian governments spending thousands of dollars annually to combat liquor smuggling, Estonia today revealed itself as one of the chief purveyors of alcohol. Her smuggling organization is a profitable trade in the Finnish gulf and the northern Baltic sea, according to information.

While denying that the government is directly implicated in the contraband booze racket, the Estonian minister of the interior, Jaan Hunerson, admitted that his government is permitting the sale of alcohol to rum runners who, so long as they do not attempt to sell it to the interior market, are permitted to maintain the organizations which supply the Finnish, Swedish, and Lettish bootleggers.

"Glorifies" Estonia Alcohol.

Minister Hunerson is an enthusiast over the high quality of Estonian alcohol. He insists that it is so much superior to the Hungarian brand which comes from the Free State of Danzig that Estonia's neighbors should be grateful they are getting some highly refined, pleasant tasting potato alcohol along with other smuggled goods.

The government's policy of winking at alcohol smuggling has caused a disruption in parliament, revealing that the Estonian Potato Growers' association, which also operates distilleries, gave its export concession to a company named Ova, ostensibly organized to export eggs, but which sells alcohol to so-called alcohol exporters, who illegally supply the Finnish and Swedish markets.

Defends Alcohol Traffic.

The present coalition government, consisting of Peasant and Socialist parties, is defending the alcohol traffic. Minister of Economy Pung declares that the government's permission to export spirits is not an infraction of the Helsingfors agreement since it does not mention alcohol exports, and Estonia refuses to help its neighbor combat smuggling, arguing that it is the duty of each state to fight smugglers alone.

"The government has no connection with the firm Ova and the export of alcohol is not controlled," Hunerson said. "Also, we do not propose to establish control over our booze exports. Estonia only produces two cash crops, rye and potatoes, and we must export alcohol in order to exist. Finland understands this and they have never complained either officially or unofficially regarding our actions. "The Finnish prohibition law and the restricted sale of alcohol in Sweden promotes the smuggling in the serious traffic which will undoubtedly continue until the Finns succeed in repealing the law."

PRIZE LIVE STOCK TO ARRIVE TODAY AT COUNTY FAIR

Horse Pulling Contest on Day's Program.

Fifteen carloads of prize winning live stock, on exhibition for the last week at the National Dairy show in St. Louis, were due in Chicago this morning to augment the display of cattle competing for prizes at the Cook county fair, now in progress at the Chicago Stadium.

Sponsors of the fair, formerly an annual event at Palatine, announced a change of policy last night. Promoters of a tent show operating in conjunction with the fair were ordered to pack up their wheels of fortune, racks of kewpie dolls, bearded juveniles, and roller skating monkeys to make room for a display of prize winning hogs, hitherto housed in the basement.

Horse Contest Today.

E. B. Gray, manager of the Kankakee fair, and X. G. Jones, manager of the horse department at the Illinois state fair, have joined the managing staff for the current show. Gates are open from 9 a. m. to 11 p. m.

Today's program calls for what is described as the first horse pulling contest ever staged in the city. WARNING DEVICE USED BY BANDITS CRACKING SAFE

Five masked men who had provided themselves with a loud speaker and amplifying system so their outlook could communicate with them, spent nearly five hours this morning in cutting into a large safe in the plant of the Belmont Ice Cream company, 3551 Belmont avenue, and escaped with between $300 and $400 in cash.

They entered the place at 12:20 o'clock through a window which they had pried open and overpowered the watchman, Richard Grimm, 4038 Moody street. The safe was pushed from the front office to a rear room, and the work of cutting into it with acetylene torches was begun. The lookout was in an automobile at the rear, and Bliss could hear him over the amplifying system, warning the inside bandits to douse their lights and keep quiet on the approach of automobiles or pedestrians. Detective Robert Ryan, who investigated, said he believed a wire had been run from the automobile to the room in which the safe crackers were working.

While resisting the confiscation of two unlicensed firearms, Mamur and his men clashed with the constabulary at Marantu, Lanao, May 8, 1930. ERNEST R. ACKERMAN, CONGRESSMAN FROM NEW JERSEY, IS DEAD

Plainfield, N. J., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Congressman Ernest R. Ackerman of the 5th New Jersey district died early today, after a week's illness. He was a Republican and was serving his seventh term in the national house of representatives. He was 68 years old. He first was elected to represent Union and Morris counties in the 66th congress and had been reelected for the succeeding sessions.

Six Vacancies Now.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The death of Representative Ackerman [Rep., N. J.] leaves the lineup in the house as follows:

Republicans, 213; Democrats, 215; Farmer-Labor, 1; vacancies, 6.

Of the six vacancies four are in Republican, two in Democratic districts. Successors are to be elected next month to the late Representatives Longworth [Rep., O.], Vincent [Rep., Mich.], Graham [Rep., Pa.], Mooney [Dem., O.], and O'Malley [Dem., N. Y.].

Presumably a successor to Mr. Ackerman will be elected before congress convenes in December if it is possible to hold a primary and election before that time. If not, the Republicans will have 216 members and the Democrats 217, if the other vacancies are filled by members of the same party as their predecessors.

In such a situation, if all Republicans were recorded for the Republican candidate for speaker, the Democratic candidate would be elected unless Representative Paul Kvale [F.-L., Minn.], were to produce a tie by voting with the Republicans.

GIVES BOND FOR OLD FRIEND—THEN FINDS HIM DEAD

A bondsman seeking a police court defendant who had forfeited bail found him yesterday—dead. The body was that of Clarence Le Vine, 57 years old, of Los Angeles. The bondsman is Claus Nielsen, 649 Groveland park.

Le Vine drove into Chicago last Tuesday from the west. That evening he crashed his car into a loop store window and he was arrested for reckless driving. He was about to be locked up at the South State street station when Nielsen recognized Le Vine as a friend of a decade ago. He put up a $1,500 bond for him.

When Le Vine failed to appear in court the bond was forfeited and Nielsen began a search.

Last Friday night police recovered the body of a man clad only in expensive underwear from the Jackson park lagoon. There was nothing to identify him. Nielsen, on learning of the victim's description, went to Roberts' mortuary, 1411 East 69th street, yesterday and found the body was that of Le Vine.

Frozen Beauty, Silence Bring Thrills of 'Cold'

Written by Byrd's Chief Lieutenant.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Cold," by Laurence McKinley Gould. [Brewer, Warren & Putnam.]

ANOTHER story of the Byrd antarctic expedition, this book, with its supremely apt title. But certainly not "just another" story. "Cold" is, we may as well tell you right now, a thriller of the very most alluring type. The kind of thriller that turns on the excitement at skillfully stated intervals, reaches its peak (like the old fashioned novel) and bursts in a giant set piece (to try another figure of speech) is too patent a job to satisfy intelligent readers. But a thriller that is the record of the most exciting events, that is written with a downright honesty that sings from every page and that has a certain ilit of style is an intelligent reader's joy. "Cold" is that kind of thriller.

LAURENCE McK. GOULD.

Dr. Laurence Gould was second in command of the expedition. His 525 mile trek by sledge and ski to the spot where his scientific observations could be made was second only to the polar flight in excitement for the world. The polar flight itself was a solitary experience. Three or four great explorers before Gould had made antarctic treks. His perilous journey lacked the thrill of a first flight in history for the people of the civilized world. It had every other thrill, however.

Dr. Gould has written a measured, restrained book in "Cold," but every now and then there pops out that feeling in his writing that made the last lines of these words:

"I had never in my life wanted to do anything quite so much as I wanted to make this sledge trip."

"I have stood in the woods at home when the world seemed dead," he writes. "There was no kind of sound. But is that world where a variety of sound was the rule rather than the exception such silence was oppressive, if not ominous. Not so here—this is a land of silence. One stands in the midst of it without any feeling of oppression. It is an expanding sort of silence. It is inviting . . . This is a different world . . . In the light of the moon and the stars it is a pastel sort of world. In the brilliant light of the long summer it was sharp and clear cut—things had sharp corners that now have but graceful curves. There are no sharp night shadows. The beauty lies in the gradations of color."

And after that paragraph from his diary he adds, "I should be sorry for any one who could watch an antarctic night in all its varied splendor and beauty—the restless aurora, its blazing stars and white moon—and not realize that he had had full compensation for any privation or hardship it had cost him."

It was the responsibility of Laurence Gould to choose the library of 500 volumes which accompanied the expedition to Little America. When he asked Commander Byrd what sort of books he especially liked to read, the reply was "Dickens, detective stories and philosophy." Dr. Gould goes on to say: "And of all the various classes of reading matter that were represented detective stories were the most widely read, with accounts of other polar expeditions making a close second. The most widely read single book of all was W. H. Hudson's 'Green Mansions.' Dean Byrne and Joseph Lincoln were more exhaustively read than any other two authors—Mark Twain came next. We had a complete set of Kipling's works which rarely was touched.

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

And still they come—the war films! "Mad Parade" refers to the world war, and, like "War Nurse," depicts Woman on the battlefield. It introduces you to the girls of an ambulance unit and acquaints you with their lives, their duties and their reactions.

As I recollect, no man is in evidence from start to finish. You hear men's voices, you see air squadrons soaring aloft. You behold eager male hands reaching out for doughnuts and kindly ones to draw a wounded girl out of shell fire. But "The Mad Parade" is, strictly speaking, a story of women and war.

While the picture is not a particularly strong one, individual portrayals are excellent. Evelyn Brent gives the outstanding characterization. She is Monica Dale, sergeant of the unit, called "The Duchess" by her intimates because of her independence and certain air of leadership. The war has sent Monica's morals haywire, but under fire—of more kinds than one—she's a soldier. Fritzi Ridgeway, as a snooping tattle-tale and coward, makes herself thoroughly disliked. June Clyde has a couple of effective entrances, Lilyan Tashman scores as the unit's hard boiled bebby, and Irene Rich is quietly impressive as the captain.

The old gentleman sitting next to me told his wife that he thought "The Mad Parade" was "very interesting."

"SHANGHAIED."
Produced by Columbia.
Directed by George P. Seitz.
Presented at the Orpheum theater.

THE CAST.

John Shreve ..... Richard Cromwell
Angus Swope ..... Noah Beery
Mary ..... Sally Blane
Newman ..... Willard Robertson
The Rat ..... Sidney Bracey
Erie ..... Dick Alexander
Fitzgibbons ..... Edwin James Brady
Rev. Crosken ..... Erville Alderson
Lynch ..... Jack Cheatham
The Knitting Swede ..... Lionel Belmore
Snowflake ..... Fred Toones

Here's Noah Beery showing his teeth again.

Ah, well, that's how we love him.

This time he has drawn as vehicle a seafaring melodrama in which brutality struggles with romance for the upper hand.

Mr. Beery portrays a villain of deepest dye. He is Capt. Angus Swope, who sent a man to jail for a crime committed by himself, stole that unfortunate's wife and child, and now, as captain of "The Golden Bough," which is in the daughter's name, plans to wed her to his rascally mate—for certain reasons. The girl's mother has died long before. The captain is the only father she knows and the boat the sole home that she remembers.

Mary goes ashore one day and there encounters a young sailor—John Shreve. As a matter of fact, she's running away from her "father" when they meet, but Angus catches up with her and takes her back to the boat.

Capt. Swope's custom is to shanghai his crew, but on the trip with which the picture is concerned two men sign up of their own accord. One is the young sailor aforementioned. The other is a stalwart, silent person who turns out to be—guess!

From that time on things become lively. A mutiny does a lot to wash up matters aboard "The Golden Bough."

"Shanghaied" has plenty of pep and is well acted and directed throughout. How you'll go for John Cromwell as John Shreve. It has "punch" of one kind and another, and several laughs, for which you are grateful.

(Don't tell me this movie was never a "silent." I knew the story all the way.)

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Suit Bid or No Trump?

How hard to choose between a trip abroad and a summer on a dude ranch. A multiplicity of opportunities is often as distressing as a total lack of them. And so it is in contract.

The modern vogue prefers opening suit bids to opening bids of no trump when the hand offers a choice between the two. This preference for suit bids, however, dies abruptly when the choice offered lies between a bid of one of a suit and two no trump. For the two no trump bid pictures the hand far more clearly to the partner than the one of a suit. Not only does it show more strength, but it indicates an entirely different type of card distribution.

This business of choosing is not confined to the bid. The play of a hand should be planned before the first card of the dummy is touched.

NORTH.
♦—A, J

WEST
♥—A, Q, 4

EAST
♠—K, 8, 7, 3
♥—9, 7, 6
♦—6, 5, 2

SOUTH.
♠—Q, 2
♥—K, J, 10, 5
♦—10, 9, 7, 4
♣—A, 6, 2

West had a choice, after a pass by South, of a bid of one spade or a bid of two no trumps. West, of course, bids two no trumps, for the reasons given above. North passed, and East, having no suit take out, but holding a minimum raise [six no trump count] from two to three no trumps, promptly bid game in no trumps and all passed. North opened with the 10 of clubs.

West counted his sure tricks. They were in spades two, in hearts one, in diamonds one, and in clubs two, a total of six tricks. However, the eight spade suit should yield one low card trick, making a total of seven. There remained three finessing possibilities to gain the two additional tricks needed.

West played the king of clubs from the dummy, which was taken by South's ace. As this hand was originally played, South returned a club. If South had returned the jack of hearts instead—the only other likely play—it would have simplified matters for West. South's lead was taken by West with the jack.

If he was to make a second finesse, West realized that he could not lead the 5 of spades to its king, but that he must lead the 9, keeping the 5 for his later lead to the 3.

After the spade finesse was taken and the ace led, West was left with the 5 of spades in his hand and the 8 in the dummy. He then had an entry for his next finesse in hearts. Suppose his hand had the 9 in place of the 5—a set, not a game.

Count your obvious tricks, the sure ones. Then look for your possible tricks, those that may be made by a finesse, by establishing a suit, by a clever end play. A little care, a little thought—what high returns they bring!

Child Paralysis Work of Visiting Nurses Grows

Fifteenth Anniversary of Service Next Month.

November will mark the completion of the fifteenth year's work of the infantile paralysis committee of the Visiting Nurse association.

"When the association was asked by two prominent physicians to undertake aftercare work of children who had had infantile paralysis, no one dreamed this effort would grow from one nurse to twenty-two," said Miss Edna L. Foley, superintendent of the Visiting Nurse association, in calling attention to the approaching anniversary.

"Sponsored by a committee representing physicians, orthopedic surgeons, members of the board of directors and others, the work has grown so steadily that now all of the nurses assigned are given special preparation in physical therapy and muscle training. Their work has aided in the convalescence of thousands of handicapped patients."

Nine of the nurses, Miss Foley said, have been scholarship students under the Harriet Hammond McCormick and the Albert H. Wolf scholarship endowments. The committee works closely with Chicago's special public schools for crippled children and with the different orthopedic clinics under the chairmanship of Mrs. Charles Barnett Goodspeed. Its honorary chairman, under whom the work developed, is Mrs. Albert A. Sprague.

Miss Foley told of a 14 year old boy brought by his father to her office last week. The boy's right shoulder was virtually useless. He had the disease five years ago, but it had not been reported to the health department.

"We are going to try to help this boy," Miss Foley added. "But if he had been reported properly to the health department a visiting nurse would have seen the child as soon as quarantine was lifted and would have given him the proper aftercare. We know from experience with hundreds of other cases that the boy would have had a better arm than he has today."

Plan Gardens for Factory Employes; Ready Next Spring

Plans are under way to let part time employes of 12 west side factories work an 80 acre garden tract at Western avenue between Cicero avenue and Central avenue. The University of Illinois and representatives of the 12 factories are behind the project to use this idle land on a permit already granted by the board of education, which owns the property.

It is estimated that 600 gardens can be staked out and if fully developed next spring the yields should average at least $100 worth of produce on each garden, according to J. C. Readey, associate in horticulture extension of the University of Illinois. His petition last week for use of the land was granted by the school board and he plans this week to obtain estimates from the 12 manufacturing concerns on how many of their men will want gardens.

"At average yields it has been found in other garden projects in the state this year that the gardener can obtain $2 worth of produce for every hour of labor," Mr. Readey advised the personnel men interested in the project. The following companies are interested: Western Electric, Chicago Flexible Shaft, Kropp Forge, Edison Electric Appliance, National Malleable and Steel Casting, Hubbard, Central Wax Paper, Theoll Manufacturing, W. D. Allen Manufacturing, Victory Manufacturing and Gasket, Harrington & King, and Temmpleton & Kenley.

Many of the employes have been receiving only two and three days of work each week. The gardens are not planned to disturb production or marketing by the truck farmers and gardeners of the county, it is explained by Mr. Readey, but to supplement summer budgets of needy families during the months when charity is least active.

Crops recommended for the lot size gardens are mainly cabbage, beans, carrots, beets and turnips, as "these give the most food and are most easily raised." In the Roosevelt road tract, supervision of which has been offered by the University of Illinois, standard packages of seeds are to be sold to the gardeners at cost.

President of Michigan Talks of Race Prejudices

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, spoke tonight at the Second Baptist church here. Speaking of colored students, he said:

"Accept the fact that conditions are not as you would prefer them to be or even as they should be. Understand that in these United States at present social discrimination, based on racial prejudice, while regrettable, is to be expected. Never forget that racial friction cannot be lessened by violence, by resentment, by obstinacy, or above all, by self-conceit and counterprejudices, but it can be effectively destroyed by patience, kindness, and education. Remember, 'the path of duty lies in what is near.' Be faithful in your pursuit of knowledge, ignoring everything else."

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

BROADWAY'S answer to Hollywood—a charming and witty insult called "Once In a Lifetime"—came to the Selwyn theater last night after its year's run in New York. Its audience assembled according to the rules for cinema premières in Los Angeles, under the glare of searchlights and the stare of camera lenses; and floating were the grins of the "legitimate's" camp followers as that preposterous institution of entertainment formerly called an "infant industry" was put to torture by satire.

The "pictures," at the time of their transition from "moving" to "talking," are the subject of this biting, ironic fantasy. One small play, of course, cannot hope to deal with this majestic theme in all of its aspects. Out of the vast anthology of anecdote and the multitude of wisecracks which represent the reactions of normal minds to the craziness of Hollywood, the authors of "Once In a Lifetime" have selected those which deal with the management [so-called] of the business. Their story and their humor are somewhat technical; they are concerned with professional procedure in the film foundries, rather than with the melodramatic habits of their gilded toilers. This is a comedy of show business; this is Broadway's bitter and brilliant jeer at its sun-kissed, moon-struck rival.

"Once In a Lifetime" begins with a stranded vaudeville team—two fellows and a girl—and carries them through a series of minor adventures among the fantastic folk who inhabit a film madhouse in southern California. They succeed and fail and succeed again, as they bluff their way through the phantasmagoria of cinema land; and the numbskull of the trio proves to be their inspired leader, because he was born with the vacant mind that represents the Hollywood ideal.

This wisp of a story is important, however, merely as a means of introducing the audience to such amazing characters as Mr. Glogauer, the master mind of the picture business; to Phyllis Fontaine, pampered darling of the silver screen, who says, "What the hell is this legitimate stage, anyway?"; to Miss Leighton, the preening princess who presides over Mr. Glogauer's reception room; to Lawrence Vail, the lost and forgotten dramatist in a studio cell, and many another Hollywood type. They may seem like creatures out of "Alice in Wonderland," but experts on the fauna of Hollywood insist that they are not exaggerated.

If you have ever listened to the talk of theatrical people, fleeing from their gilded cinema cages back to the old, simple life from which they had been seduced, you will believe that "Once in a Lifetime" is the real McCoy. P. G. Wodehouse has confirmed the incident of the author who was lost in the shuffle and never spoken to by any one in the factory except the girl who handed him his pay check. This was his own experience.

The performance is adroit and rich with ironic mirth. Among the vivid personalities in the cast are George Lewis, as the "dumb-pan" hero of the wild-eyed doings; Jean Dixon, as the wise lady out of vaudeville; Marjorie Wood, as an effusive scribbler of studio gossip; Charles Halton, as the frenzied Mr. Glogauer; Ruthelma Stevens, as the decorative queen of the reception room, and Robert Barrat, as the despairing dramatist. They make the play click in the way that brought its Broadway triumph.

Dreiser Asks U. S. Inquiry Into Mines of Kentucky

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Theodore Dreiser, author, today made public a letter to members of the United States senate demanding a senatorial investigation of the coal fields of Harlan, Ky. He said he wished an inquiry into "the denial of all constitutional and civil rights, as well as ordinary human rights, to 15,000 American miners and their families held in the grip of a frightful reign of terror imposed by thugs and jailbirds."

Mr. Dreiser, chairman of the national committee for the defense of political prisoners, related in his letter accounts of alleged murders, dynamiting, and wholesale arrests.

John M'Cormack Draws Crowd to His Concert

Other Musical Events Yesterday.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

JOHN McCORMACK came to the Civic Opera house yesterday afternoon and all was well with the world of song. Some new discoveries that he had made in items for his program and some of the old favorites made a list of music to cause the McCormack fans to vow all over again that he always was and always will be their chosen tenor.

Well they might. In the art of singing, the art of projecting words, and the art of putting a song across, three quite diverse matters, but all needed at the same time, he can show things to the greater number of his fellows of the stage.

Even though it took him longer to warm his voice up than it does now, he could still show them. If it were not for the way he sings Irish folk songs, you would swear he is the greatest Handel singer on earth, and if it were not for his long and justly famous use of the English language you would be convinced that there is no better singer of German.

It was a high spot when he sang Handel's "Guardian Angels," and perhaps a higher one when as an encore to the first group he sang Donaudy's "O del mio amato ben." And as time went on, high spots grew more numerous. He was assisted by the Chicago violinist, Fritz Renk, and his accompanist and song composer of many years, Edwin Schneider.

Sergei Rachmaninoff's piano program at Orchestra hall yesterday presented him in the light less of the thoughtful interpreter than of the brilliant virtuoso. He excels in both, but this time he chose the second. It is true that he began with a Beethoven sonata, the one labeled opus 81, and a bit later he played the Schumann "Etudes Symphoniques," if there is any interpretation worth while left in that elderly set.

But his own composition, "Variations sur un Theme de Corelli," was a succession of every kind of brilliant pianism in the world, and he knows them all. By the way, the theme is the theme of Corelli's "Chaconne," a work in high favor with violinists. So many and so varied were they that when he approached his concluding Liszt group, one with all the thunders and lightnings and fireworks devised up to that time, he made Liszt actually sound not exactly thin, but just a trifle outmoded. This ought to be enough of a triumph for any virtuoso.

The Swedish Music Festival at the Civic Opera house last night was an agreeable event not only because of various good performances in its course, but for the generously expressed pleasure of the audience. The Woman's Symphony orchestra, directed by Ebba Sundstrom, began the program, playing Svendsen's Coronation March and following it with a Dramatic Overture by Arne Oldberg of Evanston. This was a broadly slated, elaborately developed composition, received in a way that brought the composer to the stage to acknowledge applause.

The curtain fell long enough to permit placement of the Chicago Swedish Glee club, a first class male chorus. Under the baton of William Nordin it sang a series of Swedish songs with good tone and much vigor. Then came the turn of the soloist of the evening.

This was Alma Petersen, soprano. By residence she is a Chicagoan, though her billing places her as a member of the Philadelphia Civic opera. The aria, "Tacea la notte" from "Il Trovatore," showed her as owning a voice of excellent quality, dramatic power, and operatic accomplishments. Though urged by the audience, she declined an encore at this point, having another appearance to make later. The second half of the program was of like nature to the first, though differing in its items.

City to Get Bridge Prize at Exercises Wednesday

Chicago will be recognized as the builder of the most beautiful bridge in the United States and Canada during 1930 on Wednesday when a commemorative plaque will be affixed to the new Wabash avenue span. Sinai Temple Lecture Series Opens Tonight

The Emil G. Hirsch Center Lecture association will open its winter program of adult education at Sinai temple, 4612 South Parkway, this evening with a debate on "Modernism" in which Prof. Harry Elmer Barnes and Clarence Darrow will be teamed against Dr. Preston Bradley and Dr. Louis I. Mann. The subject is "Can the Chuch Meet the Needs of Our New Age?"

The Sinai lectures which will follow offer what S. D. Schwartz, the executive director, describes as a program of constructive thinking.

"In the mind of every thinking man and woman," he writes in his announcement, "there is a feeling that the world is out of joint. Our western civilization has been altered profoundly by two unique institutions, science and the machine. A new world has been born. Not only is it essential to have some knowledge of the changes which have taken and are taking place, if one is to share in the modern intellectual spirit, but it is vital to the very possibility of practical existence in this new civilization."

Among the other lecturers who will be heard during the season are Dr. Will Durant, populariser of philosophy, who will discuss marriage in transition; Dr. John Haynes Holmes of New York, who will talk on Russia; Albert Edward Wiggam, who will point out the marks of an educated man; Dr. Stephen S. Wise, who will tell of the Zionist movement; Gov. Philip La Follette of Wisconsin, on the functioning of democracy; Norman Thomas, Scott Nearing, Max Eastman, Rupert Hughes, Dr. John A. Lapp, and Prof. B. R. Baumgardt.

Capitalism, socialism, communism, science, and the future of man, literature and the new psychology, the Catholic church, the place of the Jew, and appraisals of oriental and occidental civilizations will be among the subjects discussed. The lectures will be held every Monday evening.

Antoinette Passes on Simple Formula for Guessing Weight

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In a study made public recently by one of the Wellesley staff, you may learn how to guess the weight of a college girl. Not that we expect this is going to hurt the weight guessing business at amusement parks or any such weight guessing centers. Nor that the weight applies to college girls only, as it is guessed at by the college scientist's system.

College girls have the same bone structure, generally speaking, the same appetites, as stenographers, clerks, debs, or any other group. It's a question if the brain weight varies very much, too. However, we don't need to bring that up because the brain hasn't anything to do with this new weight guessing system. I mean the brain of the one whose weight is being guessed at. It has a powerful lot to do with the guessing.

My poor befuddled one fails me completely in face of the following rule, or more rightly, the "multiple regression equation" for determining weight. If you know what that means, write. If you can't figure out the following, don't write. I couldn't understand it either. But I feel you ought to know the truth, so here's how:

"Expectation in weight (pounds) equals 2.5014 times width of hips plus .5245 times height, plus 4.6024 times depth of chest, plus .3954 times biacromial (shoulder) width, plus 2.8644 times chest width, minus 209.2255."

In case I didn't make it clear enough, the idea is that weight is computed from measurements of chest and hips. Height and shoulder widths have little import in judging a girl's weight.

All of the above I introduce just to remind you that registering your weight with fair regularity is a wise and profitable habit. It's the easiest way to keep weight under control. There's nothing brings a lady to her spreading self so quickly as to be confronted with the figures on one of those slips that come out of a scale for a penny.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

R. H.: IF THERE IS DIFFICULTY in reaching the back teeth with the toothbrush you are using, you may need to change to a smaller brush. The size of the brush is important.

M. M. M.: A GIRL OF 13, 5 FEET 6 inches, should weigh 130 pounds. A girl of 15, 5 feet 2 inches, should weigh 117 pounds, and a girl of 16, 5 feet 4 inches, should weigh 120 pounds.

Chap of 20 Wants Good Time, Not Matrimony, Says Correspondent

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Here's how the boys feel about it, girls, if you pin your tag on a man too early in the game:

"I believe," says "George B.", "that many girls expect far too much attention from a boy after he has taken them out once or twice. A girl begins to class him as her man, or as her movie, dance, dinner ticket. She imposes herself upon a boy, who, though he may care a great deal for her, has no really serious intentions.

"It is a mystery to me why so many girls feel so dogmatically possessive. It would do well to make the modern miss realise that, modern and vibrant and live as she may be, she is three years older than a boy of her own age, and consequently it is necessary that she be a little ahead of him in her thoughts of the future."

Then "George" goes on to say that from his own experience and from information gathered from his male friends, the average boy of 19 or 20 or even a couple of years older has no serious thoughts about marriage. That, in so far as getting married is concerned, or becoming engaged—the day necessarily has to be postponed, for good reasons.

He admits, of course, that an intelligent chap will give a certain amount of thought, and serious thought, about the character, disposition, and so on, of the girl he would later like to marry. In general, boys of this age set the "serious marriage idea" forward from five to six years.

In the meantime, then, it isn't fair for him to hold to one girl exclusively, nor for the girl to "nail" the young man and mark him with a "hands off" label for other girls to see and read. Except in those rare cases where two young people find that they can be happy only in each other's company.

All the above is in response to oft-heard complaints from girls that "he paid me a lot of attention and then he quit." Or, "He used to call me up and now he doesn't."

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

He's Not Sincere.

"Dear Miss Blake: My friend tells me he loves me, yet he goes out with other girls. Please advise.

"LUCY."

I shouldn't take him seriously, Lucy.

Rude Boy Friend.

"Dear Miss Blake: I had a date with a boy I care for, and he didn't show up and didn't call me later. What shall I do? A. R."

Ignore the young man, A. R.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

FARM BOYS HONORED.

Seven farm boys have been named project champions in Four H club work in Lake county following the county farm bureau program last Friday night in Libertyville High school when seven cups were presented to various youths for their participation in previous competition.

In the presence of 1,000 farmers and their families, cups were awarded to Floyd Olsen, Warren club, for a cockerel; Glenn Bacon, Grays Lake, one cup for showing a hog and another for a litter of pigs; Herman Edlman, Antioch, pullet; Charles Dooley, Warren, ewe; Lloyd Barnstable, Lake Villa, dairy records, and Homer Edwards, Hickory, pen of chickens.

The champion showmen and recordkeepers are Joseph Tekampe, Fremont; Glenn Bacon, Charles Dooley, and Ralph Potter, Warren; Earl Kane, Mundelein; Lloyd Atwell, Lake Villa, and Robert Panzer, Mill Creek, all of Lake county. Presentation ceremonies were in charge of William Webster, president of the Libertyville-Mundelein Chamber of Commerce; W. J. Sawyer, president of the Lake county farm bureau; Earl Kane, chairman of the Four H club committee, and Frank Gingruch, assistant state Four H club leader from Urbana.

One feature of the evening consisted of a debate between Larry Williams, head of the state farm bureau's mutual life insurance company, and Donald Kirkpatrick, attorney for the organization. Their subject was, "Resolved, the Illinois Farmer Is Not Ready for Cooperative Marketing."

Food Talk.

The once lowly graham cracker has truly come into its own. Not long ago we considered it just a good lunch for children or perhaps a tidbit we all could nibble on in hungry moments. Recently we have come to consider it in the light of a household staple, because of its divers uses in our cookery régime.

On Saturday we gave a recipe for graham cracker pie, and promised you a filling for it today. Before giving it to you, let's think of a few ways the crackers can be used, other than in pies.

A quick graham cracker treat, good for an informal luncheon, consists of marshmallow halves placed on the top of crackers, and then slipped into a hot oven for a few minutes to permit the marshmallows to puff and brown. These can be served alone—two crackers for a portion, or are good as a complement to any fresh or stewed fruit dessert.

Another quick treat calls for putting drained, canned apricots through a sieve, spreading them on the crackers as a paste, topping with a meringue, and finishing by baking for a few minutes in a slow oven until the meringue is brown. For an afternoon tea, graham crackers may be spread with apricot jam or apple butter, and topped with sliced cheese. The ricer sprinkling of the cheese gives them a party effect.

Graham crackers may lower themselves into a breakfast or luncheon menu, too. For breakfast, make a shortcake with banana slices between graham crackers, and serve to the children with top milk, or "half and half," as the popular restaurants say. The shortcake may be warmed in a hot oven for a few minutes before being served, if you prefer the dainty shortcakes that way.

Cinnamon cakes—these the children will enjoy—made of crackers are delicious. Spread crackers with butter, then a sprinkling of cinnamon and sugar, and finish with a short browning in a hot oven.

For a luncheon, and this is a dessert, crumble the crackers coarsely, unfold them lightly into whipped, sweetened, vanilla flavored cream. Fold the mixture into sherbet glasses and serve. Still another luncheon dessert may be provided by mixing crushed crackers with an equal part of drained crushed pineapple, and an equal part of cream cheese. Shape into a roll and serve in slices on lettuce with mayonnaise.

That's all the suggestions we have room for today. Let me know how you like them, and which ones you try.

LEMON FILLING FOR GRAHAM CRACKER PIE.

1 cup of granulated sugar
2 egg yolks
3 tablespoons of cornstarch
1 cup of boiling water
1 teaspoon of butter
Grated rind and juice of 1 large lemon.

Mix the dry ingredients. Add the egg yolks and heat in a double boiler. Add the boiling water slowly, stirring constantly. Cook until thick. Remove from the fire, add the lemon juice, rind, and butter. Cool and put in the pie crust. Make a meringue of the whites of the two eggs, if you wish, and add to the pie. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] until the meringue is brown.

GRAPEFRUIT SALAD.

1 cup of grapefruit [fresh or canned]
2 bananas
1-3 cup of celery

Slice the bananas and mix the fruits with the celery. Marinate with mayonnaise and serve on crisp cups of lettuce.

The Marriage Racket

By VINA DELMAR

SYNOPSIS.

Jim Corbin, while playing a week's vaudeville engagement in Thrace, an upstate New York town, is showered with invitations by Bill Fitzroy, friend of her pianist, Wallace Graham, a widower friend of Bill's. Before the week is up Wallace asks Irma to be his wife. Bill's proposal to her is of a different nature. Irma quarrels with her dancing partner and quits the act. She marries Wallace and settles down to a dull existence with him. Wallace has a young daughter, Mildred, who has grown up under the unsympathetic supervision of her Aunt Tessie. A baby son arrives to compensate Irma for any flaws in the marriage system. The baby becomes the center of her universe. Wallace's life-long ambition is a European voyage. A paid up endowment policy makes the trip possible. Irma reluctantly leaves the baby. She is upset by a letter received in Paris from Aunt Tessie. They must Russell Byrnes, a wealthy bachelor from New York, through friends aboard the boat. He has a cabin on a boat sailing in two days, which Irma persuades Wallace to sail in. Back in Thrace they find the baby well, but Mildred planning a romantic marriage with Scott Avery.

INSTALLMENT XXV.

MILDRED'S LOVE AFFAIR.

It was during the first week that Wallace was back at the office that Scott called him one evening and invited him to lunch next day. Wallace was torn between pleasure at having been so well liked by the younger man and a suspicion that he should be indignant at the casual invitation of the young whippersnapper.

"Certainly he can't crave my society," Wallace said to Irma, waiting around for a contradiction that did not come. "He's probably dissatisfied with the lab and wants me to work him in somewhere at the office. Well, I can't be done."

"I don't think that's what he wants," Irma said.

"But after all he must have plenty of friends his own age," Wallace argued.

"He probably has," Irma answered.

Wallace came home directly after that luncheon he had with Scott Avery. He was too upset to return to the office. Irma pitied him as he paced the floor, looking old and helpless in a towering, futile rage.

"My God, Wallace," she asked. "didn't you suspect he was going to ask permission to marry Mildred? Lots of men are going to ask. Why should it get you so sore?"

"Because she's only seventeen, that's why."

"Well, there's no harm in asking, is there?"

"Petty of harm the way he did it. He acted as though it were all settled and that his asking me was just a bothersome formality."

"Well, that's just the confidence of youth, dear. It mustn't rile you that way." Neither of them saw anything funny in Irma's gentle tolerance of youth's imperfections.

"That boy's dangerous, Irma. He's no man for Mildred. He's as smooth and treacherous as ice. He didn't act sore or disappointed or anything. Just sat grabby and left as though the matter had been settled his way."

"No," said Irma. "Did you tell him that he couldn't marry Mildred?"

"Mildred, go to your room."

"At first I told him that she was too young, that in a few years we'd discuss the matter again if they still both felt the same way. I was perfectly nice about it at first."

"What changed you?"

"I didn't like the way he spoke about Mildred. He said she had a fine mind and that it was going to be a pleasure to train it."

"Gad, and that to a Graham." Irma couldn't repress the paroxysms of laughter which seized her.

"You wouldn't laugh if Mildred were your kid."

Irma jumped up from the chair where she had sat mending one of the baby's sweaters. "Wallace, no kid of mine would ever be in the fix Mildred is in. Unless I pass out my kid'll have somebody to talk to when he's a boy or biologically drawn to a woman or whatever the hell they call it nowadays."

"O, sure, you'd arrange things much better. You're a swell arranger when you don't have to do it."

"I'll take care of this matter if you want me to."

"Sure, you'd be good at it, too."

"I'll say you when Mildred finds out you definitely said no to Scott Avery, she'll hate you."

"Irma, this is not your affair. I must try to think what Anne would want me to do."

"O, pardon me. Okay. Do you want the ouija board?"

She picked up the scrambled contents of the sewing bowl then and went upstairs. Both she and Wallace knew that they had been unreasonably nasty to each other but neither was particularly disturbed or repentant. After all this was no strawberry festival. This was marriage.

Mildred was late in getting home from school. There was nothing unusual about that. Often she and Jane went somewhere without serving notice of their intentions on either family. Still today it was different. Irma standing at Wallace saw that his skin was gray and his lips completely colorless. She knew what he was thinking and because their quarrel had been neatly patched up an hour before, she patted his hand and said, "She'll be in, Wallace. It wouldn't be Mildred to keep you in suspense. You'll always know what hell she's up to—if that's any consolation to you."

It was very nearly half past six when Mildred came. In the half hour preceding her arrival Wallace had drunk enough to steel himself for the ordeal of telling her what he thought of Scott Avery. He had drunk enough also to stand up under the news of her elopement. But he had not reckoned on a scene with his daughter in which she would take an active part. Had he foreseen that perhaps he would have drunk more—or less.

The moment Mildred entered Irma saw that there was trouble ahead for Wallace. The pale, set face of the girl, the quick, businesslike manner in which she stowed away her hat and coat indicated a high nervousness. Aunt Tessie and even the baby were present when Mildred turned from the coat and faced Wallace.

He had begun by saying, "Mildred, I saw Scott Avery today."

"Yes, I know you did. You were pretty rotten to him, too. He didn't do anything he's too big to be annoyed about petty things, but he said he definitely refused to let him marry me. And you have no business to do that."

"Mildred!" Wallace was aghast. "I have no business? Then who has?"

"Nobody has. I'm me. It's up to me and nobody else whom I marry."

"Mildred," Aunt Tessie purred, "you're talking to your father."

"And what's more," Mildred plunged on, "I'm not much younger than Anne was when she married you, but, of course, seeing the man was you has did the right thing."

"If you're going to be rude to your father, Mildred, at least be logical with it," Irma said. "You can't compare you and me. I'd known a lot of men and seen a lot of life before I married."

"Well, I don't want to know a lot of men before I get married," Mildred said.

"If your choice runs to people like Avery I hope you don't know any more," Wallace said.

"Go ahead, make cheap remarks now about him. If you don't know anything definitely discreditable just be vaguely insulting about him."

"Mildred, go to your room."

"I thought you'd say that next. Before I go, though, I want to tell you something. I'm going to marry Scott. If I don't have your consent I'll do without it. He only asked you anyhow because he knew you were the kind who'd like that sort of thing."

Wallace's face turned an alarming purplish red. "Like that sort of thing. I should think I would. Where have you gotten these fine ideas that a seventeen year old girl can do as she pleases? I'll show you, you little fool."

"I suppose I do seem ungrateful but I'm not going to lose Scott. I'm no fool. I've seen things. Lillian Malcolm didn't get the man she wanted because her father made her wait three years. Before the three years were over he was married and had forgotten about her. Men don't wait three years."

"They do if they're truly in love."

"Yes, in books. Scott isn't in a book. I don't think he'd wait and I don't blame the less of him for it. You're romanticising to get over a tough break and you know it. You must know it. You wouldn't have waited three years for Irma or for mama, either."

Wallace got up and lit a cigaret. He passed his daughter in his march to the mantel shelf, but did not look at her. Had he looked he might have been frightened to see the calmness of her eyes and the still, unquavering poise of her slim form. There was plenty of fight left in her.

He inhaled the cigaret smoke deeply and addressed her in evener tones than he had hitherto used.

"Mildred, I'm very sorry that you found it necessary to behave so rudely as you did. Your tantrum, however, only proves how completely childish you are and how unfitted you are to take an important step. Also you've revealed a side of yourself I've never seen before. I must believe then that you are capable of saying and also doing things which I wouldn't expect of you."

Tavern Club SponsorsBenefit for Jobless

BY THALIA

THE TAVERN, which is gay these days with numerous small dinners and Saturday luncheon parties, is going through a fall refurbishing process. That process will be completed in time for the big breakfast party, a week from next Sunday morning, before the theatrical benefit at the Civic Opera house that the club members are sponsoring for the Cook county joint emergency relief fund.

A coat of paint here and there where it was needed, the repainting of the card room in lemon yellow and a fine new set of carpets are among the improvements being made. The dining room and halls are to be carpeted in deep blue to match the woodwork, and the floor of the Norton room is to be covered in a soft green to blend in with John Norton's murals.

As for the breakfast party, the Ernest Byfields will entertain the galaxy of theatrical stars who are to appear in the benefit, and there will be lots of other parties of members and their guests consuming bacon and eggs before going on to the Opera house.

As a matter of fact the breakfast will probably be a sort of continuation of the Halloween dance the night before, the first of the Tavern's monthly Saturday night affairs.

The James Lawrence Houghtelings had lunch at the Tavern before going on to the football game Saturday, and the Chauncey Blairs did, too. The night before there was a dinner party given by Frank Sulsberger for a group of University of Chicago people, among them Miss Florence Lowden and her fiancé, Dr. C. Philip Miller.

Miss Lowden's Wedding at Father's Farm to Be Simple.

Miss Lowden and Dr. Miller, who are to be quietly married tomorrow afternoon at the Frank O. Lowdens' Sinnissippi farm at Oregon, Ill., have eschewed all the usual pre-nuptial festivities. There isn't even to be a bridal dinner, and only relatives and the bride's and groom's closest friends are going down for the ceremony tomorrow. There is no definite time set for the wedding. That will be performed by the Rev. Frederick F. Shannon as soon as the guests on the train, due about 2 o'clock, arrive. After the wedding, there will be an informal luncheon. The bride will be attended by her two sisters, Mrs. John B. Drake Jr. and Mrs. Albert F. Madlener Jr. [She will wear, by the way, the lovely lace veil which was worn by them and her mother at their weddings], and her two small nieces and nephew, Nancy Madlener and Barbara Drake and John B. Drake III. will serve in the pretty capacities of flower girls and ring bearer. Dr. Miller and his bride will go to Europe on their wedding trip, and on their return, about Dec. 1, will reside at 5805 Dorchester avenue, close to the university, where Dr. Miller is associate professor of medicine.

Industrious press and publicity chairmen for the various benefits and club affairs being arranged tell us:

That the models in the St. Luke's fashion show tomorrow are to be coiffed and cosmetically made up by special emissaries for the purpose from one of the smart near north side beauty parlors, and that there is to be a "dancing interlude" between the fashion promenades by some adagio dancers who were favorite entertainers at some of last winter's parties.

That Mrs. Howard Linn and Mrs. Waller Borden are to give a luncheon for Beatrice Lillie at the Casino tomorrow as one of the opening events in the ticket sale for the benefit for Olivet institute at Orchestra hall on Nov. 17.

That the Service club rehearsals have gone so well that there won't be any more daytime ones until the performance next Saturday evening.

That Mrs. William J. Chalmers is having the special ticket selling committee for the Mary Garden benefit concert on Nov. 9 at Orchestra hall for the Country Home for Convalescent Children at luncheon at the Casino today.

That Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Stuart Logan, and Mrs. Raymond Dudley are to pour at the Drama league tea to be given on Tuesday afternoon, Oct. 27, after Dr. Will Durant's lecture on "The Condition of America, Stressing Literature and the Drama."

That the first of a trio of lectures on successive Mondays by Mme. Marie de Mare on the period in French history following the reign of Louis XVI. will be given this afternoon at the Arts club.

That the Woman's Athletic club is having a series of four luncheons (also on Mondays), preceded by lectures on contract bridge, beginning next week.

Somebody asked Arthur Heun at the concert the other night whether he had had a nice summer in Europe. "It rained for three and a half months straight," he complained, and then went on to tell how his watch wouldn't run when he got home. He took it to the jeweler's and asked them what was wrong with it and they told him it was rusted.

North Shore Fashion Show This Afternoon.

The committee for the north shore fashion show being held this afternoon at the Winnetka Masonic temple under the auspices of the Winnetka board of the Northwestern settlement thought up a new idea for fashion shows. Besides the promenade of models, mostly post-debutantes because the debs are busy with the Service club, there will be a set of three tableaux, "The Nursery," with the Landon Hoyts' small Peggy, Ann Hinman, Joseph Wilder, Mary Marsh, and Jimmy Cookes showing what the well dressed tots should wear; "The Country Club" and "The Drawing Room at After Dinner Coffee Time." Mrs. Gerald Horton, Mrs. William B. McIlvaine Jr., Mrs. Sturtevant Hinman, Mrs. J. Scott Dow, Mrs. Eleanor Milstead Smith, Virginia Lamson, Janet Kirk, Lucie Jacobs, Chloe Watson, and Antoinette and Louise Lackner are some of the mannikins.

The Angus S. Hibbards were spied on their way downtown at 8 o'clock the other morning. "Where are you going so early?" they were asked. "To the movies," quoth they, "and we're going early to avoid the bomb."

S. B. Chapins Jr. Return to Greenwich, Conn

The junior horse show committee supervising the show is comprised of Charles B. Goes III., Robert Goes, Leonard and Gordon Ellis, Jane Anderson, E. EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Echoed and Re-echoed.

A year or so ago I took over an apartment building while the owner took a vacation. A few bottles of home brew had been left near the hot air register.

A new tenant had rented the floor below, the basement. One evening as I had just finished firing the furnace a terrific bang went off above us. The woman came rushing to me to inquire what it was. To pass it off, I told her it must have been an electric light bulb.

The next morning, when I went to start up the furnace, she acidly informed me that it must have been a funny kind of lamp bulb to run all down the register pipe into her kitchen.

I felt like a passed ball. C. E. G.

HOW MARY GARDEN TOOK YOUNG SINGER'S FLIGHT TO HIGH C

Typically, Mary Garden strangled a high C the first time she ever heard the voice of Serafina di Leo. Her burst of enthusiasm on that occasion, now three years past, was fully justified, as Serafina's arrival here yesterday, the "infant" of the Chicago Civic Opera, adequately testifies. Lively, lovely Serafina, only nineteen and already a sensation in the operatic firmament, laughed and blushed, but told about the incident with unassuming candor.

"Miss Garden was in Boston when one of my backers, who was a friend of hers, telephoned her and begged and pleaded for her to come down to New York and hear me sing," she related at her suite in the Congress hotel. "Finally she agreed to come, and drove down, though she had any number of engagements. I sang the aria from 'Giaconda.' She sat waiting until the end, expecting that my voice, which is even all through the register, would not reach the high C without becoming fainter.

"I was singing the C without any diminution of tone when she jumped up and rushed at me, flung her arms around me and told me—oh, all sorts of nice things," and the anecdote trailed off into laughter and a gesture that indicated how flattering the comments had been.

"She nearly smothered me, but I was so thrilled," ended Serafina happily.

Herbert Johnson of Chicago staged no such demonstrations as Mary Garden when first he heard the young prodigy, soon after her arrival in Italy. But he made mental and written note of her astonishing promise, and submitted a contract after her debut last January.

Other footlight favorites who reached Chicago yesterday were the stars of the Civic Shakespeare society, who arrived from Detroit, where they have been playing. Fritz Leiber, Helen Menken, Tyrone Power, William Faversham, Viola Roache and Pedro de Cordoba were in the group. The season opens tonight with the production of "The Merchant of Venice," in which Mr. Leiber will play Shylock and Miss Menken Portia.

Carola Goya Begins Season Among Dancers

BY HAZEL MOORE

TO Carola Goya of the joyous name belongs the honor of starting the fall season of dance recitals. Her program of Spanish dances at the Studebaker theater yesterday afternoon drew an excellent audience, auguring well for the continuing popularity of dance recitals, and relieving mightily the well known depression.

One might become cynical and remark that Carola Goya is an American with a much less glamorous name, therefore quits unfit to specialize as a Spanish dancer, or technical, and say that her castanets and heel clicking, though very good, do not measure up to the famous Argentina, yet it should suffice for a pleasant afternoon, that Goya is a blithe and lovely young creature who pleases the eye, wears gorgeous costumes, possesses a lithe grace and a sure rhythmic sense, and adds not a little characterization to her dances.

Her very youth mitigates against her ability as a Spanish dancer. For perhaps Spain is the only country that demands maturity for a full understanding of the intricate moods with which the simplest of Spanish dances is imbued. One missed yesterday the biting intensity, the fire, that one hopes for temperamentally in the best traditions of the Spanish dance. In Goya's own arrangement of the "Danza Del Fuego," from DeFalla's ballet "El Amor Brujo," remembered so pungently from Adolph Bolm's arrangement for the lamented organization, The Allied Arts, this temperamental lack was particularly felt.

In other dances, however, she was entirely charming. The Portuguese fisher maid of the dance called "Fado" was particularly winsome, with the tinkling bells, and the golden picture of her entrance in "Cadiz" will remain.

Miss Goya was assisted by Beatrice Burford who played a golden harp ornamentally, and Isla Seligman who was efficient and industrious at the piano.

Separate Sets Are Worn Over Coats and Jackets

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—There are many wraps that are separated from their furs this winter, and these furs can be worn with a variety of different clothes. The fur set, as seen by Paris, is usually composed of collarette, capelet, or little bolero and muff of the same fur.

The newest muffs are big, flat affairs made of long haired fur, like those worn by the belles of 1910 and thereabouts. Silver fox muffs are extremely chic, and so are marten and mink muffs. Schiaparelli's silver fox muff and collarette make the most sensational Parisian fur set of the season. It is shown in the lower half of the accompanying sketch. Two silver fox skins, with tails eliminated, are placed around the shoulders in a wide collarette, and to these are attached two long cloth ends, to the lower end of which is attached the big, silver fox muff. The cloth ties are then twisted as shown to lift the muff to the waistline.

At the top of the sketch is another fur set, which shows the other extreme of the muff question. This ermine muff is no more than seven inches long, and is shaped like a melon. The frills at the ends are made of white velvet.

With the ermine muff goes the bolero jacket of white ermine with its small standing collar and its short, double cap sleeves. This mantlette is to be worn over furless coats and jackets.

The pattern, 3203, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 2¼ yards of 39 inch material for the blouse with 2 yards of 39 inch material for the skirt.

Don't Use Threat of a Policeman to Discipline Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

This is an actual fact:

A hard hearted villain will go to the movies and tears will stream down his face at a pathetic scene. A criminal will sniffle as the little lame girl helps the poor old blind man across the street! But either one will prey heartlessly upon the helpless or the weak. They are being merely sentimental.

Whenever I use the word sentimental or sentimentality, my pen always wabbles, because I know some one will confuse it with the word sentiment, which is an entirely different matter. Sentiment is a sincere emotion, which shows itself in the life and actions of the person who feels it.

Therefore, I was sorry to receive the following letter from a policeman, who misunderstood my use of the word:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: In today's contribution you quote the missing persons bureau for information on why children leave home. So far, so good, for you are making use of a very competent authority.

"But I regret to say that you show the usual newspaper writer's misunderstanding of the police department when you go on to say, 'and this from so unsentimental a place as the police department.'

"There is plenty of sentiment in the average police officer. The vast majority of 'cops' show more sympathy and kindness to unfortunates than the average civilian does."

Since the writer misunderstood my use of the word sentimentality, I think him entirely justified in the statement he made. Those who read the article mentioned may remember that I quoted the police department to reinforce an argument of my own—to show that while I might be accused of basing my conclusions on misguided sentimentality, the police department had drawn their conclusions from facts alone, which was convincing, practical evidence.

There is plenty of sentiment [not sentimentality] among policemen—plenty of bravery, plenty of kindness that we never hear of to unfortunates. And any one who has ever had occasion to watch officers on duty at school crossings has noticed how vigilant and friendly they are with their young charges, and how much the children like and trust them.

Incidentally, this is a good time to urge mothers to refrain from using the "policeman threat" to discipline their children. "The policeman will arrest you if you do that." "If you don't stop crying the policeman will carry you off," only adds one more fear to a child's collection. He should for his own good be able to think of a policeman as a protector—as some one who could help him if he were lost or in trouble.

Bright Sayings of the Children

My small son was late to school and his teacher said to him, "Harry, why are you late?"

"Because it was late when I started from home," he replied.

"Then why didn't you start earlier?" said his teacher.

"Because it was too late to start early," replied Harry. J. B. G.

Every fall color is in the group—white, the soft pastels, the bright shades so popular this season, subdued shades for smart street wear and, of course, black. And the quality is as especially noteworthy as the price.

PURPLE FACES HEAVY DRILLS FOR BUCKEYES

With Northwestern's football practice today may not be of the blue Monday variety, it is no secret that Coach Dick Hanley was far from satisfied with the Wildcats' performance Saturday. Consequently, a full afternoon of work is on tap for the Purple in place of the customary Monday rest.

Not only was Hanley disappointed with the showing of his reserves against U. C. L. A., but the conduct of its regulars left much to be desired, a situation which must be altered if the Wildcats are to succeed in their opening conference game against Ohio at Columbus Saturday.

Reserve Backs Not So Good.

With the exception of a few back field positions the Wildcats' reserve strength so far has failed to measure up to expectations.

Two Wildcats who turned in splendid performances against the west coast down were Ken Meenan, half back, and Al Moore, full back. The former contributed two of Northwestern's touchdowns and Moore added a third. Both displayed more offensive drive than any of the other Wildcat backs and will be counted on for considerable duty this week-end.

The U. C. L. A. game also revealed a marked improvement in Northwestern's forward passing game, which had been weak in previous games. The ability of Al Moore and George Paine to receive Pug Rentner's passes added much to Northwestern's offense.

BUCKEYES IN SHAPE

Columbus, O., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Not content with having defeated Michigan 20 to 7, yesterday the Ohio State football team today started laying plans for a similar treatment for Northwestern. The Wildcats appear in the Ohio stadium here next Saturday in the tenth game between the two schools.

Of the nine games to date between the two schools, Ohio State has won six and Northwestern three, but all three of the Wildcat victories have been within the last four years.

All Buckeyes in Condition.

All of the Buckeye players came through the Michigan game in good physical condition. Coach Sam Willaman announced that tomorrow's workout would be rather easy for the men who played against Michigan, while the second stringers would meet each other in scrimmage.

The varsity, in the meantime, will try new plays for the Wildcats. Rossiter, tackle, who has been on the sick with an injury, probably will be able to start next Saturday, with Stitzel at Oliphant, sophomore guard, still in doubt.

MICHIGAN STRONG—ZUPPKE

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Returning from Ann Arbor, where he scouted Michigan, Coach Bob Zuppke laid his plans today for the week's preparation for Saturday's game with the Wolverines.

According to Zuppke, Michigan is stronger than it appeared against Ohio State, but the Illini think they have a good chance to halt it before its homecoming crowd. Zuppke was not perturbed because the Illini were a little slow in getting under way against Indiana, since practice all last week was devoted to defense against Michigan plays.

Probably no squad ever has received a more thorough drill in fundamentals than the Illini this year, and practice this week will be given largely to perfecting the weaker points in team play and the selection of a back field to send against Michigan.

Paul Carson, a sophomore back, may get a chance as a result of his work yesterday. Carson had been injured, Schalk may play full back. Al Barry's all around playing yesterday was encouraging.

MICHIGAN WORRIED

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—With Illinois, one of the season's most formidable opponents, scheduled for next Saturday in the last game away from home, and with the Ohio State game an unpleasant memory, the Michigan football squad will report back for practice tomorrow afternoon. The squad is in good condition physically, but the mental attitude resulting from its first defeat in 20 games may prove disastrous to future opponents or may mark the end of a series of reverses.

Coach Harry Kipke has not announced his plans for the week, but the Ohio State game proved that considerable improvement must be made in the lineup. If light work is ordered for tomorrow, it is certain that

OHIO BLOCKS N. U. PATH TO BIG TEN FOOTBALL TITLE

Wisconsin New Threat in Race.

Wisconsin and Ohio State in the Western conference, Harvard and Columbia in the east and Tennessee and Tulane in the south combined Saturday to produce a series of upsets long unequaled in intercollegiate football.

As a result of the Badgers' 21 to 14 victory over Purdue and Ohio State's triumph over Michigan, 20 to 7, Northwestern university apparently has an opportunity to win the Big Ten title without sharing any of the honor with another as it did in 1930. However, the Wildcats must defeat Ohio State and this assignment bulks larger than a week ago. And the Badgers must be stopped by some other team than the Wildcats, as they do not meet.

Northwestern faces Ohio State Saturday at Columbus with the advantage of nearly two weeks of preparation. The University of California, southern branch, which lost to Northwestern Saturday, 19 to 0, did not cause Coach Hanley to break his schedule of training for the Buckeyes.

Purdue Appears Out of Race.

Wisconsin's first period attack, which netted three touchdowns, has eliminated Purdue from the title race unless in later games all the leaders also meet defeat. The rivalry between the Badgers and Boilermakers frequently has been decided on failure to kick the extra point. It was so in 1930, but Saturday neither eleven had a failure in five attempts.

Michigan's veteran line, thought to be its greatest asset, was unable to halt the Buckeyes, who scored twice on marches of 31 yards and 46 yards and a third time on Carl Cramer's 43 yard return of a punt.

The failure to kick the extra point after one of its touchdowns cost Army a tie with Harvard Saturday. The cadets ran up 13 points in the first period, only to have Barry Wood lead Harvard to two touchdowns in the second quarter and add the points. Neither team scored in the second half. By a coincidence the scores were made in the identical order that Michigan defeated Purdue in 1930.

Columbia Upsets Dartmouth.

Columbia's 19 to 6 victory over Dartmouth, while it had not been considered impossible, certainly was a surprise. Dartmouth a week ago won from Holy Cross, 14 to 7, and that game was supposed to have proved its ability conclusively. Dartmouth defeated Columbia a year ago, 52 to 0, and lost only one game, that a post-season affair with Stanford, 14 to 7.

Alabama, one of the 1930 undefeated elevens, lost Saturday to Tennessee, 25 to 0. Perhaps defeat was expected, but certainly the size of the score was startling. Vanderbilt, which a week ago had conquered Ohio State, 26 to 21, was unable to score against Tulane and lost, 19 to 0.

The other games ran more or less to prediction.

Indiana, Iowa Go Scoreless.

Yale ran over Chicago, 27 to 0, on the occasion of the Bulldogs' trip west in honor of A. A. Stagg's 40 years of service at the Midway. It was Chicago's first and last view of Capt. Albie Booth of Yale.

Kansas university, defending Big Six champion, lost to Kansas Aggies, 13 to 0. Missouri, from the same conference, lost to Colorado in intersectional play for a second year. The score was 9 to 7. Notre Dame ran over Drake, 63 to 0, piling up the largest score since before the time of the national championship elevens.

Pitt Eleven Undefeated.

Pittsburgh, which meets Notre Dame Saturday at South Bend, romped over Western Reserve, 33 to 0, and now faces the Irish, just as it did a year

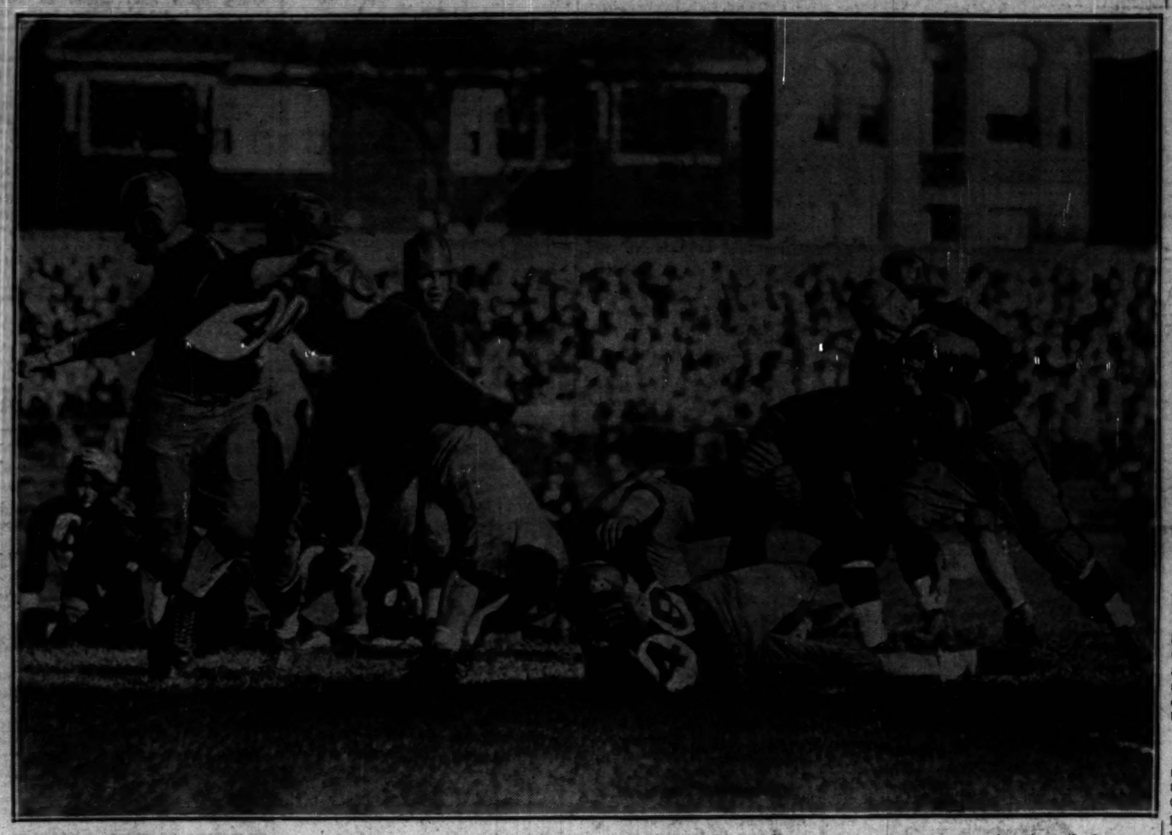
GLASGOW FINDS TRAFFIC LIGHTS ARE RED



Willis Glasgow, half back for the Chicago Cardinals, finds his way blocked by Red Grange as he tries to gain in yesterday's game with the Bears at Wrigley field. The Bears won, 26 to 13, and Glasgow and Grange were among the stars of the battle.

Full Back Jinx Hits Notre Dame Again; Banas Hurt

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Steve Banas, until yesterday first string full back for Notre Dame, suffered a broken finger in the game with Drake and, according to Coach Heartly Anderson, will not be able to play against Pittsburgh next Saturday.

He is the eighth Notre Dame full back to be lost to the 1931 squad since last fall. Joe Savoldi left, Mullins, Howard and O'Connor were graduated, Hanley did not return to school, Staab was ill all summer and could not come back, and Nick Lukats' leg was broken in the first game this year.

"Banas should be back in the game within ten days," Anderson said today, "but he won't be able to play Saturday and that's definite."

George Melinkovich, a former left half back, like Lukats and Banas, is the next man to go on the job, and he will start with the varsity against Pitt. Jimmy Leonard, Bernie Leahy and Rube Grundeman will be next in line, but Anderson is getting close to the end of his resources.

Anticipating trouble with Pitt, which tumbled Miami, Iowa, West Virginia and Western Reserve without being scored upon, Anderson will call his entire squad out tomorrow, waiving the Monday layoff for the second time this season. The varsity was used less than 15 minutes against Drake and so, in Anderson's opinion, does not need a rest.

Notre Dame, like the Panthers, has a clean goal line record, but has a scoreless tie with Northwestern. Both have powerful lines. Nine of Pitt's regulars last year are back. Only Capt. Eddie Baker and Chuck Tully, quarter back and tackle, respectively, have been lost.

If the footing is solid here Saturday Anderson will get the first true estimate of his line's strength.

Schmeling to Sail Next Month; Eye Injury Heals

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Max Schmeling announced today that specialists had pronounced his eye injury completely healed. Schmeling will return to America in November to give a series of exhibition bouts in 20 cities. In February he will box Mickey Walker, either at Miami, Fla., or Los Angeles, California.

Sox Will Have San Antonio Camp All to Themselves

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Nothing has been said about it as yet, at least officially, but the White Sox will go back to San Antonio, Tex., next spring to seek physical condition for the 1932 campaign. It will be their third successive year in the same training camp, which constitutes a modern record for the Comiskey forces.

The Giants, because the bosses thereof think they can go out to California and pick up some of the loose dollars which in recent years have been going into the pockets of the Chicago Cubs, have abandoned San Antonio, thus leaving the Sox the choice of the league park and a school field at which they trained last spring. The Sox undoubtedly will continue at the school field, because clubhouse accommodations at the league park are such that even the lowly citizens of West Madison street might rebel.

Not having the Giants in the neighborhood will prevent the Sox from a joint tour as in the last couple of years. This may cause some difficulty in scheduling worth while exhibition games, but it is hoped that more than a few dates can be picked off with major teams on their way back from their California camps.

Rumors have been in circulation several weeks that the Cubs were going to abandon their Catalina island training base and move to Phoenix, Ariz., where William Wrigley has extensive hotel holdings. The move hasn't even been seriously considered. For one thing, a field would have to be laid out. For another, there is $150,000 invested in the Cubs quarters at Catalina island. And besides, Wrigley says there is no reason for wanting to make a change.

Cub training dates probably will be the best they have ever enjoyed. The program now is being arranged and is expected to include games in California with the Giants, the Pirates and the Tigers. Practically all of these will be at Los Angeles and San Francisco. It is Manager Hornsby's intention to spend about three weeks in Los Angeles, as was the case last spring. Catalina will be occupied only long enough to reaccustom the boys to labor.

Those who think they have the qualifications for a coaching job are advised to get into action. The Cubs probably will be seeking one, and the Sox, who employ only one, will be doing the same. It is possible that Red Corriden, now on the Cub pay roll as a scout, may be transferred to a field job. Mordecai Brown, the old Cub star, is a candidate and he is one of the few great pitchers who can actually demonstrate why and how he reached the heights. His knowledge should be of vast help to young pitchers trying to learn what it is all about.

The Cubs' purchase of Chuck Klein, the Phillies' star batsman, is at this time only a remote possibility. Premature publication several weeks ago from a Philadelphia source made the Philly bosses so mad that they publicly acclaimed there wasn't a chance. A year ago the Cubs bid $150,000 for the home run maker. It was the plan to boost it to $200,000 this fall. The experts in Philly, who base the value by Klein's fielding and not his hitting, insist that any reasonable offer should be accepted.

The annual joint meeting of the two major leagues will be held in Chicago this year, probably on Dec. 10. It will be preceded by private sessions of the American and National magnates. As usual, nothing of importance is expected to come up at the joint session. There is a possibility that some of the clubs which didn't do so well financially this year may raise another cry for their share of the money now held in the war chest.

IRISH HURLING CHAMPIONS BEAT CHICAGOANS, 15-7

The Tipperary county, Ireland, championship hurling team yesterday scored its fourth victory of its American tour, defeating a team of players chosen from the Midwest Gaelic Athletic association at Normal park. The score was 15 to 7.

The champions, led by Dan Breen, defeated teams representing New York, Boston, and Detroit before coming to Chicago. All profits derived from contests played in the United States will be used to erect playgrounds in Ireland.

Rally Gives St. Mary's a 14-6 Victory

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The only undefeated and untied major eleven on the Pacific coast, St. Mary's, kept a brilliant record intact today with a 14 to 6 victory over a hard fighting University of San Francisco team.

Forty-thousand saw the St. Mary's team win after one of the toughest struggles so far this season. The San Francisco eleven had been pointing for the game since the season started, whereas St. Mary's already had fought two terrific battles in conquering big coast conference teams, Southern California and California, on successive week-ends.

The San Francisco team scored first, putting over a touchdown after recovering the ball in midfield. Taking the ball on San Francisco's 46 yard line the Gaels then drove down the field with line plunges to put over a touchdown. Baird, left half, went over from the five yard line. Fletcher, quarter back, made the try for point.

St. Mary's pushed over another touchdown early in the fourth. Fletcher received a 13 yard pass from Baird to score.

PACKERS CRUSH YELLOW JACKETS 15-0 FOR 6 IN ROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 18.—The Green Bay Packers today crushed the Philadelphia Yellow Jackets, 15 to 0, for their sixth consecutive victory of the National Professional Football league season. The Packers' margin in first downs wasn't as decisive as the score. Green Bay had eleven and the Yellow Jackets nine.

Gantenbein and Nash were responsible for the first Packer score in the opening quarter. They charged through and blocked Pederson's punt from behind his own goal line. The ball rolled beyond the end zone for a safety.

A passing attack in which Blood and Nash were the principals brought the Packers a touchdown in the second quarter. It was the result of a 53 yard march. Blood passed twice to Nash for approximately 45 yards, and then acted as receiver, taking a short throw from Grove for the touchdown. Molenda was hurried and his kick for the extra point was wide.

Ring Up 7 More Points.

The champions waited until the final minute of the third quarter before they put over their second touchdown. Grove just had returned a Philadelphia punt to the Yellow Jackets' 36 yard line. He then shot a pass to Engelmann which netted 13 yards.

McCrary picked up five yards on a spinner and then Blood smashed through Philadelphia's left side for 19 yards and a touchdown. Grove added the fifteenth point with a kick from placement.

Philadelphia had two scoring chances, once in the second quarter and again in the final period. The first threat was aided indirectly by Blood's short punt, which Kaer returned to the Packers' 17 yard line. Kaer and Joesting then picked up nine yards in three line plunges, but on the fourth down Kaer was held.

Four successive first downs in which Brumbaugh did most of the ball carrying advanced the Yellow Jackets to the Packers' nine yard line in the final minutes. At that point a five yard penalty, Kaer's failure on a plunge, and an incomplete pass ended the visitors' threat.

Two Long Runs.

Two 45 yard runs were the longest of the game. Engelmann was the owner of one. His came in the third quarter after a 10 yard pass from Wilson. It advanced the ball to the Philadelphia six yard line. There the Yellow Jackets held for downs. Blood contributed the other when he intercepted Brumbaugh's pass late in the game.

PORTSMOUTH, 19; BROOKLYN, 0.

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Portsmouth Spartans scored their fifth victory of the National Football league season today, defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 19 to 0, before a crowd of 10,000 at Ebbets field, Brooklyn. Earl Clark, former Colorado star, scored all of his team's points in the second period. He crashed through the Brooklyn line for 12 yards for the first tally and took passes for the next two. He also kicked the extra point after the final touchdown.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's Bears scored four touchdowns in the second half of their battle with the Cardinals yesterday afternoon at Wrigley field to register their fourth consecutive victory over their chy rivals, 26 to 13. The Bears, trailing, 7 to 0, at the half, and completely outplayed during that time, piled over or passed over all opposition in their drive.

Red Grange crossed the Cardinal goal three times, while Bronko Nagurski raced 62 yards for the other score.

Nine thousand watched the professional teams. The Bears' chances at the end of the first quarter, when the Cardinals scored and almost repeated in ten minutes of play, probably could have been sold for the price of one admission. But the second half, after Coach Ralph Jones convinced the Bears that they were in for a drubbing unless they reversed themselves, was an entirely different matter.

March 40 Yards to Tie.

The march which tied the score started from the Bears' 40 yard line. Nagurski and Grange picked up six yards in two efforts and then Red passed to Lintzenich for 20 yards. Lintzenich returned the compliment and Red gained 7 yards. Nagurski made first down 26 yards from the Cardinal goal line.

Grange shot inside of the Cards' right tackle on a quick opening play, while his mates faked a wide run, and before the Cardinals' secondary could locate Grange he had sprinted to the goal line. Johnsos' placement, with Brumbaugh holding the ball, tied the score at 7 to 7.

Five minutes before the third period had ended the Bears took the lead on a second touchdown by Grange.

Grange Scores on Pass.

This score was manufactured largely by the Bears' hard running backs and wound up with a 17 yard gain to the goal line on a forward pass to Grange from Lintzenich. Included in this drive, which started on the Bears' 36 yard line, was a 21 yard run by Lintzenich to the Cards' 36 yard line, where he fumbled, but fell on the ball before it could escape him.

Johnsos' toe added the point which placed the Bears in the lead, 14 to 7.

This was the score at the end of three quarters of play. All during the touchdown drives Bronko Nagurski had been smacking the Cardinal line for two and three yards. He had helped the others by giving excellent interference. Now, at the start of the fourth quarter, Joe Lintzenich set the stage for Bronko when he intercepted one of Nevers' passes and was brought down on the Bears' 38 yard line.

Bronko Gallops 62 Yards.

On the first play, a fake lateral pass, Bronko came charging through tackle, shook off a couple of tacklers and started down the field. Ten yards from the goal Belden made a diving tackle, but Bronko broke loose and staggered to the touchdown mark.

The Bears' fake place kick which wound up in a forward pass for the extra point failed when Grange dropped Brumbaugh's pass.

The Bears scored once more and took a 26 to 7 advantage before the Cardinals hammered over a final score in the last minute of play.

Seven plays carried the ball to a touchdown from the Bears' 34 yard line, where the Cards had lost possession on downs. In that drive Nagurski contributed two plunges, Grange passed to Lintzenich for 15 yards, and Dick Nesbitt, who then replaced Lintzenich, added 12 yards on a running play. Grange failed to gain, but his last two attempts covered 23 yards for the touchdown. Johnsos missed the place kick for the point.

Hill Seriously Injured.

The Cardinals scored once more and that was proof that they refused to quit. The touchdown could not affect that outcome of the game, but it solaced the boys who had been outplayed for nearly two periods. During the Bear mastery the Cards also lost one of their star backs. Irvin Hill, quarter back, former player at Trinity college [Texas], fractured his pelvic bone when he fell after a hard tackle.

The Cards' drive commenced on

TRAINERS ENTER BEST HORSES FOR CHARITY RACING

Hawthorne Expects to Sell 20,000 Tickets.

BY FRENCH LANE.

First reports on the sale of tickets for the charity day of racing at Hawthorne on Thursday were so favorable that officials of the Hawthorne association were hopeful yesterday that all the 20,000 tickets printed will be sold.

Should there be a sellout, a charity fund of more than $50,000 will be raised, as 100 per cent of the profits, including even the money realized on the sale of programs, will go into the charity fund.

If track and weather conditions are favorable one of the most interesting programs of the fall season will be awaiting the charity day crowd. Horsemen have entered into the spirit of the occasion and will run all the best horses in their care in order to provide an attractive show.

Burning Blaze, the two year old owned by Patrick and Richard Nash of Chicago, well on his way to be called the best juvenile of the year in America, has two more engagements in Maryland before he goes into winter quarters.

He starts on Saturday in the Spalding Lowe Jenkins Memorial stakes at Laurel and early next month will fill his only engagement at Pimlico in the Walden stakes. Unless the match race with C. V. Whitney's filly Top Flight is arranged he will not be campaigned at Bowie.

The big "ouija" board in Hawthorne's infield, which shows the amount of money wagered on horses to place and show, probably will be hauled away after the season closes next week.

"The board has effectually shown us that where the public has confidence in the integrity of the association, it is not particularly interested in the total volume of betting," Joseph A. Murphy said yesterday when he was discussing plans to remove the board from the Hawthorne premises.

"We believe at Hawthorne that the only totalisator of practical use is the one that also will print the ticket simultaneously with the recording of the wager. If such a device can be invented we are in a receptive mood for its adoption."

Jockey J. Gilbert, who was a sensation during the Fairmount Park meeting which ended Saturday, will be seen in colors at Hawthorne today and will ride here for the remainder of the meeting.

Veteran horsemen say Gilbert is a brilliant jockey prospect and his battles here for the next two weeks with Melvin Lewis and H. Robie, two of the leading apprentices in the country, should bring some interesting struggles.

There are twin features on today's program at Hawthorne. When 17 were named over night for the Gold Coast purse, a sprint at six furlongs, the race was split and will be run in two divisions.

Eight are grouped in the first section, including Supreme Sweet, Ulunlu, Burning Up, Morpheus, Listo, Broad Meadows and Silver Lake. In the second section, which comes fifth on the program, there will be a lively battle among Tombereau, Fiddler, Sister Mary, Weldeleen, Sun Dot, Mucker and three others.

In the second division we see a name that was familiar to Chicago racegoers a few years back. It is Step Along. Thought perhaps this old fellow had been retired until his name bobbed up in the race.

Step Alongels now 9 years old and once raced from Fred Grabner of Chicago. He was fourth and only beaten by a short margin in the Kentucky Derby of 1926, which was won by Flying Ebony. The old boy surely has some run left in him or he wouldn't be appearing in this over night allowance affair. He new races for J. H. Malley, and if he accepts the issue today it will be his first start of the year.

NEGRO COLLEGE TEAMS BATTLE HERE SATURDAY

With seven of last year's players lost by graduation and two more unable to attend school this year, Coach Harry Graves, ex-Michigan State player, is confronted with a problem when Wilberforce university of Ohio meets Tuskegee institute Saturday at Mills stadium. It will be the third meeting of the two schools in Chicago.

In 1929 Tuskegee won, 6 to 0, and last year the score was 0 to 0. In 1928 at Tuskegee institute, Alabama, Wilberforce tied the score in the last six seconds of play and the game ended 6 and 6.

Jack Hart, half back; L. Corley, tackle, and Bradley, substitute center, three former Wendell Phillips football players, are on the Wilberforce squad.

Saturday's game will have a bearing on the national Negro grid title. Three times in the last seven years Tuskegee has held the honor.

Sans Ame Wins Second Richest French Stake

LONGCHAMPS, France, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Ed Esmond's Sans Ame, ridden by Jockey Semblat, today won the second richest race of the autumn meeting at Longchamps, the Prix du Conseil Municipal, valued at a quarter of a million francs. Count Vigier Angelico finished second and Lady Gremard's Fire Parade third. The race was over a 2,400 meter course (about a mile and one-half) and the winner paid nine to one.

Allen Hall and Fleming to Meet in Cue Match

Allen Hall will make his first appearance of the season in an exhibition in Chicago on Thursday when he opens a two day match against Frank Fleming of Champaign, Ill., the national amateur three cushion champion, at Mussey's, 181 South Wabash avenue. There will be four blocks with Hall playing for 60 points to Fleming's 50 in each block.

SOUTH PARKS TO INSTALL TWENTY LIGHTING UNITS

Twenty-five large light units for outdoor recreation, one of them large enough to permit night football games, will be installed in the south park system this week.

The largest unit is being placed at Calumet park, 98th street and the lake. Sufficient light is to be provided, according to the engineers, to make regular football games possible on the darkest night. A unit large enough for football practice is being installed in Ogden park at 67th street and Racine avenue. The soccer field and the horseshoe courts likewise are to be lighted.

With the opening of the skating season these lights and the new installations in Washington and Jackson parks and the Midway will be used to light the rinks and lagoons. There is to be also an illuminated court for roque in Washington park and a lighted curling rink.

At Armour square, 33d street and Shields avenue, illumination is being provided for shuffle board and the Italian bowling game, baloti. The concrete shuffle board is said to be the only one of its kind in the city.

WALTHOURS TO RIDE IN SIX DAY RACE AT STADIUM

Bobby Walthour and Jimmy Walthour have signed to compete in Chicago's twenty-sixth six day bicycle race at the Stadium Nov. 8 to 14, but they will not ride as a team. Both stipulated when they signed contracts for the race that they did not desire to ride as partners.

Bobby has won five races in Chicago, while Jimmy has won only one. Bobby is in the Jersey mountains training and tells Manager Chapman that he will be in the best condition of his career.

Ruffians Barred from Sing Sing Football Team

Ossining, N. Y., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—That "big gray team" which will take the field this fall ready to do or die for dear old Sing Sing had its first scrimmage this afternoon—with all "ruffians" barred from the squad.

Forty candidates reported to Head Coach [Principal Keeper] John Sheey as candidates for the two elevens which will represent rival dormitories of the prison in strictly intra-mural competition.

In barring "ruffians" Warden Lawes drew a nice social distinction between those who are eligible for the football squad and prisoners known to have used "bludgeons, sandbags, knives, blackjacks or other weapons that indicate vicious tendencies."

TOWLE TO MEET PETERS IN FIRST 3 CUSHION MATCH

This is a special tournament arranged by Augie Kieckhefer as a final test for the players who will see action in the two divisions of the Northern Sectional three cushion tournament.

ago, undefeated. Pennsylvania, host to Wisconsin Saturday, disposed of Lehigh, 32 to 0, and now is ready to seek revenge for a 27 to 0 drubbing at Camp Randall in 1930.

Cornell's victory over Princeton, 33 to 0, and New York university's 27 to 7 triumph over Rutgers mark these teams as above average. Syracuse turned back Florida, an intersectional foe, 32 to 12, and Brown beat Tufts, 33 to 6. Fordham's last period touchdown on a pass attack tied Holy Cross, 6 to 6, in one of the best games in the east.

Georgia was an easy victor over North Carolina, 32 to 7, indicating that the southerners are just as good

ONLY CALIFORNIA ELEVENS LEFT IN COAST GRID RACE

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Pacific coast football's championship race in the Pacific Coast conference has become strictly a California affair, a fact made more interesting because the season has not yet passed the midway mark.

Leaders of the procession, Southern California's Trojans, captured their third conference game with a smashing 52-0 victory over the University of Oregon. Stanford's Indians and California's Bears made first bids for conference standing with wins over northern rivals. Stanford trounced Oregon State, 25-7, and California defeated Washington State, 13-7.

Southern California's one sided triumph removed the remaining northern team from the rôle of championship contender. Pre-game favorites, the Trojans nevertheless surprised all observers by swamping the opposition.

At Berkeley next Saturday, Southern California will face California in a game that has assumed extra importance because of their unblemished conference standings.

Polish Runner Beats World Record Breaker

VIENNA, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Janusz Kusocinski, Polish distance runner, today defeated the youthful Argentine, Juan Zabala, who recently broke the world's record for running 30 kilometers, in a 5,000 meter race today. Zabala has been training for the 42 kilometer marathon at Kashau, Czecho-Slovakia, next week, and was not at his best in the shorter race. He finished nearly a lap behind. The winner's time was 14 minutes 42.6 seconds, more than 14 seconds behind Paavo Nurmi's world record.

Bears' Attack in Second Half Wins, 26 to 13 their own 29 yard line. It sagged and nearly stopped inside the Bears' 20 yard line, but an offside penalty on the Bears revived the Cardinal hopes. Finally Nevers made a first down four yards from the goal. His fourth try covered the last yard for the score. Ernie's place kick for the point was wide.

Forward passes were instrumental in the Cards' first period touchdown, but when the Bears' first team backs took the field, those passes were, for the main, knocked down. The touchdown for the Cards was accomplished by forward passes from Nevers to Rose and Creighton, who scored. Nevers made good on the try for the point.

Holmer, Rose Aid Nevers.

During the first half the Cards made eight first downs to four for the Bears. In the second half the Bears doubled the Cards' production.

While Nevers, as usual, carried the bulk of the Cardinal assault, he was ably assisted by Walter Holmer and Gene Rose. For the Bears, in addition to the backs, Bert Pearson, center, gave a splendid exhibition of offensive and defensive play.

CLEVELAND, 18; PROVIDENCE, 6.

Providence, R. I., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Cleveland defeated Providence, 18 to 6, here today in a National Professional Football league game. Clark scored the Indians' first touchdown on the fourth play of the game, and Vukaty, Cleveland fullback, tallied the second on a short plunge through the center after his 28 yard run placed the ball on the two yard line. Woodruff counted for Providence on a dive over the line after three passes by Dexter Shelley, Texas half back last season, carried the ball 63 yards to the one yard mark.

GIANTS BEAT STAPLETON.

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The New York Giants conquered Stapleton, 7-0, in a National Professional Football league game in the Polo grounds today before a crowd of 15,000.

The lone score came in the fourth quarter, when Red Smith intercepted a pass deep in Stapleton territory. On the next play Smith took the ball to the three yard line and Sedbrooks then crashed through the line for the touchdown. Kitzmiller kicked goal.

BUSH INCREASES LEAD IN EASTERN SCORING RACE

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Louis Bush, the 145 pound sophomore from Massachusetts State, increased his lead in the scoring competition among eastern football stars last week by carrying the ball across for four touchdowns against Norwich and adding the extra point three times.

These 27 points gave him a total of 83 for four games and an eleven point margin over his nearest rival, Winters of Davis and Elkins. Moran of Syracuse took third place on the list with 60 points, followed by Grossman of Rutgers with 56 and Hewitt of Columbia with 53. Records of the leading scorers follow:

ARMY AND NAVY HEADS WILL SEE 2D SERVICE GAME

Federal, state, and municipal governments will be represented at the St. Johns-Culver Military academy second annual service football game at Soldier's field Nov 14, according to plans of the American Legion.

The city will be represented by Mayor Anton Cermak and other officials and the county by President Wheelan of the county board.

In the parade through downtown Chicago and on the football field immediately preceeding the game, Culver likely will present its two battalions of infantry, its artillery battery, and its black horse troop. All the massed military strength of St. Johns will participate.

Notre Dame Has Greatest Team in History—Solem

He was trying to remember what happened to his Missouri valley champions, who had been crushed 63 to 0 by the enraged Irish of Notre Dame Saturday.

"Aw, don't be downhearted, Ossie," one of his assistants offered to break the silence.

Should Beat Pitt Easily.

"Downhearted?" Solem gasped. "I'm not downhearted; I'm just bewildered, amazed.

"I've been in the thick of football for many years now and I've seen all the great teams worth mentioning in the last 20 years," he muttered without glancing about, "but I've never seen quite the equal of that Notre Dame team, I mean teams, that we met Saturday. They had everything and I'm not trying to alibi at all when I say I think it's the greatest football combination I've ever witnessed in action.

"I watched Pittsburgh defeat Iowa two weeks ago, and thought I had seen a great football team. But this Notre Dame squad, why it ought to beat Pittsburgh easily by the margin of three to five touchdowns when they meet next Saturday. They've got everything.

"N. U. Should Rejoice."

"We've been playing Notre Dame for six straight seasons now, but I never before watched its teams display a greater versatility. No, not even in the days of Knute Rockne's great teams. Every man hit us as if every yard meant the difference between defeat and victory. Coach Anderson seemed to pick newer and greater stars right out of his hat and send them against us. And that line! I don't believe I've ever seen one to come close to it in power, speed and deception.

"Personally, I think Northwestern should be happy it didn't meet Notre Dame on a dry, fast field a week ago. I don't believe the score would have been close."

M'MILLIN HEADS KANSAS AGGIES FOR BIG 6 TITLE

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Bo McMillin, impetus of Center college's brief rise to football fame, is up to his old tricks as coach at Kansas State college.

Undefeated and heading the Big Six percentage column, his inspired Aggies, who carry plenty of artillery besides inspiration, are well on the upgrade out of comparative gridiron obscurity. They crushed the title hopes of the defending champion Kansas university Jayhawkers Saturday while Missouri and Oklahoma lost interconference decisions, each by a field goal.

The big Aggie team that expounds the McMillin plan at the direction of another Quarterback McMillin—Ray, Coach Bo's nephew—obviously has not been extended to its utmost against either Kansas or Missouri. The Aggies beat each by a margin of two touchdowns.

They face a more severe test, however, in their game at Manhattan next Saturday with Oklahoma's Sooners, who lost Saturday to the University of Texas, 3 to 0. Missouri plays Iowa State at Ames next weekend and Kansas meets Nebraska at Lincoln. Missouri lost to the University of Colorado last Saturday, 9 to 7, Missouri scoring with a late rally pass offensive.

ONLY 6 UNBEATEN, UNTIED ELEVENS LEFT IN SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Mid-October clashes among major football teams has left only six unbeaten and untied teams in the Southern conference, with Tulane, Tennessee, and Georgia standing out as the real title favorites.

Alabama and Vanderbilt, both formidable teams, were decisively beaten by Tennessee and Tulane, while Georgia added to its prestige with a 33 to 7 win over North Carolina.

Louisiana State, Auburn and Sewanee remain in the chase with the other teams, but the schedule arrangements force each of these teams to play one or more of the favorites later. Maryland and Kentucky remain unbeaten, but they played a 6 to 6 tie and dropped out of the favored circle. Duke's inability to score against Davidson and the resultant scoreless tie offered one of the biggest upsets of the week-end, while Virginia Polytechnic institute also was held to a 6 to 6 tie by William and Mary.

Berwyn Parrots Battle Lakotas to Scoreless Tie

Berwyn Parrots and Chicago Lakotas battled to a scoreless tie yesterday at Berwyn stadium. Berwyn rushed the ball to the Lakotas' one foot line in the opening quarter and made 13 first down to the visitors' 6. The Parrot Juniors crushed the Berwyn Hawks, 26 to 0, in a curtain raiser.

Becker Solves Another Problem for Duck Hunters

BY BOB BECKER.

Illinois duck hunters still are puzzled over the time when they can begin shooting ducks. The first day of the 1931 open season is Nov. 1 and inquiries continue to arrive regarding the 12 o'clock noon question, as the confusion involves the sunrise and noon item in the hunting regulations.

The government has decreed that hunting on the first day of the open season will begin at 12 o'clock midday. But each day after the opening day it will be legal to begin hunting at sunrise up to and including the last day of the season, which is Nov. 20.

Because of this 12 o'clock feature of the first day of the water fowl season we know of one Illinois river "landlord" who says he will not take in day hunters until Nov. 2, as he does not figure it worth while for shooters to blast up the landscape for just a few hours in the afternoon of Nov. 1.

This Illinois river resident maintains the sensible shooting hours of 8 a. m. to 2 p. m. Under this schedule opening day hunters would get just two hours of sport. Therefore the decision to start on Nov. 2.

Thousands of Illinois hunters refuse to believe any of the reports from government authorities to the effect that there will be a shortage in ducks this year. There are many Chicagoans in this school of thought and they are confident that the coming migration will prove that the biological survey doesn't know what it is all about.

The excellent sport which some hunters had on Lake Poygan on Oct. 1, opening day for Wisconsin, is one of the arguments offered as evidence for a big crop of birds. The boys had one big round on the first day, but the furious bombardment was too much for the ducks. The majority left at once, so there was nothing doing on Oct. 2.

There is every reason to believe that the wild geese have suffered less than the ducks from weather conditions in the north. It is reasonable to expect a good flight of the big honkers. All sportsmen interested in water fowl hope the southern flight will show now, but until the birds move out of the north not much concrete evidence based on the migration itself can be assembled.

BADGERS GO EAST NEXT

Madison, Wis., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—With the Purdue hurdle successfully cleared, Wisconsin's football team will begin intensive preparation tomorrow for its eastern invasion this week-end, the first a Badger eleven has made in 22 years. Coach Thistlethwaite's team plays Pennsylvania at Philadelphia Saturday.

Although the Purdue victory yesterday left the Badgers stiff and sore, the squad came through with only minor injuries and every man will be ready for work tomorrow.

Until now Thistlethwaite has not cut his squad of 60 men, but as the Wisconsin B team has a game with Northwestern Saturday it is expected that about 20 players will now be shifted to Coach Uteritz's squad.

PURDUE COACH PROUD

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 18.—"Even in defeat, I am more than proud of the performance of our squad against Wisconsin Saturday, for an eleven that can fight against a 21 to 0 handicap and come from behind to score two touchdowns is deserving of more praise than the one that keeps battling with the odds in its favor," said Coach Noble Kizer of Purdue tonight.

The game, one of the hardest fought in history, took a heavy toll in injuries, and no practice will be held tomorrow as the squad attempts to recuperate for the game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh next Saturday.

WRESTLING MATCH.

Harry Ebbets, hard punching Brooklyn middleweight, will meet Buck Easterling of Kansas in one of the three feature bouts of eight rounds tonight at White City. They will weigh around 175 pounds.

Bud Saltis, who knocked out Ted Ross two weeks ago, will meet Dick Evans of Youngstown, O. Saltis is a right hand puncher and will floor almost any 160 pounder he hits.

Biff Bennett, Fort Sheridan heavyweight, will face Charlie Young of Cicero in a six round fight. A grudge bout is scheduled between Dick Sisk and Mickey O'Shea. Sisk, with 34 victories to his credit, fouled O'Shea in a previous battle for the only reverse on Dick's record. They will box five rounds at 148 pounds. Joey Freeman, Southtown southpaw, hopes to get back into a winning stride when he tackles his old rival, Benny Goldblatt, in the five round opener.

Promoter Mique Malloy also will stage a 15 minute time limit wrestling match between Al Bennings and Fred Kohler, two light heavyweights.

UTAH STARTS ITS DRIVE TO FOURTH MOUNTAIN TITLE

Denver, Colo., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Utah university's drive for a fourth straight Rocky mountain conference football championship is under way and gaining momentum.

The 43 to 0 jolt the Big Utes plastered on Brigham Young university spoke so loudly that it still reverberates through the mountain region. It dispelled any belief Coach Ike J. Armstrong's team lacked the power of Crimson squads which moved so swiftly and surely through all opposition in 1928, 1929, and 1930.

Utah will descend on the Denver university camp this week and little encouragement is offered that their winning streak, which has reached 25 games, along with three tie scores, will be broken. Denver university's Pioneers fell before the Utah Aggies, 13 to 6, and the Farmers now lead the conference standing with three victories. Wyoming, in spite of a makeshift backfield, romped in with a 32 to 13 victory over Montana State. Colorado college lived up to expectations and nosed out the Colorado Teachers, 9 to 7.

GRAIN TRADERS NOW LEND EAR TO GOOD NEWS

Constructive Items Win Attention.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Conditions in the grain trade have undergone a radical improvement within the last few weeks and expectations are that they will hold the gains and gradually work still higher. Trade leaders express the belief that wheat prices are not likely to run away in the near future, and say that it would be for the best interest of all to have them hold around the present level for the next two months while surpluses are reduced.

Constructive news, which was barred for months, now is receiving due consideration and exerts its influence in making prices. More commission house buying of all grains, particularly in wheat, came into the market last week than in any week in months. A feature was the materially decreased pressure from sellers, although bulges brought profit taking by recent buyers and breaks that followed were short-lived. Closing prices were the best of the week, with cash and futures up 1¼@2¼c, corn 4@5 cents higher, and rye ¼@¾c, compared with the previous week.

Prices Up 7c from Low.

Wheat prices have advanced 7c from the season's low, corn 3¼@3½c, and oats 1@1½c. Prices throughout the world have also moved upward, and there is more disposition among foreigners to buy cash wheat, despite the sharp advance in prices.

Export sales for the week were estimated at 6,000,000 bu Manitoba durums and hard winters, there being more of the latter than recently. Liverpool has bought Russian wheat and exports from that country for the week were 1,448,000 bu, much to the surprise of the trade which had been led to expect small shipments owing to reports of cancellations or changing of loads for boats originally chartered for wheat.

Foreign millers who have been buying Argentine wheat found it too poor and are taking more Canadian and American hard winters. Cables from Argentina to Norris Grain company on Saturday reported damage in the region of Buenos Aires by yellow rust developing in early wheat needing growth in the south, with prospects for the central areas excellent. Some portions of that country suffered from drought. Corn was considered good, but yellow rust appeared, although rains greatly improved conditions in the northeast. Rust was more intense in the southwest with growth somewhat retarded. Santa Fé conditions are good with damage from rust and frost insignificant. A new factor is the possibility of Russia and Japan going to war. It attracts some buying of wheat.

Low Periods of Past Years.

"Will grain prices reach their ultimate low levels and turn upward in advance of security prices?" is the question asked by Lamson Bros. & Co. in comparing present and past market conditions. Wheat prices in 1895 reached their lowest levels in January, or nineteen months before security prices touched bottom. Low prices for corn and oats did not occur until a month or so after the extreme decline in securities, thorough liquidation in coarse grains being delayed by drought and the short corn crop harvested during 1895. In the depression of 1921, wheat made low prices in November of that year. Corn prices were lowest in October, and oats in August, while low levels for securities occurred between the months of June and August.

Speculative trading for the week was greatly in excess of recent weeks, with a fair increase in the open interest, the total aggregating 99,260,000 bu, against 94,420,000 bu in the previous week.

December wheat closed Saturday at 61@61⅛c, March 55c, May 55¾@56c, and July 54⅝@55¼c. Prices follow:

Italy Fortifies Currency with Barricade of Gold

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 18.—To fortify further the position of the lira against any presumption that its present value cannot be maintained, the Fascist government has begun building a higher barricade of gold around it.

Coincident with the revelation Friday that 80 barrels of bar gold [the value of which was not declared] had arrived at Genoa from the United States, Gov. Vincenzo Azzolini of the Bank of Italy announced measures to build up the bank's gold reserve to a level of 40 per cent of the note circulation. He further announced the percentage of actual yellow metal to the note circulation would hereafter be published with the regular monthly statement of the Bank of Italy.

This will be an innovation. It is intended to dissipate any lack of confidence about the possibility of maintaining the lira at its present stabilization quota as may possibly have been hinted in Canada's action in classifying Italy among the countries with depreciated currency in her new tariff schedules—a measure which caused much indignation here.

Cites Gold Reserve.

Up to the present, while the Bank of Italy's reserves have averaged around 54 per cent of the note circulation, these reserves have not all been actual gold. Part was gold, part was foreign treasury notes and credit certificates of foreign countries, including depreciated pound sterling treasury notes. For instance, on Sept. 30, the Bank of Italy's statement showed 5,445,000,000 lire [$283,684,500] in actual yellow metal reserves against a note circulation of 14,474,000,000 lire [$754,095,400], approximately 37 per cent of the reserves against the circulation. Counted as reserves, however, were 2,937,000,000 lire [$153,017,700] in foreign treasury notes and credit certificates which brought the percentage up to well over 50.

It is the government's intention now to fill the discrepancy of the depreciated British treasury notes held with gold withdrawals from America so there will be complete legal coverage of notes in yellow metal.

It is announced that in a statement shortly to be published the Bank of Italy's ratio between paper circulation and gold ingot actually in the bank's vaults will be 37.26 per cent, or about 3 per cent below the legal percentage.

No Change Is Planned.

This, it is claimed, is sufficient to defend the lira and it is reiterated there is no intention to depart at present from the fixed stabilization.

At the same time, it was announced that Italy's exports in September exceeded imports and that for the first nine months of the year the excedence of imports over exports was greatly reduced, both actually and in percentage as compared with last year. The decrease, however, is largely represented in restricted imports, in other words, restricted business.

In connection with all these measures probably some significance should be attached to an article which appeared today in the Stampa, a newspaper in Turin in the heart of the Italian manufacturing region, from the pen of Gino Olivetti, secretary of the Fascist Federation of Industry, a member of the budget commission of the chamber of deputies, and one of the outstanding Italian big business men.

Sees No Value for Pound.

Olivetti warned against a conviction which, he says, still obtains in Italy that after a brief period the pound sterling will go back on the gold basis, that is, be revaluated. He points out that all known factors are against this.

"Everything shows that every financial, economic, political, and moral premise is lacking in England for the revaluation of sterling at the old gold rate," he wrote. "Sterling will have a new gold parity, but it will not be the old one. It may even be predicted that the new gold stabilization rate of the pound will not be anywhere near the old one." Olivetti added, however, that once stabilized where it belongs in accordance with its natural market value, the pound sterling may resume its international function.

Municipal Bond Offerings Ebb; Schedule $8,610,879

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—With a total of only $8,610,879 in new bond offerings scheduled by 46 municipalities this week, the scarcity in number and decline in size of new municipal flotations continue to be two of the outstanding factors in the state and municipal bond market, the Daily Bond Buyer says. The weekly average of offerings of this class for the year to date is $35,652,831. Ramsey county,

ILLINOIS FIRM MAY PURCHASE WINCHESTER CO.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Negotiations for the sale of the Winchester Repeating Arms company of this city, one of the leading munition plants in the country during the world war, to the Western Cartridge Company of East Alton, Ill., were made public today in a statement issued in behalf of bondholders and creditors of the arms company.

The statement, issued jointly by Earl Baillie and Medley G. B. Whelpley, chairmen of the bondholders' committee and the debenture and general creditors' committee, respectively, of the arms company said: "The organization committee is now engaged in formulating such a plan and expects to be able to announce the plan on or before Nov. 1, 1931."

The arms company, established over a half century ago, went into receivership last January. At the time it employed 3,500 persons.

Baillie and Whelpley in issuing the statement said announcement of the negotiations was made at the request of "substantial creditors and the protective committee representing the first mortgage bonds and the debenture bonds," of the arms company.

In the petition for the receivership, the real estate and property of the arms company were valued at $31,646,182 after deduction of reserves. The balance sheet of Dec. 31, 1930, listed the company's assets at $41,561,831 and its liabilities at $37,815,638, including first mortgage bonds of $5,747,000 and debenutes totaling $6,500,000.

Chinese Bank in Manila Fails at Reorganization

MANILA, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Financial circles here were concerned today over the failure of one Chinese bank and a run on another. The Mercantile Bank of China closed its doors a month ago and yesterday failed to accomplish an attempted reorganization in the 30 days allowed by law. This forced a liquidation of the bank. A run was immediately started on the China Banking corporation. Banking commissioners and financiers conferred today with Gov. Gen. Davis to provide ways of preventing the failure of the latter bank.

Auto Operations Step Up Manufacturing Activity

A twenty-three per cent stepup in automobile operations last month contributed to a general rise of three per cent in manufacturing activity throughout the country in September, Electrical World's monthly survey and analysis of electrical energy in 3,800 plants shows. The month's industrial activity moved parallel to last year's change at the same season, and thus continued about 9 per cent below the 1930 rate.

Wage Question, U. S. Credit Aid to Occupy Rail Heads

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—Questions of policy involved in the acceptance of proposed governmental assistance to the rehabilitation of railroad credit are expected to arouse considerable debate at meetings of the Association of Railway Executives to be held in Atlantic City on next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. The importance of the meeting may be judged from its proposed duration. Usually meeting of the association are completed in a day.

There will be other subjects open for discussion at next week's meeting. Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern railway, whose views have in the past sometimes been at variance with other members of the association, raised the question of railway wage adjustments at the annual meeting of his company. The association has not discussed labor problems since the strikes which followed the cessation of government control. Mr. Harrison's remarks, however, indicated that he intended to bring the subject before this meeting.

Preference of Brotherhoods.

By assuming the burden of wage discussion the association would be taking a step favored by organized labor. The railway brotherhoods have always preferred to deal with the railroad managements as a group in negotiations on controversial matters and, in fact, tried last summer to have the association take up its former functions in this matter. The views of Mr. Harrison as quoted would seem to make this development a possibility.

Lacking assent of the labor unions, the railroads could make no reductions in wages without recourse to a lengthy system of mediation and arbitration provided by law. There have been no discussions by managements and union officials on wage reductions. Through layoffs and reductions of working hours, railway pay rolls have been materially reduced since the depression began.

The proposed legislative aid, the labor question, and also the petition for a 15 per cent freight rate increase could occupy all the time of the executives.

May Discuss Report.

However, they may find opportunity for discussion of the report by the federal trade commission condemning methods used by the Waugh Equipment company, which counts among its stockholders officers of Armour & Co., in obtaining business from the railroads. The commission issued an order directing the equipment company to cease seeking orders "by promises and assurances of an increased volume of freight traffic to be shipped over the lines of said railway companies by Armour & Co. or its subsidiary companies or any other shipper of a substantial volume of freight traffic."

The proposed aid from the government might take the form of a $200,000,000 fund to meet interest and maturities on the bonds of embarrassed railroads. This would have a tonic effect on the railroad bond market and it would relieve the managements of savings banks and fiduciary agencies of worry concerning their commitments in these securities. It would also act to prevent defaults on obligations with consequent danger of receiverships.

SEPT. BUSINESS EXPANSION LESS THAN SEASONAL

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Consumer purchases expanded in September in response to seasonal influences and gave an encouraging element to business conditions, the National Industrial Conference Board, Inc., reported today.

Its report, containing the opinions of 10,000 representatives of industrial firms, said that prices of commodities at wholesale, although declining slightly, showed signs of relative stability.

General business activity, the summary said, declined during the month below seasonal expectations, but with a sharp expansion in retail trade "less than the usual seasonal amount." Commercial failures declined slightly.

Among the industries showing the decline were automobiles, steel and pig iron production; building and engineering expanded, as did bituminous coal production and the electric power output.

General distribution of commodities by freight declined 2 per cent, measured by total car loadings, under August, against a normal 3 per cent seasonal increase. Car loadings were 21 per cent below September, 1930.

RUN ON GOLD IS A COMMENTARY ON OUR PERIOD

Is Strange Episode of This Era.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—When the present and uncompleted chapter of strange events comes to be described in economic histories of the longer future a place of high significance will undoubtedly be granted to the American gold movement of this month.

The $600,000,000 gold exports and embarkings were portentous in magnitude, but so were the causes for the movement. In so far as these immense requisitions were hurriedly and excitedly put into force, they have partly reflected the worldwide spirit of hysterical alarm.

That the agitated gossips on the fringe of the Paris bourse should have visualized a "flight from the dollar" merely was in keeping with the day's psychology. But the real significance of the episode is the proof it has supplied that at least our federal reserve and the bankers affiliated with it have preserved their financial equanimity and are still judging events in the light of experience and common sense.

Gold Redistribution.

Such future financial history will undoubtedly emphasize the fact that, however impulsive in its character this recourse of foreign banks to America's gold resources may have been, it has at any rate made possible that "redistribution of gold" the lack of which had seemed the most serious complication in Europe's troubles.

In describing the composure with which our banking authorities have provided these huge amounts of gold, their intimation that Europe could have more if it so desired and was entitled to it, the historian will presumably recall the guarantee by other institutions of the New York companies in the two weeks' run on them in 1907 and the maintenance of foreign gold payments by our bankers at a moment in 1914 when the frightened financial public had concluded that the world was wrecked. His conclusion might be that the only way to stop financial panic and surmount an economic crisis is to see the realities and dismiss the pictures drawn by diseased imagination.

Now Dominate Situation.

That the present situation is absolutely dominated by those pictures it is impossible to deny. The contention is occasionally heard that the world's financial structure is confronted with no complete disaster that actions

METAL MARKET QUIET; BETTER DEMAND NOTED

Prices Firm, Sentiment More Cheerful.

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Although no material change occurred in the steel situation during the last week, a more cheerful tone was apparent, with the trade hopeful that greater confidence resulting from the formation of the National Credit corporation might check the seasonal decline in production at the year-end.

Moderately increased demand from the automobile trade, railroads and miscellaneous lines developed, but steel ingot production remained unchanged at about 29 per cent of capacity. While structural awards were smaller, some finishing plants were reported to be increasing operations. Prices were unchanged. Pig iron remains quiet and steady.

Buyers More Cautious.

Domestic buyers of copper became more cautious when the statistics for September revealed a further sharp increase in refined stocks owing to fairly steady production and decreased shipments. The disposition to await the conference of producers next week, when it is said production policies will be discussed, also checked buying. Custom smelters continue to supply metal at 7 cents for electrolytic in the Connecticut valley, but inquiry is largely confined to 1932 positions. A fair volume of foreign orders is reported daily.

The tin market remained dull, with buyers holding off, reactions occurring at the close of the week in sympathy with declines in London. Buying thus far in October is described as smaller than in the summer months, but sellers generally are not pressing offerings.

Lead Stocks Decline.

Lead remains quiet and steady, with demand limited chiefly to carload lots for immediate shipment. Stocks of refined lead at the end of September show a slight reduction from a readjusted end-August figure, but are still said to be larger than immediate consuming needs.

Zinc eased further under pressure by smelters who are seeking business, but buyers remain cautious, possibly awaiting indications of more stable market conditions. Antimony held about steady, with inquiries limited to a few carload lots. No firm offerings are reported from China.

QUIET SETTLES OVER CURB AS PRICES TURN UP

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—After easily handling a considerable volume of secondary selling the curb market improved quietly last week, although the movement was narrow.

Offerings decreased after the middle of the week. Buyers were cautious, however, and thus rising tendencies failed to gain momentum. However, many traders regarded the dullness as a favorable symptom.

The utility group was the most active section of the market. Profit taking early in the week cut the recent gains roughly in half. However, the subsequent advance won back part of the losses and a few leaders managed to return approximately to their highs for the recovery. United Light "A" was particularly firm. Electric Bond and Share met support around 20 after appearance of the earnings statement for the twelve months ended Sept. 30, showing $1.75 a share for the issue.

Industrial stocks were dull, with the exception of usual erratic movers such as Aluminum of America, Singer, and a few others. Olis also displayed an unwillingness to do much, although Standard of Indiana was strong at times. Wall street believes Petroleum company earnings for the third quarter were substantially better than those for the second three months of the year, inasmuch as disastrous price wars were eliminated and crude prices firmed.

Investment trust shares remained in the doldrums. Supplies of active issues were scanty and the demand was equally quiet.

Order Low Rates on New Gas in 7 Illinois Counties

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 17.—(AP)—The Illinois commerce commission has ordered lower gas rates for McHenry, Kane, Cook, Du Page, De Kalb, Kendall, and Will counties than those already scheduled by the Western United Gas and Electric company, for a new mixture of natural and artificial gases the company proposes to sell. The commission, in response to petitions of thirty municipalities in the counties, directed the company to file a reduced experimental rate schedule for the new gas before it begins serving it. The company originally proposed tariffs ranging from 2½ to 30 per cent lower than those now in effect. The commission's order calls for reductions of from 5 to 30 per cent, except in Batavia, Geneva, St. Charles, Wheaton, and Elmhurst, where higher rates were sanctioned because the company must pay part of their revenue into the municipal treasuries.

Estimate September Shoe Output 5.6% Above Yr. Ago

The New York Hide exchange reports that, according to preliminary estimates, shoe production during September amounted to 31,000,000 pair, or 5.6 per cent above output for the like month last year when production totaled 29,324,000 pairs. September was the seventh consecutive month to register a material increase over the corresponding month last year. Total production for the first nine months this year, including the preliminary estimate for September, was 250,067,000 pairs, against 240,339,000 pairs last year.

TO TACKLE OIL DIFFICULTIES IN MEETING HERE

Trade Leaders to Hear Robert P. Lamont.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—Serious efforts to solve the difficulties in the oil industry will be made at the twelfth annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute, to start in Chicago on Nov. 10 and lasting three days. The decision to devote the sessions to general problems and policies is a new departure for the institute, as considerable time at previous meetings was devoted to technical discussions.

For the first time in several years a high governmental official will address the convention. Robert P. Lamont, secretary of commerce, will speak at the annual dinner on Nov. 11. His subject has not been announced, but he is expected to speak generally on the business trend and specifically on conditions in the petroleum industry and efforts made by federal and state governments and the oil interests to better the situation.

The anti-trust laws, which are regarded by many in the oil business as the principal statutory barrier to essential self-regulation, will be considered at the general session on the opening day of the convention when Jesse Butro of the Standard Oil Company of California will talk on "The Anti-Trust Laws and the National Recovery Industries."

To Talk on East Texas.

East Texas, which has been much in the public eye in the last year because of the rapid and enormous development of its oil areas, will be featured in the address of Col. J. Louis Thompson of Kilgore, Tex., on "East Texas and East Texans."

Evasion of gasoline taxes is to be discussed by Clyde L. King, secretary of revenue of Pennsylvania, who will explain how the problem is being met in Pennsylvania. William A. McAfee of the Standard Oil Company of Ohio will consider uniform gasoline tax laws as a means of preventing evasion.

The newer ideas to control production, which include proration, unitization and conservation, will be reviewed from the viewpoint of both industry and government. The report of the chairman of the production division, Robert R. Penn of the Penn Oil company, Dallas, Tex., will review the accomplishments of the institute in that field.

The industry's particular interest in proration and conservation will be stressed in addresses by J. Edgar Pew of the Sun Oil company, John R. Suman of the Humble Oil and Refining company and W. P. Z. German of the Indian Oil company, covering policies and engineering and legal aspects.

Reviews Conservation.

Strides made by governments of oil-producing states to enforce conservation laws will be reviewed by C. B. Ames of the Texas company in an address on "Agreement Between the Oil Producing States to Insure Uniformity in Conservation Law and its Administration."

A forecast of the demand for petroleum products and the supply required to meet it, covering nine months, will be presented in reports of independent and separate committees, one representing the federal oil conservation board and the other the institute.

START PAYMENT OF DEFERRED STEEL DIVIDENDS

Directors of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company have begun a complete task of distributing $1,700,000 in deferred dividends to shareholders who had opposed merger with the Bethlehem Steel corporation.

In cases where ownership of the dissenting stock has not been transferred, payments of the dividends will be a simple matter, but thousands of these have been transferred, some of them several times, since the stockholders' war over the proposed consolidation.

First the ownership of these shares will have to be ascertained, the next matter the stock was transferred with or without accrued dividend rights. Officials of Sheet and Tube estimated the task would require at least six months in some cases.

The $1,700,000 piled up in a special fund set aside for dissenting shares, from the merger fight began nineteen months ago, the company has declared six dividends, totaling $5.25 a share.

SEE ATTEMPT TO FORM NEW TRUNK LINE TO GULF

Purchase of the Allegheny corporation's holdings in the Kansas City Southern Railway by the Chicago Great Western Railroad company gives indications of an attempt to form a third major trunk line from the great lakes to the Gulf of Mexico, it is asserted.

Wall street was reported dubious, however, of the success of the plan, because it conflicts with the allocations made by the interstate commerce commission.

If such plans of the Chicago Great Western management are consummated, there will be three systems extending north and south across the country and competing for the traffic between Chicago and the gulf. Present systems serving this territory are the Illinois Central and the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy-Gulf, Mobile and Northern-New Orleans, Great Northern hookup.

Originally, L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, planned a north-south trunk line in which the K. C. Southern would have been linked with the St. Louis South Western, but the interstate commerce commission refused to approve his plans. He disposed of his interests to Wall street bankers and the Van Sweringens obtained the road from them.

As of Dec. 31 last, Allegheny's holdings of the K. C. Southern stock comprised 106,100 shares, considerably less than an amount representing actual control, but probably constituting a working majority.

162 INDUSTRIAL FIRMS IMPROVE LIQUID POSITION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—The liquid position of industrial corporations continued to improve during the year ended June 30, 1931, according to a comparison of the balance sheets of 162 companies compiled by Ernst & Ernst, accountants. The survey shows that the companies raised the ratio of their current assets to current liabilities from 5.49 to one as of June 30, 1930, to 6.93 to one as of June 30, 1931. On June 30, 1929, the ratio was 4.73 to one.

Based upon the department of labor statistics, the survey declares, an average decline of 27 per cent occurred in the general commodity price index in the two years following June 30, 1929, while finished products declined 23½ per cent.

Farmers in 6 western drought states have borrowed $335,033 from the government with which to feed their live stock. Montana has received the most, $170,352. Other states: North Dakota, $152,566; South Dakota, $8,623; Washington, $2,602; Wyoming, $350, and Nebraska, $400. No loans have been made in Utah, Nevada, Idaho, and Minnesota, where they were made available recently for some needy counties. These loans do not include loans made last spring for planting after the drought.

Holiday Items Feature Furniture Market Trade

Manufacturers of furniture turned again to Christmas merchandise this week when a temporary lull in the demand for current goods developed. Producers of novelty furniture enjoyed an active demand from wholesalers several weeks ago, but since that time buyers have been too busy with fall furnishings to give attention to holiday items. The purchasing this week has been confined almost entirely to end and bridge tables, small tea carts and stands, bookcases, and desks.

REPORT RISE OF OIL PRODUCTION IN SOVIET UNION

Crude oil production in the soviet union during the first nine months of this year was 16,471,000 metric tons [103,610,423 barrels], exceeding by 3,300,000 tons [20,758,571 barrels], or about 25 per cent, the production for the same period in 1930, the government announces.

Crude oil production for all of 1913 was 9,200,000 tons. Owing to increasing development of the "cracking" system, 252,000 tons of benzine were produced during the nine months this year, as against only 23,000 tons in 1930, it was stated.

Loose-Wiles Biscuit.

Net earnings showed a steady increase from 1921 through 1929. In 1930 the company reported net of $3,402,608 or $3.87 per common share after deductions of preferred dividends of subsidiary companies, against record net income of $2,732,096 or $4.88 per common share for 1929. Net income for 1928 was $2,315,714 and for 1927 $1,916,698.

For the first half of 1931 net profit was $1,067,433 or $1.70 per common share, against $1,010,753 or $1.73 per common share on a smaller number of shares for the first half of 1930. Lower prices for raw materials used have reduced costs while prices for the finished products have been fairly well maintained.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $9,265,490 and current liabilities were $2,206,650. Working capital was $7,058,840, against $6,243,728 the year before. Funded debt was $930,000. There were outstanding 38,713 shares of $7 preferred [par $100] and 548,303 shares of common [par $25].

The common is on an annual dividend basis of $2.60 per share. Extra dividends in 1931 to Nov. 2 total 40 cents per share. In 1930 extra dividends totaled 20 cents per share. The company has shown its ability to report favorable earnings against strong competition.

The preferred is high grade. The common deserves a fairly good rating.

Pennsylvania Dixie Cement.

Will you please give me an opinion on stock of Pennsylvania Dixie Cement corporation?—D. R. L.

Pennsylvania Dixie Cement corporation's eight plants are well situated in the east to supply consumers. Competition in the industry is severe, especially on the Atlantic seaboard, where foreign producers find a market. The industry suffers from overcapacity. Increasing use of cement in construction of roads has helped, but has not been sufficient to prevent the price for cement from dropping to its lowest level in many years in June, 1931.

For the twelve months ended June 30, 1931, net loss of the company was $115,551, against net income of $364,553 or 32 per cent of preferred dividend requirements for the preceding twelve months.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $6,507,256 and current liabilities were $636,475. There were outstanding 135,583 shares of 7 per cent preferred [par $100] and 400,000 no par common shares. Funded debt was $10,487,000. No dividends have been paid on the preferred since Sept. 15, 1929. At the close of 1930 accumulations totaled $8.75 per share. The preferred and common are highly speculative.

If you live in a radius of 50 miles of Chicago, can give good references as to character and as a worker, between 23 and 50 years of age, and have a neat appearance, come in, see our wonderful product which is never sold but by demonstration. Why pay more than Household's low rate?

The Nationally known Household Loan Plan offers cash loans of $50 to $300 to husbands and wives at reasonable rates.

Household's rate on all loans above $100 is almost one-third lower than the maximum permitted by the small-loan law. We voluntarily established this low rate in 1928, and our customers have benefited ever since. This rate remains the same until the loan is paid off. It does not increase as the unpaid balance decreases.

For example:
